San Rafael Woman Doctor Kidnaped, Escapes

An elderly San Rafael woman doctor was kidnapped yesterday and taken by gunpoint to Albany after she agreed to aid two teen-age girls in distress at the Northgate Shopping Center.

San Rafael police said Dr. Katherine H. Leicester, 70, of 188 Bret Harte Road, San Rafael, managed to call for aid when she was sent into an Albany grocery store to purchase three cola drinks.

The two girls drove off in Dr. Leicester's 1965 white Buick Skylark, license BEK 383, when she entered the store, she said. The car, which had not been recovered today, contained numerous Christmas packages purchased by Dr. Leicester earlier in the day. In the trunk was her medical bag containing a "substantial" amount of narcotics, including morphine, police said.

The two girls were described as well-dressed Negroes 18 to 20 years old and from 5 feet 4 inches to 5 feet 6 inches tall.

Dr. Leicester, a well-known internist and heart specialist on the staffs of both Marin General and Ross hospitals, told police she had returned at 4:30 p.m. to her parked car after an afternoon of Christmas shopping at the Northgate Shopping Center when the two girls approached and asked for a ride to the Greyhound bus station.

She said the girls told her they had been shopping, had become separated from their companions and were lost, tired and without a ride to their homes in the East Bay.

One girl said, "My mother will kill me" for being late, Dr. Leicester said.

Dr. Leicester said she agreed to give the girls a ride because "it was raining, they appeared tired and their story seemed plausible." She said both were polite and spoke in "cultivated voices."

It was the first time she had ever picked up a hitchhiker, Dr. Leicester said today. "My husband always warned me against it and I followed his advice until yesterday, and now I feel so guilty."

She said she suggested she aid them in calling their mothers from the shopping center but the two said a ride to the bus stop would be sufficient.

She agreed to drive the two to the San Rafael bus depot, but began to feel uneasy once the car was on Highway 101 when one of the girls, sitting in the back seat, kept urging her to pull off to the side of the road.

Dr. Leicester said she insisted on driving to San Rafael but once there was ordered to pull over near Lincoln and Mission avenues.

After she had stopped the car she saw that the other girl, sitting in the front seat, was holding what appeared to be a chrome plated .45 caliber revolver. The girl snatched the car keys from the ignition. Then

Lake County Bid To Join Bridge Board Protested

Bay Directors Claim Attempt Being Made To Change Balance

The Lake County Board of Supervisors has voted unanimously to annex that county to the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District, it was learned yesterday.

The supervisors' vote, the first time any county has sought to join the six-county district since it was formed 40 years ago, was on Oct. 28, but came to light yesterday at the bridge board's regular meeting at the toll plaza. (Another bridge board story, page 20.)

The Humboldt County Board of Supervisors also was reported to be about to seek annexation to the district.

Annexation requires approval of the bridge board and new legislation.

Bridge directors yesterday referred the Lake County resolution to the legislation and finance commitees.

The request immediately drew fire from Marin and San Francisco directors as an attempt by the northern counties to undermine a new state law that expanded the bridge board and added elected officials from Marin, San Francisco and Sonoma counties. The other counties in the district are Napa, Mendocino and Del Norte.

Marin director Joseph E. Sheeks of Belvedere told the Independent-Journal that "if there are going to be any additional votes, they ought to be from Marin County, which has more at stake in the district than any other county, other than San Francisco."

"There doesn't seem to be any reason at this late date for them to join."

San Francisco supervisor William C. Blake, who took his seat on the bridge board yesterday under the new law, called the Lake County petition "utterly ridiculous."

Both Sides Cheer S.F. State Closing

Strikers Vow To Keep Up Efforts After Reopening

COMBINED AP & UPI

SAN FRANCISCO — The decision by acting president S. I. Hayakawa to close embattled San Francisco State College a week early for Christmas vacation drew praise from friend and foe alike today.

Hayakawa made his surprise announcement yesterday noon from the police lookout atop the administration building over a battery of powerful new loudspeakers.

He said the campus would be closed from Dec. 14 through Jan. 5 with the extra week tacked onto the end of the semester. He then wished the stunned pickets and demonstrators below a Merry Christmas.

Loud cheers swept the grassy commons and picketing faculty members and students stopped marching and started to sing Christmas carols.

Dissidents called the extended vacation a victory. Roger Alvarado of the Third World Liberation Front—a coalition of non-Negro minority students — said that the next three weeks would be spent on intensive campaigns to "educate" ghetto neighborhoods and enlist their support. He promised renewed militancy when school reopens Jan. 6.

But State College Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke and Theodore H. Meriam, president of the State College board of trustees, also praised the decision. So did Mayor Joseph Alioto of San Francisco, who said that the holiday period would provide an

San Mateo Campus Riot Injures 12

SAN MATEO (UPI) — A rampaging mob of Negro and other militant minority students swarmed on the College of San Mateo campus yesterday, beating students and faculty members and shattering scores of windows in five buildings.

Twelve persons were injured, including three teachers, in the second day of disorders at the junior college 20 miles south of San Francisco.

Dennis Knudson, 26, a student from San Mateo, was battered to the ground by militants in front of the electronics technology building. He was taken to the intensive care unit at San Mateo County General Hospital with head injuries.

News photographers were beaten and their cameras wrecked. The buildings sustained thousands of dollars in damage. The militants struck out indiscriminately in anyone who came near, reports said.

The violent outburst started after a scheduled noon rally for increased educational opportunities for Negroes and other nonwhites.

About 1,500 of the school's 6,000 day students were at the

Sonoma State Recruits Set Strike Journey

Striking students and nonstrikers clashed verbally at Sonoma State College at a noon rally yesterday to discuss violence at San Francisco State College.

Strikers told of police brutality and vowed to return Monday for another confrontation — even though the San Francisco college will be closed for holidays. Leaders of the strike committee urged students and faculty of Sonoma State to join the cavalcade to San Francisco at 9 a.m. Monday.

In a tense and emotional gathering of more than 500 in the student lounge, nonstriking students fought for use of the microphone to question the militant methods of the strikers.

The strikers shouted down their adversaries several times, telling them the strike committee was in charge of the meeting and they had no right to speak. Nonstrikers retaliated with shouts of "anarchists" and "communists."

The parade of protesters to the podium told of Thursday's struggle at San Francisco and issued safety guidelines for Monday's encounter. They warned students to remain in large groups at all times. "If you stay in groups of 15 or 20, the police won't attack you," they claimed.

Others advised demonstrators to never run, but walk quietly through the campus. "If you panic — well, the pigs really love that," a leader said.

Young Suspects Take Police On Theft Tour

One of four San Francisco youths arrested for burglary in San Rafael Thursday led sheriff's officers on a tour of his gang's burglary scenes in Southern Marin yesterday.

Lt. Harvey E. Teague, commander of the sheriff's juvenile bureau, said the tour cleared up eight burglaries in Homestead Valley, Tamalpais Valley and Sausalito.

Arrested were Dawn Diane McCormick, 15, Richard Gilbert Munday, 17, Randolph Frank Lopez and Craig Randall Button, both 16.

The teens used two stolen cars, always the same brand, on their burglary runs, Teague said.

When arrested in San Rafael, they had two stolen cars. The back seat of one had been torn out to make room for burglary loot, San Rafael officers said.

Teague said the teens, who said there were five others in their gang from Washington High School, told him they went into Marin houses looking mainly for color television sets, but took money, jewelry and lots of clothing as well.

With their loot loaded into the stolen cars, they would return to San Francisco and cruise the streets, often in the financial district, selling television sets and stereos at cut rates to passing businessmen, Teague said.

They would sell an $1,100 television console for $150 "and most people find that kind of price very hard to resist," Teague said.

The teens told the lieutenant that two of them started the burglary operation on their own in October, but that seven other students and friends joined them

Table Shape Still Stalls Paris Talks

PARIS (AP) — Rival Vietnamese clashed over their latest peace conference table shape plans today while U.S. envoys voiced guarded hope for an accord in time to start the sessions before Christmas.

The Viet Cong's National Liberation Front announced another move in the preconference prestige battle: the arrival Monday of Tran Buu Kiem, ranked as "foreign minister," to head its delegation.

Kim's arrival will give the Communists opportunity to stage an airport rally rivaling that for Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky's team when it flew in from South Vietnam last Sunday.

The immediate status argument holding up the long-delayed peace conference deals with seating arrangements.

By late yesterday, North Vietnamese and U.S. negotiators, who a fortnight ago began with competing designs for square and rectangular tables, had geometrically narrowed their differences to the point where both were offering versions of round tables.

A South Vietnamese spokesman made plain Saturday, however, that Hanoi's latest plan—for an undivided round table—was not to the liking of the Saigon delegation.

"The round table is not acceptable to us because we have come here understanding that it was to be a conference of two sides," the spokesman said.

The delegates are taking the

Radio Hanoi Hints More U.S. Airmen To Go Free

TOKYO (UPI)—Radio Hanoi broadcasts said today U.S. pilots held captive in North Vietnam will be released and returned to their families for Christmas.

The broadcast, repeated in several languages, made no mention of the number of Americans to be freed. Neither did it give any names.

The broadcast, quoting the official Communist Vietnam News Agency, said the political bureau of the Vietnam Armed Forces and the Vietnam government had decided to free the captives for "humanitarian reasons."

A total of 1,215 Americans are known to be prisoners of the North Vietnamese or are listed as missing in action in North and South Vietnam. The figure includes 336 known to be captives and 879 listed as missing.

Most of the captives are airmen whose planes were shot down during raids over the Communist north.

S.F. Campus Closure Leaves Demands Still Not Settled

SAN FRANCISCO — Closing of San Francisco State College one week early for Christmas holidays yesterday followed a series of violent events that began Nov. 6 in attempts to impose 10 demands by the Black Students Union.

The BSU was joined during the six-week turmoil by the Third World Liberation Front, claiming to represent non-black minority students, with five demands of its own.

The 10 demands, which the BSU has held are nonnegotiable, are:

1. That all black studies courses immediately be made part of the black studies department and all instructors in this department receive fulltime pay.
2. That Nathan Hare, head of the black studies department, be made a full professor.
3. That the black studies department grant a bachelor's degree in black studies, and that its chairman and faculty have the sole power to hire and fire for the department.
4. That all entrance "slots" allotted to black students under the college's special admissions program (waiving usual academic requirements) be filled for the spring semester.
5. That all black students who wish to attend the college be admitted next fall, regardless of whether they have filled academic requirements and of whether the college enrollment limit is exceeded.
6. That 20 fulltime teaching positions be allocated to the department of black studies.
7. That a black person be

Brazil Opens Politics, Press Crackdown

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Armed with sweeping new powers, the military-dominated government of President Arthur da Costa e Silva today began a massive crackdown on its opposition.

Congress was given an indefinite vacation, censors moved into newspaper offices and police began making widespread arrests. Among the first reported in custody were a former president, a federal deputy and some journalists.

Former president Juscelino Kubitscheck, who was stripped of his political rights and ousted from the Senate in 1964, was arrested at the municipal theater where he had been attending a graduation ceremony.

JOURNALIST ARRESTED

Osvaldo Peralva, superintend-Correio da Manha, was arrested Correio da Manha was arrested in his office after police shot open a door to gain entry to the newspaper building yesterday.

Four censors occupied the Correio da Manha offices and others moved into Rio's other newspapers. There were unconfirmed reports that opposition publisher Helio Fernandez also was taken in custody, and that opposition deputy Helio Navarro had been arrested in Sao Paulo.

The government crackdown began last night minutes after Costa e Silva and his cabinet signed a new institutional act overriding the 22-month-old Brazilian constitution.

The act, effective immediately with no terminal date, allows the president to strip any Brazilian of his political rights; declare a state of siege; and seize the assets of those who "illegally enrich themselves in public office." It also suspends the writ of habeas corpus for anyone charged with "crimes against national security."

The latter provision is expected to result in the rearrest of students and government opposition leaders recently released from jail. It also precludes a release order for three priests and a Brazilian deacon held in an army barracks in Belo Horizonte on charges of subversion and organizing guerrilla warfare.

STRONGMAN NAMED

Sources say the military strongman behind the government is Gen. Siseno Sarmento, chief of staff and commander of the powerful Rio-based First Army. A 62-year-old World War II veteran, Sarmento became chief of staff after the 1964 coup and became 1st Army commander in March after a stint as boss of the Sao Paulo-based 2nd Army.

ACT DEFENDED

The government said the act was issued because of "revolutionary war" being waged by persons "unwilling to understand" the movement that brought Brazil's military-backed regime to power in 1964.

It acknowledged the act—the fifth to be issued since the ouster of left-leaning President Joao Goulart in 1964—was an "exceptional move." But it said the measure is essential to "safeguard the higher interests of the nation."

Costa e Silva signed the act after 24 hours of rising tension following a stinging government defeat in Congress.

Members of the government's National Renewal Alliance party ARENA had joined members of the opposition Brazilian Democratic Movement MDB in killing a motion to try Deputy Marcio Moreira Alves on charges of abusing his civil rights. The charges stemmed from a series of antimilitary speeches Moreira Alves made recently on the floor of Congress.

California Gets Slim Share Of Road Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government has added about 1,500 miles of highways to the interstate system — about 110 miles of the total in California.

Secretary of Transportation Alan S. Boyd announced the allocation yesterday.

Although California had recommended nine projects totaling 433 miles, only three of its projects were approved.

The largest, a 102.5-mile section of Interstate 8 from San Diego to join Interstate 10 near Colton in San Bernardino County, would virtually complete an interstate highway route from San Diego to the Canadian border near Calgary.

The other projects are smaller: a 1.6-mile extension of Interstate 280 in San Mateo County, and a 5.5-mile addition to the San Gabriel River Freeway (Interstate 605) beginning at Interstate 10 near the southwest edge of Baldwin Park and ending at the Foothill Freeway (Interstate 210) at Irwindale in Los Angeles County.

Funds for the projects were not included in the Department of Transportation's allocations. The money will be requested from Congress after the next interstate highway cost estimate is presented early in 1970.

However, a spokesman for the California Department of Public Works in Sacramento said engineers can proceed with design work on the projects, which will be financed with 90 per cent federal funds and 10 per cent state money.

Dual Transplant Patient Dies; Brain Clot Blamed

STANFORD (UPI) — A retired airline pilot who became the first person to undergo two heart transplants died yesterday of a blood clot on the brain.

Doctors at Stanford Medical Center said Darrell Hammarley' third heart continued to function "normally" up to the time of his death. There were no signs of rejection.

The 56-year-old San Jose man lived for 22 days with his third heart. He suffered a stroke Thursday morning and his condition deteriorated rapidly.

A preliminary autopsy indicated Hammarley's death and the initial stroke were both caused by a blood clot.

A surgical team headed by Dr. Norman Shumway placed a new heart in Hammarley's chest on Nov. 20. When the heart failed to beat steadily it was removed and another heart was transplanted. Both hearts came from anonymous donors.

The world's only other double recipient, Everett C. Thomas, 47, Phoenix, Ariz., died a few hours after receiving his second heart. The operation was performed by Dr. Denton Cooley at St. Luke's Hospital in Houston.

Hammarley is survived by his widow, Winifred, and two sons, John, 16, and 1st Lt. Robert Hammarley, 26, stationed with the Air Force at Wichita Falls, Tex.

Cancer Vaccine Company Faces Fraud Charges

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A federal grand jury has indicted James Rand III and his Rand Development Corp. on charges growing out of the promotion of an experimental cancer vaccine manufactured by the Cleveland-based company.

The indictment returned yesterday charged three counts of mail fraud and three counts of stock manipulation, which carry on conviction penalties of up to 21 years in prison and up to $45,000 in fines.

It was charged that Rand and his company, in exchange for loans on Rand vaccine stock, knowingly made false statements about the vaccine's results in attacking cancer and saving terminal cancer patients.

Rand was accused in the indictment of devising a master scheme to artificially stimulate the stock in order to defraud the Franklin National Bank of New York and Rand Development stockholders.

Kremlin Foes Keep Posts

PRAGUE (UPI)—A communist party central committee meeting apparently adjourned without firing any of the men who wrote the reforms that once made Czechoslovakia the most liberal communist nation, informed sources said today.

The meeting broke up last night with only a brief comment on a proposed reshuffle in the cabinet scheduled for Jan. 1 when the nation is federalized into Czech and Slovak republics.

Workers and students had protested a reported move to at least demote Joseph Smrkovsky, president of parliament. To aid Smrkovsky some workers had vowed to stage a general strike. He has been a target of increasing Soviet criticism since the Aug. 21 Warsaw Pact invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Smrkovsky helped write the reforms instituted last spring and has been an outspoken proponent of the liberalization.

Strangler Kidnaps Warden And Wife

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — A convicted murderer attacked State Prison Warden Frederick Reincke today and forced the 69-year-old warden and his wife to drive him to Hartford.

State police launched an intensive search for 33-year-old David F. Mabery, who was described as "extremely dangerous."

Warden Reincke suffered wounds from a sharp instrument on his shoulder and back. He was listed in satisfactory condition in Hartford hospital.

Mrs. Marjorie Reincke, 63, was examined at the hospital and released.

Mabery, who was serving a life sentence for second degree murder, was a trusty who worked in the warden's home at the State Prison in Somers, north of Hartford.

State police said Mabery jumped the warden at about 1:30 a.m. and forced Reincke and Mrs. Reincke to take him in their car.

The convict left the Reinckes off West Service Road near Interstate 91 just north of downtown Hartford.

Mabery was reportedly carrying a tire iron and a blanket, and wearing a white hospital-orderly type uniform with bloodstains on it. He was described as a Negro, 5-foot-7, medium build.

State police said Mabery may have headed for New Haven, where he once lived.

Mabery pleaded guilty on Feb. 31, 1961, to second degree murder in the strangling of a 15-month-old boy.

The baby was the child of his girl friend, Mrs. Ruth Henderson of New Haven. Mabery choked the child with a bathrobe and burned him in a back yard.

A sanity test was made on Mabery before he was ordered to stand trial, and psychiatrists described him as a "psychopathic personality."

Mabery was sentenced on March 10, 1961, and has been in prison ever since. Eventually he won status as a trusty, and last July was assigned to the warden's residence, primarily to look after the warden's 90-year-old mother-in-law.

Unruh Not Labor Foe, He Stresses

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman Jesse M. Unruh says his criticism of the trade union movement was made as "a friend of labor."

The Inglewood Democrat said yesterday he was disturbed by interpretations placed on his statements that labor has failed to help solve the problem of unemployment among minority groups.

"Nothing that I said should be construed as implying that I am bitter towards labor," Unruh said in a statement issued by his office.

"I have made my criticisms as a friend of labor, and I have voiced them because I want labor to succeed in its announced goal, not because I want it to fail," he added. "Labor can succeed only if its friends are courageous enough to look at its procedures dispassionately and objectively."

Unruh, Assembly speaker for seven years, pointed to a "decline of liberalism in organized labor" in a 33-page booklet published by his office. The booklet consists mostly of speeches Unruh made during the fall election campaign and some articles he has written.

In the booklet, Unruh said: "Minority unemployment is almost universally recognized as the principal canker in our central cities. The labor movement could be expected to be in the forefront of attacking this problem, but it is not.

"There is not even any very effective self-policing of discrimination in most labor unions. Racism in the building trades unions is a national scandal.

"It can be most convincingly argued that the policies of the National Association of Manufacturers regarding minority employment are often more progressive than those of the AFL-CIO," he said.

New Pueblo Move Hinted

SEOUL (UPI)—The United States today told South Korea it will make a move soon to get the release of the crew of the captured U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo before the end of 1968, the newspaper Dong-A Ilbo said.

The newspaper said the information was conveyed by U.S. Charge Wade L. Lathram in a meeting with vice foreign minister Chin Pil-shik of South Vietnam today.

The newspaper said Lathram said negotiations toward release of the Pueblo crewmen had progressed rapidly in the past weeks.

The Pyongyang government has insisted the United states apologize for intruding in North Korean waters and for spying as a condition to release of the vessel and its crew.

Neither U.S. nor South Korean officials were immediately available for comment on the newspaper report.

LBJ Cites Friendship On Border

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson says the friendly settling of a century-old dispute with Mexico should show other nations that borders "are not just lines across which men shake their fists in anger."

The President included this message for nations overseas yesterday as he and President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz of Mexico, standing on a bridge midway between their countries, detonated a dynamite charge that diverted the Rio Grande river and formed a new southern border for the United States.

The blast and the meeting of the two presidents in an atmosphere of joviality and friendship returned to Mexico some 400 acres of land that has been in dispute since great floods of the mid-10th century shifted the Rio Grande's course.

Accompanying President, who later flew to his ranch for the weekend, was his wife, Lady Bird.

Before the two presidents detonated the charge, they exchanged praises on the length of the friendship betwen the two countries.

"We have shown that borders between nations are not just lines across which men shake their fists in anger," Johnson said. "They are also lines across which men may clasp hands in common purpose and friendship —and we have done so."

Red Satellite Up

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union launched today its 250th unmanned satellite of the Cosmos series. Tass said it was designed to carry on the Russian space exploration program.

The satellite was in a cigar-shaped orbit, ranging from 135 miles to 840 miles above the earth. Those in lower, near circular orbits are believed by Western scientists to be spy satellites.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Draft Case Dropped

TOKYO (AP) — The United States will not seek the arrest of a Japanese youth who was drafted in America and later went absent without leave from the U.S. Army in Vietnam, a U.S. Embassy spokesman said today.

Tetsuo Shimizu, 24, told a news conference in Toyko Sept. 16 that he decided not to return to Vietnam from his rest and recreation leave in Japan because "after two months fighting in the war front I have come to realize that this war is nasty and meaningless."

Shimizu said he was "sick and tired of killing enemy soldiers" and said his antiwar sentiments were shared by "many American soldiers fighting in Vietnam."

Shimizu said he went to the United States two years ago as a tourist and decided to extend his stay in Los Angeles to attend college. He said immigration officials told him to register with a U.S. draft board.

But, he said, "I had never thought to be called up because I am a Japanese citizen." He was drafted in September 1967.

Launching Delayed

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE (AP) — High winds in the upper atmosphere again delayed launching of the eighth Essa weather satellite today.

A U.S. Space Agency spokesman said the launching, originally set for Thursday, would be attempted tomorrow if weather conditions improve.

The spacecraft is designed to photograph the earth's cloud cover from a 900-mile-high polar orbit.

Floods Hit Brazil

BELO HORIZONTE, Brazil (UPI) — Local authorities today reported more than 7,000 persons homeless in scores of towns flooded by the Itanhem River. Snakes driven from holes by high water threatened residents of one town.

Health agencies appealed to drug firms for smallpox and typhus vaccine which was collected and rushed to affected areas by air force helicopter.

A week of heavy spring rains caused the flooding over a wide area of Minas Gerais State, destroying crops and causing heavy damage.

Authorities said hundreds of snakes driven to higher ground by floodwaters endangered the 2,000 residents of the town of Machacalis.

Alioto Bows

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mayor Joseph L. Alioto says he would support a sales tax increase to finance completion of the Bay Area Rapid Transit District (BART) — but only "as a last-ditch measure."

The mayor said yesterday he would not support the tax increase if there were any feasible alternatives for raising the estimated $146 million or more BART needs to finish construction.

Alioto added that if a proposed one-half cent sales tax boost does pass the Legislature, "I would lobby to get relief from it as soon as possible."

Quads In Africa

LOURENCO MARQUES, Mozambique (AP) — A 32-year-old African housewife who four years ago had quintuplets gave birth to quadruplets at midnight yesterday in Holy Soul Hospital here.

Doctors said the quads, about one month premature, had a good chance of survival. The mother, Mrs. Clara Felisberto Mutangua, from the small village of Zavala in this Portuguese East African territory, was termed in excellent condition.

The babies, three boys and a girl weighing between four pounds six ounces and four pounds, were placed in an incubator.

On Nov. 14, 1964, Mrs. Mutangua gave birth to quintuplets. Four of them survived and are now healthy children.

Campus Occupied

PANAMA (AP) — In a swift operation before dawn, National Guard troops occupied the campus of the University of Panama today without firing a shot.

The ruling military junta announced the university will remain closed, stopping a campus feud, while a board of regents to be named soon will draft a program of reforms. The board will have up to six months to draft the reforms.

Tijerina Victory

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Reies Lopez Tijerina, militant leader of a land grant claims group, was acquitted yesterday of charges in the shooting and violence at a rural courthouse in Tierra Amarilla.

The 42-year-old Tijerina said he plans now to pursue his land grant claims "more than ever."

Search Continues

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Venezuelan navy and coast guard vessels resumed their search today for the bodies of 21 persons killed when a Pan American jet crashed into the Caribbean sea off Caracas Thursday night.

Thirty bodies were recovered yesterday from the choppy and shark-infested seas. The airline said nine of them had been identified.

A portion of the plane was reported located under 500 feet of water. Officials said efforts will be made to recover bodies that might be still strapped to their seats.

Cat Leaves Fortune To Its Caretaker

CHICAGO (AP) — A rich Chicago cat died yesterday, leaving his owner about $15,000 richer, and much sadder.

It's the cat, Flat Nose, not the money, which dominates William J. Fields' thinking as he prepared a Monday funeral for his departed friend.

Flat Nose, who would have been 20 on Christmas, the equivalent of 140 human years, was one of five cats left to Fields in 1960 by their original owner, Mrs. Margaret Montgomery. She left $15,000 for their care which was to go to Fields when all were dead.

Two of the cats died in 1963 and two in 1966. All were more than 17 years old. They were buried in the yard of the apartment building Mrs. Montgomery had left to Fields for their lodging. Flat Nose, who apparently died of a heart attack in the building hallway, also will be buried in the yard.

Fields said Flat Nose already had received seven Christmas and birthday cards, with others expected daily until Dec. 25. There were people who called Fields regularly about the cat and will need to be told of his death.

A small birthday party had been planned, Fields said, his niece was coming from St. Louis, and dinner was to feature turkey, rather than the pot roast Flat Nose usually ate.

With the last of the cats gone, Fields plans to just stay and take care of the building. At 79, he said, he has few friends alive and sees little need for the money.

The money, which has gone untouched while Fields and the cats lived on the former hotel waiter's Social Security payments and World War I pension, will be transferred from a lawyer to Fields' bank account, where it will stay until he needs it to live on.

"After all, I don't figure on dying soon," Fields said.

Mrs. Montgomery, a seamstress, at one time had 14 cats. She was a semi-invalid. Fields helped care for her for 18 years before she died.

opportunity to dispose "once and for all" of the problems facing the college. Hayakawa said Gov. Ronald Reagen also had supported the move.

Obscenities were shouted as Hayakawa announced the closing. But there were cheers when in listing reasons for his decision, he said a fire Thursday night in the administration building had destroyed class assignment records for the spring term.

Attendance yesterday appeared about normal in the morning and was reported 70 per cent of normal in the afternoon by school officials. About 800 Negro students and 1,200 of other minorities attend that school.

Police again stayed in the background. Three demonstrators were arrested, bringing the total to 130 arrests for the two weeks since Hayakawa ordered classes resumed.

Violence also flared on another Bay Area college campus yesterday, and in Los Angeles demonstrators burned U.S. flags at two predominantly Negro high schools.

At Diablo Valley College near Concord — like San Mateo a junior college — a coffee room was the scene of a cup-throwing, table-tossing rumpus in which one student's head was gashed.

A school spokesman said the trouble started with an argument among six Negro students.

The Los Angeles flag-burnings involved about 300 pupils at Crenshaw High School and a group police described as nonstudents at Fremont High a few miles east.

At San Francisco State, police stationed on rooftops, in a hovering helicopter and in various buildings did not interfere as they watched the noisy rally fizzle out.

The two weeks of turmoil cost $30,000 in damage from five fires and 50 broken doors and windows, $200,000 in police reinforcements, and 40 injuries, mostly minor.

"We will come back 10 times stronger," said Hari Dillon, a student of American Indian descent who is with both the SDS and Third World.

"Hayakawa and the rest of the pigs are running scared," said Bridges Randall of the BSU. Randall and Dillon are among more than 40 facing suspension.

"Oink, oink, we've got 'em against the wall," said Nathan Hare, Negro coordinator of black studies.

Cotati Police Nab Eight Boys

Cotati police picked up eight minors on suspicion of possession of alcohol last night and early today.

Police said a car driven by Ronald Dean Carli, 19, of 9449 Redwood Highway, Cotati, was stopped on a traffic violation at 10:05 p.m. yesterday on Valparaiso Avenue.

He and three companions were booked into Sonoma County Jail on suspicion of possession of alcohol. Carli was also booked on suspicion of carrying a concealed weapon after officers discovered a revolver in the car.

At 3:05 a.m. today, police stopped another car on a traffic violation and found four more youths with liquor, officers said.

Can Harbor Aid Bolinas Wildlife?

Harbor development in Bolinas Lagoon might even enhance wildlife production, in the opinion of Dr. Joel F. Gustafson of Mill Valley, who is conducting an ecological study of the lagoon.

"We are inclined toward the view that with proper planning and zoning, a harbor development could produce an enhancement of the wildlife production and potential within the lagoon," Dr. Gustafson reports in his phase two report of a three-phase study.

The $6,000 study is financed one-third by the county, one-third by the Bolinas Harbor District, and one-third by the Audubon Canyon ranch and Marin Conservation League.

Gustafson emphasizes that a firm conclusion will have to await his third and final report, due next May.

"This optimistic thought presupposes that any development will employ and conform to the best planning and zoning concepts," he declares.

"Data clearly indicate an enormous number of juvenile fish (one-half of adult size or less) utilize the lagoon," says his report.

Bolinas Lagoon comprises 840 acres of water, bordered by 600 acres of saltmarsh and the Stinson Beach sandspit. It is primarily less than six feet deep.

Dr. Gustafson found the extreme southeast and north ends of the lagoon the highest in organic matter.

No Rec Meeting

The Cotati Parks and Recreation Commission did not hold its scheduled meeting last night because nothing was on the agenda, according to chairman Marguerite Hahn.

The first U.S. patent issued to a woman was in 1809 to Mrs. Mary Kies of Connecticut for a weaving device.

she dragged the petite Dr. Leicester from the driver's seat and placed her next to the right hand door and started driving to Albany.

The girls said they lived in Fremont and were escapees from a juvenile facility, Dr. Leicester said. Police said that a check showed no one fitting their description had escaped recently.

The girls repeatedly warned Dr. Leicester to be quiet but told her she'd be all right if she cooperated. One girl said she would be able to drive her own car home after a few hours, Dr. Leicester said.

While crossing the bridge, the girl driving ordered Dr. Leicester to remove her watch. When she said that it was the last gift from her husband, who died six months ago, the girl said, "That doesn't mean anything to me." The girls also took her purse containing travelers checks and several credit cards, she said.

Dr. Leicester said she made no attempt to call for help at the Richmond-San Rafael bridge toll gate because the girl driving still had the gun.

When they arrived in Albany, the girls said they were thirsty and wanted Dr. Leicester to buy them some colas. They stopped at a small neighborhood grocery store and sent Dr. Leicester into the store with 35 cents to buy the soft drinks.

Once in the store, she told the manager that she was being held up and asked him to call police. "He seemed doubtful but agreed to make the call," she said.

She then took the cola drinks back outside, hoping to stall the girls until police arrived. But the car was gone.

Marin Milk Prices Down Before Yule

The price of milk in Marin County will go down one cent a quart Dec. 22, the state agricultural department announced today.

New milk prices at retail stores, milk depots and dairy farms in Marin County will be 26 cents a quart and 50.5 cents a half gallon.

Sonoma County will also have a cut in milk prices, but only a half cent per quart. Milk in Sonoma will be 51.5 cents a half gallon and 26.5 cents a quart.

The department also said that effective tomorrow, dealers in Marin, Sonoma, Napa and part of Solano County will be permitted to establish a new quantity discount plan for home delivery customers.

Agriculture Director Richard Lyng said: "Effective milk distributors and large retail chains have been able to realize considerable savings in distribution costs. The milk consumers should receive part of these savings."

U.S. Orders GI Curfew In Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command imposed a nighttime curfew on American servicemen in Saigon today following warnings that the enemy was preparing to launch a winter offensive.

The curfew bars U.S. troops from Saigon streets between 7 p.m. and 6 a.m., a comand spokesman said. It will remain in force for the 25,000 American troops in the capital through Monday morning.

U.S. military billets and clubs were sealed up at 7 p.m. Visitors were advised to return to their own quarters immediately.

Despite the curfew, the alert status remains on "condition white" for most U.S. troops. This is a low-grade alert and indicated the command did not believe an attack was imminent.

One U.S. source said the curfew was ordered "to keep harmony with and show our support of the Vietnamese government."

There was no change, however, in the midnight to 6 a.m. curfew for Vietnamese and foreign civilians.

Vietnamese military staffs and police in Saigon have been on 100 per cent alert for several days in response to reports that the Viet Cong was making major efforts to infiltrate terrorists and political agents into the capital.

The U.S. Command earlier today ordered top priority for high altitude B52 bombing strikes along the invasion routes leading toward Saigon in response to reports that North Vietnamese troops are massing to the north for a possible strike south against the capital.

Meanwhile, the Viet Cong have captured a pretty, 18-year-old girl who defected from a guerrilla mortar squad, government officials said today.

The long-haired and lissome girl, Tran Thi Ho Le, had been working with the government open-arms program since her defection five months ago. She was mentioned as a possible member of an ex-guerrilla group Saigon wants to send to Paris to counter enemy propaganda efforts at the peace talks.

Miss Le was captured Thursday or yesterday during a visit to her home in Long An province to get papers for her marriage to another defector, the officials said.

when the operation proved lucrative.

They told of once dumping two mink coats and some jewelry in a paper bag in a San Francisco alley, Teague said. When they came back later, it was gone, they related.

Burglaries solved by yesterday's tour through Southern Marin were on Homestead Avenue, Midway Avenue, Shoreline Highway, Laverne Avenue in Homestead and Tamalpais Valleys and on Cloudview and Spencer Avenue in Sausalito, according to Teague.

SONOMA

Brennan of San Francisco State said all the problems faced by San Francisco State apply equally to Sonoma State. Brennan predicted the trustees would use the planned ethnic studies program as a wedge to keep the campus quiet.

"Who in the hell are the trustees to tell us if we can have a black studies program?" he asked. "We must take this great power out of their hands."

A student who described himself as a "middle of the roader" followed Brennan's talk by telling the students they were showing "unrelenting ignorance" norance" by trying to destroy the system with violence.

Calling for students to use the democratic process to change the system, he said, "Your goals are beautiful, but your methods will kill you."

Shouting him down, striking students regained the microphone and continued the tirade against the trustees.

Several faculty members joined in denouncing the system.

The American Federation of Teachers local will meet Monday to vote on whether to sup- colleagues with a sympathy port San Francisco State strike.

symbols quarrel seriously because it reflects the real issue of the war—who is to control South Vietnam.

The U.S. optimism over compromise possibilities was tempered, however, by the record of past slips in the timetable for the four-way conference originally scheduled to open Nov. 6 under President Johnson's bomb-halt package.

Still to be threshed out are other disputed procedural items such as who will speak first and whether the front will be allowed to display flags in the conference room.

The Americans themselves are less inclined to argue over prestige symbols than the Vietnamese. But they cannot submit an allied proposal without agreement from the Saigon delegation.

rally. At about 1 p.m., they started drifting back to class.

A sullen march began around the campus, led by a group of young Negroes who shouted "Stop the talking. Let's get on with it." The procession picked up speed.

They entered building after building, shattering windows and attacking students. The weapons were described as water pipes the militants pulled out of the soft soil of the campus mall.

After assaulting Knudson, the militants smashed into the electronics building and broke more windows. None of the delicate electronic equipment appeared harmed.

College president Robert Ewigleben said after the outbreak he had agreed to keep police off the campus "to keep calm and prevent violence."

hired to replace Dr. Helen Bedesem as financial aid officer and the "Third World people" determine how financial aid is administered.

8. That no disciplinary action be taken against anyone for participation in the campus strike.

9. That the California State Colleges Board of Trustees not be allowed to dissolve any black studies program on or off the San Francisco campus.

10. That George Murray be retained as a teacher.

The Third World Liberation Front's five demands matched several of those already made by the BSU, but called for an ethnic studies department rather than merely a black studies department, and for admission of unlimited numbers of "Third World" students, regardless of qualifications.

Part of the demands were granted by acting president S. I. Hayakawa a week ago, but the strike leaders held this was not satisfactory.

OBITUARIES

Crash Kills William D. Fraser

Funeral for William Donald (Don) Fraser of Mill Valley, longtime Marin automobile salesman who was killed in an East Bay auto accident Wednesday, will be at 2 p.m. Monday at Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel, Mill Valley.

Fraser's car rammed into the back of a large truck on Highway 680 near Livermore at about 9:10 p.m., according to the California Highway Patrol. He was dead on arrival at Valley Memorial Hospital, Livermore.

Driver of the truck, Philbert Goldsberry of Martinez, was not injured.

Fraser, whose home was at 283 East Strawberry Drive, was born in Texas. For many years he was general manager for Ames Ford in San Rafael, and last year he started a car leasing business which he operated from his home.

He was an avid yachtsman.

He is survived by his wife, Mildred, and three sons, William Donald Fraser III, James Alexander Fraser and Cameron Ridge Fraser, all of the family home.

Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Health Officials Draft Tougher Antismog Rules

BERKELEY (AP) — The California Board of Public Health has approved a new set of tougher statewise air pollution control standards.

The rules, to be forwarded to the State Air Resources Board for adoption call for tightening the restriction of carbon monoxide — which comes mainly from automobile engines — by 40 per cent.

Other crackdowns in the standards approved yesterday would be made on allowable amounts of oxides, also from cars, and particles of soot or dust.

Dr. John R. Goldsmith, head of the health board research team which drafted the new standards, said most metropolitan areas in California have pollutant levels that now exceed the proposed restrictions.

Parties Honor Newlyweds

By MOLLY MARIN

Bridal showers have been held to honor Betty Jo Burk of Menlo Park, who became the bride of Gerald Cahill of Kentfield today at St. Ann's Chapel in Palo Alto. A shower and dinner was given by Carolee Nance and Gayle Fones of Menlo Park, and Mary Kay Strouf and Karen Gunlock of Mountain View were also hostesses at a bridal shower. Mr. and Richard F. Cahill of San Francisco, formerly of Belvedere, hosted a wine shower for the couple at their home.

PRESIDENT AND Mrs. John W. Atherton of Pitzer College in Claremont will be honored at a cocktail reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dollar of Kent Woodlands on Monday from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. at Trader Vic's, San Francisco.

HAPPY HOLIDAY plans are for the Burton Stitts of Belvedere who will stay on the island of Kauai. Their older son, Jeff, stationed at the Naval Air Training Station in Jacksonville, Fla., will have leave and go with the family group, including Gordon, a senior at Redwood High School, and Carole, a sophomore at San Domenico.

A HOLIDAY LINCHEON for members of Belvedere Guild 2 of Sunny Hills was given by Mrs. Wallace Scott and her sister Mrs. Girvin Wait at the Wait home on the Belvedere Lagoon Tuesday. There were 40 guests. Mrs. Harris Carrigan, who has just returned to Belvedere after an extended tour of South America, was greeted by friends and enjoyed comparing notes with Mrs. Robert A. Davies, who has also been traveling in Latin America recently. New guild members, Mesdames James Wilhite, H. C. Jordan and Charles L. Banks were welcomed at the luncheon.

THE FRED DREXLERS, of Mill Valley will host an open house Sunday from 5-7 p.m. for neighbors and family members home for the holidays.

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH CUTLER Diedrich have invited some 40 guests to a cocktail party to be held at their home in Sausalito Tuesday evening.

A NUMBER of long-time friends in Marin County of Peggy and Bill Pomeroy have been invited to a cocktail party tomorrow to be given for their friends by the Pomeroys' daughter Pinky and her husband, Herbert Hoover, at their San Francisco home.

The Pomeroys, who still own their home in Sausalito, have been living in their house in the Seychelles Islands for several months. They have come to San Francisco just for the holidays and will be staying with the Hoovers until after the first of the year.

Big Brother Brings Applause For The Good He Represents

DEAR HELEN:

Here's our tribute to a great guy who deserves a lot more than written words can ever say:

WHAT IS A BIG BROTHER?

A big brother is someone who is always willing to double date with you and the guy you are not quite sure of yet.

He's the fellow who wakes you up at 4 a.m. just so you'll have the privilege of going fishing with him. And he'll let you mow the lawn for him, if you'll pay him 50 cents. He can raise his eyebrows, wiggle his nose and his ears all at the same time. He'll wake you up at midnight just to wish you a happy birthday along with a few hard-earned birthday swats. Who else would dangle a spider in front of a high strung girl in the church choir, and who would pay you to bring the spider 'cause Mom already said she'd kill him if he left the house with it?

A big brother lets you drive his car and doesn't pass out cold when you back into a parked car. Even if he does yell a lot, he still lets you drive it.

He's the guy who can wear two different colored socks and get away with it. Once he also wore to church a bright colored stocking cap that hung below his waist — and he got away with that too.

A big brother is someone who can always tell if you're lying but never tells Mom and Dad. Instead he waits until later and bawls you out.

He doesn't care if you wear one of his shirts so long as you iron him another.

Who else takes pictures of you with your hair in curlers, cream all over your face, while making an awful face, and shows it to all his friends? He's the one who wonders how that lipstick and false eyelashes got in his pocket. He still blushes at the mention of a girl. Yet he's the guy who hangs mistletoe in his car and then volunteers to haul 15 different girls to school.

When his special girl dumps him for someone else, he may take it out on you just because you're there; but then what are sisters for?

A big brother is the guy who gives you all his old Mad magazines, and the answers to your algebra problems. He's crazy about the a-hooga horn on his car, and the moustache you can't even see.

He's suspicious of all your boy friends, but they'd rather talk to him than you. If he brings you a rose, watch out — it's probably got a tiny hop-frog in it.

He is someone that maybe once in a while when you're mad you wish you didn't have, but when he's gone, gosh, how you miss that crazy, teasing, infuriating, endearing guy.

A big brother is the fella who gives you his records when he goes in the Army, and then kids you out of your tears.

He is the guy you always remember to ask God to bless, for he is now fighting for his country, without protest. You see, he thinks freedom is worth fighting for.

What is a big brother? He's only the greatest guy in the whole world. — LITTLE SISTERS

Half Of Americans Are Now Overweight

Current interest in weight-watching cannot be dismissed as merely a temporary fad. Sound medical principles lie behind it. Overweight is thought to play a role in the chief health problem, heart disease, which today causes three times as many deaths as all forms of cancer combined, reports the California Medical Association. It is also involved in high blood pressure, gall bladder disease, some forms of arthritis and many other causes of suffering.

Some interesting progress has been made in determining who is overweight. Doctors have become suspicious of height-weight tables. These charts represent nothing more than the average weights of thousands of people in various age groups who showed no visible signs of illness on examination. Newer methods which show the amount of excess fat on our bodies seem to be more trustworthy. Estimates based on these tenets suggests that about half the adult population is overweight, including many who fall within the normal ranges on height-weight tables.

This unfortunate situation has resulted from earlier interest in the problems of malnutrition. Rickets, a weakness of bones due to lack of calcium, was common in the United States 50-60 years ago. Other development defects in children were shown to be due to lack of certain proteins. As these problems came to light it was natural for dietitians to beat the drum for greater use of dairy and meat products. Most Americans became the best fed people in history and seemed to be thriving on it. Then research groups, such as the American Heart Association, began pointing with alarm to a sky-rocketing increase in heart and blood vessel disease. They reminded us that along with calcium and protein, our rich milk, marbled meat and grade AA eggs were providing immense quantities of fat.

Popcorn And Nuts

When you make popcorn balls during the holiday season, add some roasted diced almonds along with the popcorn for a delightful toasted nut flavor.

Miss Monsarrat Bride Of Lawrence L. Jones

MRS. LAWRENCE L. JONES

Lawrence L. Jones wed Hinano A. Monsarrat Dec. 7 at St. Mark's Catholic Church in Lawrence Park, Pa.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Monsarrat of Tokyo, Japan, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Jones of Lawrence Park.

Hand Made Christmas Gifts Fun For Family And Friends

By EUNICE FARMER

DEAR READERS:

The most precious thing any of us has to give is our time; so even though it's getting late, I will devote today's column to some quicky Christmas gifts that are sure to make a hit. I always find that when the spirit of Christmas is breathing down my neck, I am much more enthusiastic about handmade projects; hope the same holds true for you.

CARD TABLE COVERS: This is a quickie and can be very effective and useful. Purchase the new vinyl imitation leather in a lovely pastel shade; you'll need 1⅛ yards if it's 50 inches wide. Cut this vinyl so it is a perfect square 40½ inches on every side. This will allow at least four inches drop on most tables. Purchase one of the lovely striped or solid colored grosgrain ribbons to contrast the leather; you'll need four yards of this. Place it about ½ inch above the cut edge of your cover and glue it in place (using the milky household type glue), without stretching the ribbon. When you come to the corners, miter them perfectly. These can be very attractive, add a touch of color to your room and are marvelous for playing cards or serving light snacks or suppers in your family room. Washable too!

For your children's room, you might wish to make their cover out of fake vinyl in a reptile pattern.

BOOK MARKS: You'll have a strip of vinyl left if you've made the card table covers. If not, you may purchase a narrow strip. This makes a perfect backing for a strip of embroidered or striped ribbon to be used for your book marks. Again, use the milky type glue, but don't use it too heavily. These make marvelous little gifts for your children to make for their friends or teachers.

I have also found in working with this vinyl that it makes a perfect backing for grosgrain belts that have become so popular. It is by far the easiest way to apply a backing and is just the right amount of firmness. These, too, make great gifts for any member of the family and can make any dress look new.

STADIUM BLANKETS: These are marvelous for almost any part of the country and certainly not used exclusively for football games. In California, they would sure come in handy for the New Year's Day parade; they're perfect for parts of the ski-country and make a perfect gift for anyone who likes outdoorsy sports.

The easiest type to make is to purchase 1½ yards of wool that is 54 inches wide. This will make a perfect square. Be sure to purchase a pattern that isn't too feminine; plaids are perfect. Fringe the two cut edges about 1½ inches and you're finished. (The greatest part of the whole thing is that wool is usually marked down at this time of the year and your gift won't be too expensive.)

For an extra luxurious throw, use fake fur for one side and solid color wool for the other. Then bind all the edges with wool braid or leather strips. This type sells for almost $100 in top sporting goods departments.

For that extra special gift for mother or grandmother, make a lovely boudoir throw out of soft, pastel wool. Again, you will want it to be at least 1½ yards long. This should be lightweight wool; fringe the two cut ends about 1 inch. Make her monogram in one corner out of ½ inch velvet ribbon in a contrasting color. The monogram shouldn't be too difficult to plan, since you can use block letters; simply hand whip the velvet ribbon down. This is a truly luxurious gift and has the look of the finest boutique.

CHRISTMAS TREE ORNAMENTS: Begin with styrofoam balls or the satin covered ones and get all your "bits and scraps" of ribbon, fancy fabrics, laces, beadings and sequins that you have kept through the years because you just couldn't bear to throw them out.

If you intend to cover the ball with fabric, you must cut the fabric into long oval sections, usually not more than 1 inch wide at the center and tapering to nothing at each end; the size will vary according to the size of the balls. For a medium size ball, I found it took about 10 oval strips of fabric. These are spread with household milky glue and put on individually, smoothing out each one as you go along until the entire ball is covered. Then trim them accordingly. They're fun, and can be a family project.

ON THE AGENDA

North Pole Transplanted Into Sausalito For Women's Social

"Reindeer Romp," a feature of the North Pole social season, will be transplanted to the Sausalito Woman's Club Sunday. Santa Claus, his helper and a team of reindeer girls will be hosts for cocktails, music, dancing and a chafing dish buffet.

Members and guests are being invited for 4 p.m., and supper will be served at 6:30 p.m. Some club members will bring their own gourmet specialties.

Chairman for the club's salute to the holiday season is Mrs. Harold Thomas Rogers. Committee chairmen include Mesdames Edward Bronson, entertainment; Robert Knutson and Earl Gates, decorations and reservations; Roger L. Dinelli, food service; John Weber, cocktail service; Walter V. Guthrie, invitations; and Joseph C. Diedrich and Mrs. Bronson, reindeer girls.

A special feature will be an opportunity for everyone to be photographed with Santa and the reindeer girls in a memorable setting — a replica of their snowy northern home. Entertainment will include music for listening and dancing.

MEMBERS OF Tamelpa Parlor 231, Native Daughters of the Golden West will have their annual Christmas party Monday at 8 p.m. in the Odd Fellows Hall, Mill Valley. Christmas gifts will be exchanged.

Chairmen are Mesdames George Martensen, Henry Alfonso and Miss Betty Crawley.

BETHEL 48, International Order of Job's Daughters will hold a past guardian, past associate guardian and past honored queen night Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Masonic Temple on Fourth Street and Looten Place in San Rafael.

Girls will also take the majority.

Jonna Peden will preside and Barbara Galt and Pat Dodge will provide refreshments and entertainment, assisted by their committee.

THE CHRISTMAS tea of the Marin Circle of the Florence Crittenton Home will be held tomorrow at the home of Mrs. Paul Steward in Tiburon. Hours will be 2 to 4 p.m. A special invitation has been extended to the circle's sustaining members and new members.

New circle members include Mesdames Phillip Lamoreaux and Lex J. Byers of Mill Valley, Charles Pittee of Terra Linda, John T. Gauss of Tiburon and Paul Marincich of Belvedere.

Heading the receiving line will be Mrs. Peter Knowles, president of the Marin Circle and Mrs. Barry Neuman, vice president.

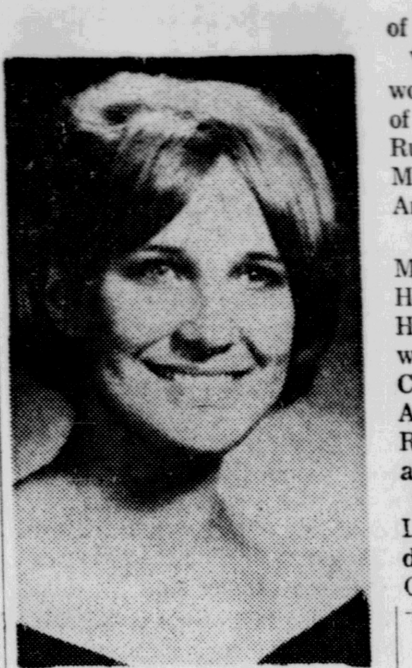
Miss Jean Bolton, executive director of the Crittenton Home in San Francisco along with past presidents Mesdames Arthur Collbran, Gerald Elbert, Roger Jobson, William Keplinger and Mrs. Mildred Montgomery will be on hand to welcome the new members.

A LUNCHEON for members of the Petaluma Woman's Club, their daughters and daughters-in-law will be held Tuesday at the clubhouse in Petaluma at 1 p.m. Mothers and mothers-in-law of members will also be guests.

Designer Leonardo will present his winter fashion collection with professional models showing the clothes.

Mesdames Lucien Libarle and Kenneth Kyle are the chairmen, with Mesdames Fred Mattei and Henry Soldati heading the decorations committee.

Virginia Nelson And Bob Bjostad Set Date



VIRGINIA NELSON

March 15 is the wedding date set by Virginia Pauline Nelson and Gary Robert Bjostad, both of Larkspur. The bride-elect's mother is Mrs. Hazel I. Nelson of Larkspur and Rudy A. Nelson of San Rafael is her father.

Virginia is a graduate of Redwood High School and the sister of Ronald Nelson of Larkspur, Rudy Nelson of Belvedere and Mrs. Richard E. Kohler of San Anselmo.

Gary's parents are Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Bjostad of Napa. He was graduated from Napa High School and is employed with Jenkel-Davidson Optical Company in San Rafael. Mrs. Arthur Stowell of Napa and Mrs. Robert Perchaluk of Menlo Park are his sisters.

The couple plan to live in Larkspur following their wedding at Redwoods Presbyterian Church.

GUNILLA DANIELSSON, 17-year-old exchange student from Sweden, observes Lucia Day, Queen of Light Festival, as she serves her American brother, Darcy Swanson, cookies and a hot drink. The traditional Swedish holiday is observed on Dec. 13 as the oldest daughter awakens the family wearing a costume of white and a crown of greens and lighted candles.

Host Family Given Taste Of Sweden

By DOROTHY NEWELL

"It's really great."

This was the exclamation made by Gunilla Danielsson as she gave her impressions of her American family, her life here and the schools and teachers.

Gunilla, a 17-year-old foreign exchange student from Sweden staying with the Fielder Nordstrom family in Novato, was enthusiastic about her entire life here.

She compared her life here to that in Sweden.

In Sweden, she lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bengt Danielsson and two brothers, Gunnar, 2 years old, whom she says is a sort of special person and Ake, 15, and a sister, Inger 15, in a flat in the suburbs of Stockholm, where traffic is continually passing their home.

In Novato, she lives out in the country, where it is very quiet.

Gunilla's father is a teacher of pharmacy, at a special school in Stockholm.

Since arriving, her adopted brothers and sister, Darcy, 12, Robin, 15, Randy, 20, and Brian Swanson, 24, and Linda Nordstrom, 21, presented her with a tiny black rabbit which she fed with a bottle until it was able to eat regular rabbit food. She adores animals and is unable to keep them in the flat in Stockholm. She said she named the rabbit after her brother, Gunnar. Gunilla also has a pet chameleon.

In explaining her feeling about the school she said in her soft spoken voice, "School is a joy here. The pupils and teachers are as friends. And there is a personal feeling between them here."

She is working as a junior volunteer at Novato General Hospital which again she says, "is really great." She is also a member of the Young Ambassadors, a part of the Community Ambassadors, the sponsoring group of the Student Foreign Exchange Program, and she has just recently joined the Drama Club at Novato High School.

Gunilla shared the traditional Lucia Day yesterday with her American family and, wearing a crown of lighted candles and singing Santa Lucia, served coffee, cookies and saffron buns to the family before they arose. "She then apologized for her voice," Mrs. Nordstrom said.

Day of Santa Lucia, the Queen of Light, is traditionally celebrated by all Swedish families on Dec. 13, the shortest day of the year by the old Julian calendar.

In Sweden, Gunilla said, the Lucia's, usually the oldest daughter in the family, also visit their favorite teachers, and she explained the subways of Sweden are filled with young people singing and carrying the lights and pastries.

A number of Scandinavian students in Novato, including Gunilla's friend, Marie Malmstrom, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lars Malmstrom, visited their favorite teachers this morning. Gunilla was Lucia. Marie's father is information officer for the Swedish Consulate in San Francisco.

Asked if she were homesick, the tall, slender blonde said "I don't think of being homesick. I want to enjoy my time here. You can not be two places at once, so we must enjoy each one at a time," she said philosophically.

Gunilla asked that she might add something as we ended our interview. She said, "I want to thank my family (American) for everything. I love them like my own."

Careless Americans Lose Through Theft

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Today's Americans seem as affluent with carelessness as with their supply of cash.

POCKETS JINGLE, to be sure, the economists tell us. But a current study shows that they also in one way or another drop into the "lost" column an estimated $2 billion per year. An estimated seven million adult Americans experience some loss of currency and coin annually. Losses range from under $10 (11 per cent) up to $200 and over (21 per cent).

The study shows also that women are more prone to loss of money than men. Youth is more prone to loss than its elders. And even education is a criterion. College-educated persons are more apt to lose than those with high school education or less.

LOSSES OCCUR during travel, in and around the house, in retail stores, on public transportation, at sports events. You name it. Loss is due to theft, in every way from purse-snatching to household robbery, and most of all to carelessness.

The study was made by Opinion Research Corp., Princeton, N. J., at the request of the American Express Co. An earlier study found the amount lost in 1965 was around $1 billion per year. And that sum was up from $700 million in 1961-62.

Why such an increase, when it is assumed that as a rule people incline to "hang on" to money? Opinion researchers said their findings "suggest the assumption needs to be considerably qualified."

Especially since the season to be jolly is also the season to be vulnerable, some of these changing attitudes are worth a pre-Christmas look. Researchers suggest that cash is "losing status" in a time when credit cards are rising in popularity, when ours is the so-called "cashless society."

IT IS ALSO possible that inflation, "debasement" of coinage and elimination of government orders for backing paper currency with precious metal have contributed, "if only psychologically, to some as yet undefined changing concept of money," the report says.

Consider the safeguarding of cash. The researchers conclude that "when an individual has an unusually large sum of it in his or her possession . . . as many as two out of 10 adults take no precautions . . . another three out of 10, as their form of precaution, hide it around the house or on their person."

Four of 10 bank their cash or convert it to travelers checks, the survey adds.

SO APPARENTLY, a large part of the population still has the "mattress and money belt" psychology.

The general assumption that the loss hazard is greatest while traveling doesn't prove true either. Travel losses account for one of seven, the report says. Stay-at-homes have even greater loss frequency, one out of every four losing cash around the house. Other major hazards are shops and stores in the home town, places of work or entertainment.

Bob Hope On Annual Journey To Visit GIs

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Dusting off the gags that have convulsed American fighting men for three wars, Bob Hope jets to the Orient today for his 18th consecutive Christmas tour.

He's 65, and he had serious eye surgery earlier this year. But the veteran comedian showed up, golf club in hand, to lead a troupe of 19 beautiful girls aboard a special plane.

Hope's party will visit South Vietnam, Japan, Korea, Okinawa, Guam and Thailand, under sponsorship of the USO and the Department of Defense.

Heading the flock of girls will be actress singer Ann Margret and Australia's Penelope Plummer, who's this year's Miss World.

Hope is due back in time to be Grand Marshal of the Tournament of Roses parade in Pasadena, on New Year's day before the Rose Bowl football game.

On his return, the comedian will edit thousands of feet of film taken during the tour for his annual special television show, which will be aired next Jan. 16.

CONCERT REVIEW

Christmas Sound Hit By Flu Bug Inroads

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

The College of Marin's collegiate chorale, directed by Dr. S. Drummond Wolff, presented a very enjoyable Christmas concert last night in the college's fine arts theater despite some handicaps.

These were caused largely by the absence of 17 singers out of 100 due to the current flu epidemic. We were noting the surprising lack of balance occasioned by a very strong bass section and weak tenor section and a comparable situation in the madrigal group until Dr. Wolff explained that eight of the missing singers were tenors.

So serious was the problem that Wolff's own composition, "Journey to Bethlehem," had to be omitted entirely.

With Dr. Wolff accompanying and directing at the organ, the first three selections were "Fanfare for Christmas Day" by Martin Shaw, Pergolesi's "Glory to God in the Highest," and the very beautiful "Salve Montserratina" by Pablo Casals, in which the maximum effect could not be achieved because of absence of three of the 11 singers in the madrigal group.

Completing the first half of the program was a group of carols from Europe sung a cappella, which were notable for careful attention to rhythm and expressive nuances and excellent diction.

Heard in several places in this half of the program was the marvelous pianissimo drawn to a fine thread of long sustained sound that is always a delight in Wolff's concerts. The opposite, or great climaxes of sound for which his concerts are equally noteworthy, was not heard until the last half of the program. This was in "Alleluia, Let Praises Ring!", and in the finale, "Festival Te Deum Laudamus," both written by Wolff.

Baritone Gary Walker, soloist in the second anthem, seemed to lack assurance at times, though his voice had a nice quality.

The "Ceremony of Carols" (for women's voices) by Benjamin Britten, which opened the second half of the program, was beautifully sung by the 45 young women of the chorus. The lyric soprano of soloist Sylvia Hyde was pure and clear and had a quality almost like that of a boy soprano.

Phyllis Murphy demonstrated her usual superlative skill at the piano for the Britten work.

Pianist To Perform

Mill Valley pianist James Odette will present works by Chopin and Liszt at the meeting of the Marin Branch of the California Music Teachers Association at 8:15 p.m. Monday in the home of Mrs. Sibyl Schneller, 312 W. Blithedale Avenue, Mill Valley.

Library Offers Children's Hours

The Marin County Library will offer children's Christmas programs at its seven branches. Children's librarian Barbara Rauhala will be storyteller.

The schedule:

Dec. 23 — Fairfax at 10 a.m., Ross Valley at 11 a.m., Belvedere-Tiburon at 2 p.m. and Marin City at 3:30 p.m.

Dec. 24 — Civic Center at 10 a.m. and Novato at 11:15 a.m.

Dec. 27 — Corte Madera at 10:30 a.m.

Irate Taxpayers Elect, Condemn College Turmoil

William Henderscheid of Mill Valley has been elected president of the Irate of Taxpayers of Marin, succeeding Philip Maley of San Rafael.

Also elected Thursday night at the group's annual meeting in the county courthouse were:

Charles Enyart of Forest Knolls, first vice president; Leonard Turner of Marin City, second vice president; Maley, recording secretary; Mrs. Louis Emis of San Anselmo, corresponding secretary; Bernard Haag of Mill Valley, treasurer, and Louis Emis of San Anselmo, membership secretary.

Elected directors were: David Bacigalupi of San Anselmo; Grant Halsing of San Anselmo; Mrs. Roger Weiss of Mill Valley; Frank Sloan of Fairfax; Eric Lane of Corte Madera; Mrs. Helen L. Gardner of Woodacre, and Roy Rhodes of San Rafael.

Mrs. Winifred S. Frederick of Lagunitas was reappointed publicity and supervisorial action committee chairman.

The Irate Taxpayers adopted resolutions commending and supporting S. I. Hayakawa, acting president of San Francisco State College, condemning the destruction and damage of public property and the disruption of education at the college, and censuring the majority of both the University of California Board of Regents and the State College Board of Trustees for "permitting the anarchistic activities of student groups and their supporters and the destruction of taxpayers' property on public campuses in California."

The group will hold its next regular meeting Jan. 16.

Novato Market Plans Get Nod

The Novato Plan Review Committee yesterday approved plans by Embarcadero Properties Inc. for a Seven-Eleven Market on Olive Avenue between Highway 101 and the Northwestern Pacific Railroad.

The approval stipulated that Olive Avenue be improved with curbs, gutters and sidewalks.

Greenbrae Christmas Light Judging Set

Judging for the Greenbrae Property Owners Association Christmas decorations contest will begin at 8 p.m. Thursday.

Residents who wish to have their decorations judged for one of the eight prizes to be awarded should turn on their lights from 7:45 to 10:15 p.m., association officials said.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

BY DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Seat Belt, Shoulder Harness Credited With Saving Many

VAN DELLEN

Seat belts and shoulder harnesses minimize injuries and save many lives. There are, however, exceptions. Among pregnant women, abdominal restraints have injured the fetus, and encouraged miscarriages, and maternal shock. But despite an occasional adverse report, these women fare worse when not wearing lap or shoulder belts.

Among 130 mothers-to-be, there were 11 deaths and 33 fetal deaths. Most of the fatalities and injuries occurred because the women were tossed about the car's interior. Fractures, especially of the bones of the pelvic girdle, were common. Restraints might have prevented these injuries.

IN A BITTER letter, one reader raked me over the coals for my stand on seat belts. The man was the sole survivor of an accident in which several were killed. Only he had been wearing a seat belt. The impact ruptured his spleen, and he almost died from abdominal hemorrhage. An operation was required, and he continues to have pain because adhesions formed.

"If it wasn't for that lousy seat belt, I would have my spleen and old sense of well-being," he wrote. Apparently he is forgetting that his life was spared.

Others have had similar injuries. Damage to the intestines, liver, pancreas, spine, and aorta have been reported, but these are rare. It is a small price to pay for being alive. Evidence that lap and shoulder belts save lives is indeed impressive. Without protection, the occupants may be thrown from the car. Ejection injuries are serious and carry a high mortality rate.

THE ONLY TYPE of accident in which restraints are of no value is one in which the vehicle is crushed. Furthermore, 4 of 10 crashes are so severe that nothing would help. Research now indicated that seat belts could save 14,000 lives a year.

Buckle up, even the courts recognize the great safety potential of seat belts.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

TREATING CROUP

Mrs. K. writes: What relieves an attack of croup? Our 2-year-old son almost chokes to death whenever he gets an attack.

REPLY

Vaporizers work well. The cause of croup is not known but is related to the lowered temperature of the room and the child's emotional make-up. The tendency seems to be inherited.

EMPHYSEMA ASTHMA

S. K. writes: Can a person with a mild case of emphysema and asthma do any kind of work or exercise?

REPLY

Yes, except to raise a cigarette to the lips. Activity may be limited because these conditions cause shortness of breath. But exercise does not aggravate or cause asthma or emphysema.

THYROID, METABOLISM

E. T. writes: Could taking thyroid extract cause the heart to beat fast?

REPLY

Yes. Thyroid increases metabolism in general and also steps up the heart beat. Too much thyroid may also lead to cardiac irregularities.

HEMOGLOBIN LEVELS

G. M. writes: Is a hemoglobin of 98 in a man considered normal or high?

REPLY

It is perfect, if you refer to 98 per cent.

COFFEE TWITCHES

S. I. writes: Will drinking 10 cups of coffee daily cause twitching of the eyelids?

REPLY

Yes, and of many other muscles of the body.

Meetings Seek To Avert Kaiser Hospital Strikes

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Hospital workers today laid plans for a strike next week at Kaiser Foundation and Permanente Medical Group hospitals in 15 Northern California cities, including San Rafael.

Negotiators also worked to set up weekend meetings that might avert a walkout by 3,000 nonprofessional workers at the 25 hospitals and clinics Monday morning.

A strike would greatly curtail medical service, but Kaiser was developing plans to maintain emergency care and to keep the hospitals open, in part with the help of its 4,000 non-union employes.

The Hospital Workers Union, which announced the strike threat yesterday after its members rejected a new contract offer, represents kitchen helpers, porters, maids, orderlies, licensed vocational nurses, clerical workers, and X-ray and laboratory technicians.

The contract dispute was over wages and fringe benefits. The union was offered a two-year contract that would raise most wages by 30 cents an hour and liberalize fringe benefits.

However, the union members, who rejected the contract offer by a three-to-one margin, were demanding a one-year contract and generally higher pay for most workers, in large part because they claim Kaiser demands more work of its employes than other hospitals.

Kaiser officials declined comment on the union's assertion, but said their employes are paid as well or better than those in other area hospitals.

The hospitals and clinics involved are in San Francisco, South San Francisco, Oakland, Hayward, Martinez, Richmond, Redwood City, San Rafael, Walnut Creek, Vallejo, Antioch, Napa, Santa Clara, Sunnyvale and Sacramento.

Retired Employees Will Install Monday

Homer F. Crowell of San Anselmo will be installed as president of the Marin Chapter of the Retired State Government Employees' Association at a dinner at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Pepperwood Restaurant in San Anselmo.

Other officers to be installed are Charles Clemmer of Novato, vice president, and Lillian Callas of San Rafael, secretary-treasurer. Don Woods is chairman for the installation program.

Probation Imposed For Drunken Driving

Joe Ralph Marion of 2 Rebecca Way, Novato, was sentenced to two days in jail and placed on six months probation in Marin Municipal Court yesterday for drunken driving May 16 on East Blithedale Avenue, Mill Valley.

Bennie B. Brown, 56, of 3 Gregory Lane, Novato, was given a suspended $302 fine and placed on a year of probation in the same court for the same offense Oct. 30 on DeLong Avenue, Novato.

Three Convicted In Club Burglary

Three Marin City men were convicted by a Marin Superior Court jury yesterday of burglary of the San Geronimo Valley Golf Club June 13.

Frederick Washington, 22, Donald Ray Turner, 19, and Morson Smith, 19, were captured after a chase down a golf course fairway.

Turner and Smith were ordered to return to court Jan. 6 for sentencing. Washington was ordered to return Jan. 13.

State Will Call Bids On Angel Island Job

More than $80 million in construction projects, including one at Angel Island, are to be advertise for bids next year by the state Department of General Services, office of architecture and construction.

Bids for dredging boating facilities in Ayala Cove at Angel Island will be advertised in May. Estimated cost of the project is $224,000.

Teen Couple In Custody On Narcotics

A 17-year-old San Francisco youth and his 18-year-old female companion were arrested yesterday on suspicion of various narcotics charges after California Highway Patrol officers noticed their car weaving down Highway 101 near Novato.

Michael Terrance King was cited to Juvenile Hall on suspicion of driving while under the influence of narcotics, possession of dangerous drugs, possession of marijuana and having no driver's license.

Barbara Ann Carigliano, who told officers she recently came to the Haight-Ashbury District from New York City, was arrested on suspicion of possession of dangerous drugs and narcotics devices, contributing to the delinquency of a minor, and having a concealed knife.

Officers said they followed King's car at about 2:45 a.m. as it headed south toward Novato, and that he finally stopped on the highway about two miles north of that city.

King dropped a plastic bag containing what looked like marijuana and a plastic vial containing two tablets on the highway shoulder, officers said. The girl had a box in which there were needles, pills and an eye dropper, and a knife in her pocket, they said.

Reagan Plans Second Drunk Law Attempt

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The governor's Traffic Safety Conference has joined Gov. Ronald Reagan in urging the legislature to pass a "presumptive limits" law to ease prosecution of the drunken driver.

The conference's request was among traffic safety recommendations it adopted Friday at the conclusion of its two-day meeting. About 1,200 adults and teenagers studied traffic problems at the conference, sponsored by the governor.

Reagan told the conference Thursday he will try again next year to get legislative approval of a measure to set a .10 per cent alcohol blood limit for determining if a driver is drunk.

Similar legislation, backed by Reagan, was defeated this year on the Assembly floor.

AID TO COURTS

The governor said a .10 per cent limit would "relieve our judiciary of burdensome and expensive trials and would be of immeasurable aid to enforcement agencies."

Current law does not set a level of intoxication. A court determines whether a person who has taken a chemical test was drunk when arrested.

The conference recommendation noted the "presumptive limit" test has the endorsement of the American Bar Association, the National Safety Council and the American Medical Association.

OTHER GOALS

In other recommendations made to Reagan, the conference called for:

Expansion of the present driver education system to include training in vehicle operation under emergency situations such as tire blow-outs at high speed, loss of brakes and stuck accelerators.

Enlargement of the research programs in accident prevention being conducted by the Highway Patrol and UCLA.

Extension to professional accident research investigators the authority now possessed by investigators of the Federal Aviation Association to eliminate legal restrictions on studying accidents.

Enactment of legislation permitting traffic courts to handle juvenile traffic violations.

Increase of the driver's license fee to provide more funds for improving driver licensing procedures.

Victim Improves

William Relahan, 26, of 26 Suffield Avenue, San Anselmo, was reported improved and in fair condition at Marin General Hospital today with head injuries suffered in a car accident Wednesday night on Highway 101 at the Alto Hill.

Udall Promotes Two Marinites In Park Service

Appointment of John A. Rutter of Terra Linda as director of the northwest district of the National Park Service was announced today by Secy. of Interior Stewart L. Udall.

Rutter has been regional director in the park service's western regional office in San Francisco. In his new position he will make his headquarters in Seattle. National Park Service areas Alaska, Washington, Oregon and Idaho and the Lava Beds National Monument in Northern California will be under his jurisdiction.

William L. Bowen of Novato will succeed Rutter as regional director in San Francisco, Secretary Udall announced. Bowen has been chief of the office of design and construction in the regional planning and service center of the park service.

Rutter resides at 118 Forrest Lane, Terra Linda; Bowen, at 2867 Feliz Road, Novato.

New Italian Cabinet Busy On Problems

ROME (UPI)—Italy's new coalition government today buckled down to its first full day's work but the nation's long-awaited social and economic reforms will likely have to wait for next year.

Premier Mariano Rumor's cabinet, sworn in yesterday, was busy appointing its undersecretaries. A cabinet meeting was also expected to discuss Rumor's speech outlining the government's policies to parliament Monday.

The government must obtain a parliamentary vote of confidence, a procedure not expected to be completed before Dec. 23, the day parliament adjourns for the Christmas holidays.

Since the coalition of Christian Democrats, Socialists and Republicans hold a comfortable parliamentary majority, the new government should face no difficulties when the vote is taken.

Meanwhile, there was some progress made in the problems to which Rumor referred—a series of regional strikes which entered their sixth day today, and continuing student protests against the nation's antiquated higher education system.

An agreement to take effect Jan. 1 was reached on farm laborers' salaries in Sicily, where the death of two laborers in a clash with police set off demonstrations and rioting.

Peninsula Woman Hurt Near Fairfax

A 27-year-old Daly City woman suffered only minor injuries when her car slid off Bolinas Road near Mora Avenue in Fairfax about 9:40 p.m. yesterday and hit an embankment, reported the California Highway Patrol.

Nadine M. Shute was treated at Marin General Hospital for bruises and scrapes.

Commonwealth Club Spot To Busterud

John A. Busterud, San Rafael attorney, was elected vice president of the Commonwealth Club of San Francisco yesterday.

Judge Wakefield Taylor of Martinez was elected president, succeeding Elmer G. Johnson of San Francisco.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Success In Bridge Also Includes Listening To What Is Not Bid

If you listen attentively at the bridge table you will hear all the bids, but that is not enough. You must listen even harder — to hear what is not bid. As a famous poet once wrote: "Heard bids are sweet, but those unheard are sweeter."

LOW TO DUMMY

West opened the ten of diamonds, covered by the jack, queen and ace. South led a low spade to dummy's jack and returned a spade, losing to West's ace.

West sat back to think about the hand and came up with the killing defense. It was apparent that South held a five-card spade suit headed by the K-Q-10, with the ace of diamonds on the side. West also remembered that he hadn't heard an opening bid from South.

CLEAR COURSE

Obviously South could not have the ace of clubs, because with that card and his known strength South would have opened the bidding with one spade. Since the ace of clubs was sure to be in the East hand, West's course was clear.

GETS RUFF

West shifted to the king of clubs and continued with a club to the ace. East returned a club, and West's ruff defeated the contract.

Give West a medal for working out the best defense, but don't polish any trophies for South. He played the hand far too obviously.

To hide his spade strength South should win the first trick in dummy with the king of diamonds and led the jack of spades as though planning a finesse.

PLAY KING

When East plays low, South should put up the king of spades without the slightest hesitation. (It would be improper to stage a dramatic pause before playing the king.)

West would take the ace of spades but would be uncertain of the trump position and would therefore be unlikely to work out the location of the ace of clubs.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

The Editor's Notebook

Lack Of Responsibility Imperils School System

Public education in California is in real trouble.

It has been increasingly difficult in the past couple of years to get approval of bonds to finance much-needed expansion of facilities at all educational levels.

Last month Marin voters turned down, for the third time, a bond proposal to provide much needed expansion in the Tamalpais High School District. Marin's high school population is still mushrooming. Redwood and Drake High Schools, especially, are bursting at the seams. Each term sees the crush become more acute.

Long lead times are required to design and build schools.

The crush in the Tam District will inevitably get much worse before it can get better.

SAME IS TRUE of California's state college system.

The full impact of the post-war baby boom is now reaching the college level. At the same time, society's attitude toward education is such that we expect many to attend college who in former generations would have fallen by the wayside, educationally.

At the instant when California faces its most pressing need for state college expansion, voters last month turned down a statewide bond issue which would have provided the necessary funds.

What's worse, the climate today is less likely to see education bond approval today than it was Nov. 5.

Troubles on campus have multiplied.

There has been irresponsible behavior by students, by faculty and by administrators.

IF YOU DON'T THINK that vast numbers of citizens have lost patience with such goings-on, you need only to look at the volume and nature of the mail which has deluged Dr. S. I. Hayakawa since he instituted his "get tough" policies at San Francisco State. Those policies, incidentally, are too mild and not tough enough to suit many.

Right here in Marin, our own College of Marin is headed toward crises.

On the one hand, its enrollment is fast outstripping its capacity at Kentfield. It desperately needs to get going on construction of its proposed North Marin campus.

On the other hand, student and faculty unrest — coupled with some goofs by administrators — undermine public confidence in the college's ability to conduct its affairs sensibly.

WHEN PUBLIC confidence waivers, the last slim chance of getting a two-thirds majority to vote for bond financing is lost.

College of Marin is but one more example of the trouble which public education has got itself into in California.

There was a time not many years ago when some of the most effective campaigning for school finance measures was carried on by students and teachers.

The misbehavior and irresponsible public statements of a handful of revolutionary students and faculty now is even more effective in insuring defeat at the polls for public education finance measures.

WHERE ARE WE HEADED? Where will it end?

If the handful of revolutionists and anarchists triumph, we will wind up having no schools — which seems to be what some of them would like.

If anarchists and revolutionaries are not to succeed in destroying our public education system, administrators and trustees are going to have to get tougher. With no expansion in sight, stern disciplinary measures will have to be instituted to eliminate those who commit even minor infractions.

There will be no other way to trim the size of the student body to fit the compact size of the facilities.

When the troublemakers are eliminated, perhaps one day public confidence will return and expansion can be resumed.

—Jack Craemer

War On The Red Fox

Since the end of World War II in Europe, the bottom has fallen out of the market for red fox furs and trapping of the little animals has declined sharply. The red fox population has been on the rise.

Since the red fox is the most susceptible animal to rabies yet studied, and since the incidence of rabies has risen sharply in the past two years, public health officials in 21 European countries recently recommended to their governments that the fox population be cut up to 80 per cent as the only way to control the disease.

Germany has been the center of the rabies virus pool. More than 100 cases of rabies, mostly foxes, were recorded in Switzerland during a recent 18-month period.

The program of reducing the fox population has already been tried in Denmark, where it quickly brought the rabies count to almost zero.

Although Marin does have a few wild foxes, our more prevalent skunks seem to be the most common source of what little rabies we have.

Bouquets And Brickbat

BOUQUETS to the Fairfax Congress for Community Action for laying out goals which may help guide city officials and others in improving the community.

BRICKBATS to the Bolinas-Stinson Beach School District Board for going behind closed doors to discuss "personnel matters" and refusing explanation of whether their action was legal under bans on closed meetings in both Government Code and Education Code. Neither public officials nor the schools are benefitted by such refusal to trust the public.

BOUQUETS to Marin City leaders who agreed that the Marin City Council will hereafter be that community's planning body. This puts planning for Marin City in the hands of its own citizens, which we think is where it belongs.

BOUQUETS to Charles A. Brown, former Sausalito city manager, on his appointment as city manager of Novato. He has "a hard act to follow" in J. Julien Baget, the former chief administrative officer in Novato, but his previous Marin experience should prove helpful — though Novato and Sausalito are quite different, as he will speedily discover if he hasn't already.

Photos Of Violence "Yellow Journalism"

We the undersigned students of Drake High, in response to the editor's note (Dec. 7 issue) about our criticism of violence in the newspapers would like to say that although it is not the issue at hand, we are opposed to any violence whatsoever, whether it be caused by soldiers in Vietnam "preserving democracy," unhappy student demonstrators, or policemen with animal-like tendencies.

The real issue, and we feel you missed the point, is not the actual violence pictured, but how and with what ulterior motives it was pictured. We feel that your pictures and others like them are not printed honestly and in the public interest, but as a selling gimmick, propagandizing your own biased beliefs. We will go still farther and compare your tactics to those of yellow journalism, which was the primary cause for the Spanish-American war.

Please print this letter as we feel it is vital to help give a better understanding of the tense situations of today's life. It also voices the opinions of tomorrow's Americans!

Editor's note: It is probably useless to assure these young people that photographs of violence are published in the public interest, so the readers may see for themselves what is going on. Such, however, is the case. We welcome their opinions, nevertheless. And we do not regard them as "tomorrow's Americans." They are today's Americans. LINES ON LIVING

Friendship Precious, Easy, But Too Lacking Today

By Rabbi HAIM KEMELMAN

If our prosperity gives us many luxuries, it is not conducive to the making of friends and enduring friendships.

Friendships should be an easy exercise, a contagious experience, a light undertaking. But since it involves, in a meaningful sense, the deeper meanings and secrets of life, most of us are suspicious toward new friendships and take the attitude of Claude Mermet: "Friends are like melons. . . To find one good, you must a hundred try."

Yet in spite of our mass-communications system, there is a certain disconnectedness in our society. So many today are the friendless who can give in friendship as much as they can take, but they are scattered and drained of the fortifying riches of many friendships.

FRIENDSHIP requires cultivation, time, life-investment. It asks not merely for lip service and verbal smpathy but for the kind of personal commitment that inspires loyalty, confidence and trust. Friendship is an extension of personality, an increase in the sharing of happiness, a halving of sorrow.

With a true friend, you can be yourself; you can impart your most secret thoughts, without counting your words; you can share your joys freely, without measuring your emotions; you can unburden your affliction and shame, without sifting your expression to refine its meaning. With a true friend, you feel comfortable, safe, heartened, secure, enthralled — you can reveal your soul. A true friend will laugh with you, not at you; cheer you, not mock you; correct you in private, never in public.

Friends are not bought but earned and their handling requires the care given to precious vessels. They will not suffer neglect. The great blessing of life is our ability to make friends; to be a friend to man.

WHAT IS friendship? Perhaps it is a total encounter with life which involved our peculiar powers of extending outside of our person, in appreciating and in embracing whatever is noble and loving in others. It is, in a word, human comprehension at its best: coming alive in total response to life around us. We can enjoy things by ourselves. But we must share experiences with others for this is the whole meaning of human life. In our human vocabulary, life is not an isolated experience in the singular person.

As for those who shun away from friendship because of its imperfections or past hurts, it should be recalled that as we learn to forgive ourselves for our own shortcomings, we can become more tolerant of the faults of others and not recoil easily in self-withdrawal.

If we feel secure in our personality and conduct, we need not fret; the mighty stream of human friendship can be enhancing and instructive. If we muster enough courage and wisdom and fortitude, we may even see eye to eye with Ivan Panin and derive some usefulness from our lesser friends: "Three men are my friends — he that loves me, he that hates me, he that is indifferent to me. Who loves me, teaches me tenderness. Who hates me, teaches me caution. Who is indifferent to me, teaches me self-reliance."

Tiny Hope Remains For LBJ's Peace Mission To Kremlin

PARIS — The report that President Johnson is thinking of a summit meeting with Soviet Premier Kosygin at the conclusion of a grand tour of Europe is received on this side of the Atlantic with decidedly mixed emotions. Well-meaning, yes. But what can be accomplished by a President whose term in office has only six weeks more to run?

If the power of decision in Washington is dubious with a new administration so soon to take over, the uncertainties of decision in Moscow are almost as great. This reporter, talking with Kremlinologists in four western capitals, has arrived at a picture deeply disturbing in the division of authority suggested.

THERE ARE THREE principal areas of doubt. First, the top men in the Kremlin — Kosygin, Leonid Brezhnev, secretary of the Communist party, and the others — are themselves at odds over the course to be followed in policy toward the outside world.

This division gives the military an opportunity to move in with a hard-line response. Contingency plans are ready for any given situation when civilian authority falters. That was what happened when Russian tanks moved into Prague in August after days of indecision in the Kremlin over what to do about the Czech revisionists and their democratized version of communism.

The American argument for negotiating from superior strength can undoubtedly be matched by that kind of argument from the Russian military.

THE SECOND area of doubt concerns the Middle East and the Russian thrust into that region vital to western interests for its oil and its strategic importance. Here, many analysts agree, is the greatest danger to peace today.

The Russians put the highest priority on the reopening of the Suez Canal. That it remains closed 18 months after the end of the lightning Egyptian-Israeli war of 1967 exacts a heavy penalty on Russian shipping to the Far East. More important, it puts a crimp in the Soviet plan for a massive naval presence in the Indian Ocean.

Stories circulate of the length to which Moscow means to go if the canal cannot be reopened by peaceful negotiation. One report is that Russian heavy artillery is being installed on the Egyptian side of the canal.

In any confrontation with Johnson, the Soviet premier would almost certainly raise the Middle East issue. And in light of the deepening hostility between Israel and the Arab powers, with the United States committed to Israel, the President's maneuverability would be, to say the least, limited.

IN THE THIRD area the doubts are greatest and the facts hardest to come by. This concerns conditions within the Soviet Union and the reports of widespread discontent and even overt unrest.

The public protests of a handful of intellectuals, courageous men and women like Pavel Litvinov and Larissa Daniel, are dramatic but in a sense irrelevant. The phenomenon that must give the Kremlin nightmares is the reported disillusions of the middle level of scientists, technicians, professional men and women. According to reports of observers recently in Russia with an opportunity to make firsthand contacts, they no longer believe in the system. They have transistor radios, they listen to foreign broadcasts, and they eagerly question foreigners meet about conditions in the outside world.

The greatest disillusion, bitterness actually, is over high prices, shoddy goods and workmanship and promises falling so far short of performance. It is here that Johnson confronting Kosygin might find an opening. For the burden of the cost of modern armaments in a country where 50 per cent of the people are still in agriculture is merciless.

BELATEDLY the Kremlin is said to have come to realize what it would mean to put the antiballistic missile on top of this burden. With an added cost of up to $50 billion the hope of more and better consumer goods and a somewhat easier life would fade into the grey, harsh, continuing austerity which is the existence of most Soviet citizens.

Here for the Western European is the crux of the matter.

Tasty Treat In Wintry Weather— Baked Newspaper a la Buchwald

WASHINGTON — This is the time of year when, because of inclement weather and bad pitches by groggy newsboys, your Sunday newspaper may be arriving in a wet or soggy condition. Most people get angry at this state of affairs, mainly because they don't know how to dry and bake a good Sunday paper. Once you know how to do this, you may never fear getting a wet newspaper again.

My recipe for baking a newspaper was handed down in my family from one generation to the next, and even on the rainiest, snowiest, sleetiest day our family always has had the crispiest, tastiest Sunday newspaper on the block.

As a public service, it is my intention to pass on this family recipe to my loyal and devoted readers.

FIRST, PREHEAT oven to 300 degrees.

While you're doing that, drain off liquid from the paper and put aside.

Now get a sharp knife and start peeling off the sections of paper — the front section, then the society, sports, comics and so forth. Wipe each section lightly with a damp cloth, and roll to even out.

By this time your oven should be hot. If it isn't, you can study the wet football scores or the classified advertisements.

Once your oven is hot enough, arrange the sections of the newspaper on the racks of the oven, but make sure they do not touch each other or get in the way of the oven door.

NOTE: It is always best to put the comics on the lowest shelf so the color does not drip down on the black-and-white pictures of Jackie Onassis.

(If your paper is very, very large, you may have to bake it in two roastings. Therefore, select the sections you want to read first, bake them and then, while you're reading them, stick the other sections in the oven.)

I KNOW THAT the big question on your mind is how long to bake or roast a Sunday newspaper. This depends strictly on the paper. Give 15 minutes for each pound of wet newsprint. But every five minutes turn over the sections on the rack so that they don't get too brown. Some people prefer to cook their newspaper on a rotisserie which keeps going around in a circle, and this is probably a faster way to do it. But the danger is that if the paper touches flame, it will go up in smoke and that won't leave you much to do on Sunday morning.

After you've allowed your newspaper first to simmer, then stew and finally bake, you can test it to see if it's ready to be read. Take out the travel section, or the book review, and hold it in both hands. If the paper seems firm and stays up stiff of its own accord, it's ready. On the other hand, if it sags or falls apart while you're holding it, put the rest of it back in the oven for at least another 10 minutes.

SOMETIMES PEOPLE make a mistake and overcook their paper. You'll know your Sunday paper is too well-done if it gets black around the edges and has a funny smell to it.

Your Sunday paper can either be served hot or cold to your family and can also be sliced very thin or very thick, depending on how they like it.

If you want to read it cold, transfer to a cool, dry place and let stand 15 minutes.

The important thing to remember is that anyone can bake a Sunday newspaper. All you need for the ingredients are newsprint, rain, slush or snow, a hot oven and patience.

One more thing: there may be times when the news is so depressing that you're sorry you took the trouble to bake your paper. If this happens, just pour some cognac on it, light it and make it into a flambe.

Span Board Almost Votes To Pay Cost Of Napa Suit Against Itself

Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors yesterday came within one vote of using district funds to pay the costs of a legal battle against the district.

Napa County last month filed suit against the district and Marin, San Francisco and Sonoma counties, holding that a new law expanding the bridge board was unconstitutional because it gave four additional directorships to these three counties. The other counties in the district are Mendocino and Del Norte. (See also, bridge story on page 1).

Director L. E. Castner's motion to authorize the use of district funds to finance legal costs of joining Napa County in the suit was seconded by E. J. Guidotti. Both are from Sonoma County.

Voting for the motion were Castner, Guidotti, Edwin M. Fraser of Del Norte County, Lowell Edington of Napa County, John E. Nelson of Mendocino County, George H. Ludy of Inverness and William D. Hadeler of San Francisco.

Of these, Guidotti, Hadeler and Ludy are being dumped from the board by the new law. Nelson indicated yesterday he intended to resign soon.

Voting down Castner's motion were directors William C. Blake, John E. Dearman and Stephan C. Leonoudakis of San Francisco, and Joseph E. Sheeks of Belvedere. Abstaining were Daniel F. Del Carlo, Ben K. Lerer and William Moskovitz of San Francisco. Director Dan E. London of San Francisco was absent.

Leonoudakis suggested that directors who want to fight the new law seek help from the Neighborhood Legal Assistance Foundation.

Dearman termed the motion "stupid."

Directors cannot be both defendants and plaintiffs, argued Sheeks.

Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors also:

COMMUTE BOOKS — Deferred to January study of a recommendation by district auditor Gordon E. Dahlgren that selling commutation books by mail be considered. Also deferred was his recommendation for "a systematic and planned program for advertising and favorable publicity."

TAX REBATE — Hired the San Francisco law firm of Howard, Primm, Smith, Rice & Downs to represent the district in a friendly suit over the repayment of $2 million in property taxes to the counties in the district.

CUSHIONS — Received staff report that hydraulic cushion traffic bumpers will be installed on the toll gates next week.

BIKE TRAIL — Learned final plans, specifications and cost estimate for a bicycle trail across the bridge will be completed by March 1.

SUICIDES — Authorized the San Francisco Suicide Prevention Center to train district employees how to detect and handle possible suicides, at a cost of $1,500, and to try a roving truck patrol on the bridge during daylight to detect possible jumpers.

ONE-WAY TOLLS — Were told by Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring that only five written complaints have been received about the one-way toll collection experiment since it started Oct. 19, and that 4.5 million vehicles had crossed since then with only two minor accidents in the toll plaza.

ENGINEERS — Raised the hourly wage of operating engineers by 20 cents to $6.21 an hour in accord with agreements between their union and the Associated Union Contractors.

TELEPHONES — Voted to replace an antiquated telephone switchboard in the district office at a montly cost of $283 and an intallation charge of up to $1,[illegible]. The present system costs $163 a month.

TOW TRUCK — Declared Dervin Ford Co. of Novato lowest of three bidders to provide a new tow truck at $19,742.

MEETING — Set the next regular meeting at 10 a.m. next Friday instead of on Dec. 27.

TOLLS — Took no action on a resolution by the Mendocino County Board of Supervisors urging that bridge tolls be cut to 10 cents after 1971 if construction of a second bridge has not begun by then.

Drug Addiction Treatment Ordered

Robert William Scofield Jr., 19, of no fixed address, was placed on three years probation yesterday in Marin Municipal Court and ordered to commit himself for treatment in Napa State Hospital's clinic for drug addition.

He admitted being under the influence of drugs Sunday in San Rafael.

Dinner Canceled

The Marin City Community Services District will hold a business meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Manzanita Community Center, but the annual Christmas dinner scheduled for that time has been canceled until further notice.

Patients Ask Center For Alcoholics

A suggestion by patients at Mendocino State Hospital that a halfway house for alcoholics be established in Marin was presented at a monthly meeting yesterday of the Community Planning Group on Alcohol and Drug Addition Problems in Marin County.

The group unanimously voted to form a subcommittee to study the possibilities.

Acting chairman Rae Taub of the Marin Mental Health Association appointed Thomas Brewster, social worker at the Mendocino hospital; Dr. Clyde G. Miller, county director of community mental health services; Jerry Sappington, director of health education for Marin County Health Department, and Dr. Margaret Grew of the Marin Association for Mental Health to the subcommittee.

The suggestion by four hospital patients, all from Marin County, who attended yesterday's session at Marin General Hospital, was that a house be provided to accommodate persons dismissed after treatment at the hospital but who have no place to live.

The patients, who appeared at the invitation of the planning group, said maximum stay at the house would probably be three months.

Dr. Juhan Liikane of the Community Mental Health Center at Marin General Hospital said the planning group's purpose is to develop a county-wide plan for filling needs of addicts.

He said the plan will be completed in about six months, then presented to the county board of supervisors.

The group has about 40 members, of whom 14 were present yesterday.

Live Carols To Be Heard Over KTIM

The Bank of Marin will present its sixth annual live Christmas carol broadcasts by local groups over KTIM direct from the bank lobbies in San Rafael and Novato beginning Monday.

The programs will begin at 2:30 p.m. with the Campfire Girls of Central Marin, directed by Mrs. Warren Rice, singing in the San Rafael Bank of Marin lobby. Immediately following, at 2:45 p.m., the Hill Junior High School choral group, directed by Vincent Pebbles, will sing in the Novato lobby.

PGA, Players Kiss And Make Up With Agreement

NEW YORK (AP) — The PGA and the APG have put down their war clubs and decided to tee off together again on pro golf's multi-million dollar tour.

The two organizations shook hands last evening on the agreement, ending a drawn out feud that threatened to send the 52-year-old Professional Golfers' Association and the touring pros their separate ways on separate tours.

Under the merger, the touring pros will have a voice in policy-making decisions of the tour, the crux of the problem which caused the break four months ago. However, neither the PGA nor the break-away American Professional Golfers claimed victory in the settlement.

"I wouldn't call it a victory for the APG," said Sam Gates, attorney for the group. "We didn't go into this looking for a victory. We sought agreement by eliminating the sources of the disagreement."

TOUR TO CONTINUE

The settlement returns the touring players to the PGA and ends their plans to establish a separate tour.

The APG with most of the top pros, including Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper, had signed contracts with 17 tournament sponsors. The combination of top names and a majority of tournaments on the $5.5 million tour would have left the PGA tour out in the cold.

Under the agreement, the tour will continue as a PGA program and those 17 tournaments will be transferred to the PGA, which will honor the commitments.

POLICY BOARD

A tournament players division will be established within the PGA and will be governed by a tournament policy board with full authority over the conduct of the tour.

The board will consist of 10 directors, including four as yet unnamed tournament players; three PGA officials—PGA president Leo Fraser, Warren Orlick and William Clarke—and three distinguished businessmen.

The businessmen are J. Paul Austin of Atlanta, president of Coca Cola Co.; George H. Love of Pittsburgh, chairman of the board of Consolidated Coal Co., and John D. Murchison of Dallas, one of the leading financial figures of the Southwest.

One player director will be elected to the PGA Executive Committee as a vice president and all player directors will become members of the PGA's Rules Committee.

The board will appoint a tournament director who will handle financial matters, discipline players, handle television contracts and supervise over-all directions of the day-to-day operation of the tour, which begins Jan. 9 with the Los Angeles Open.

All pending litigation involving the PGA and APG is being dismissed under the agreement announced by Fraser and Gardner Dickinson Jr., president of the APG.

Novato Makes Finals, Tars Out Of Own Tournament

HERB MICHELSON

Ah, The Icy Brilliance Of Those Hockey Figures

OAKLAND — While the Seals are mired in glacial inconsistency these days (both on the ice and in the front office), I thought it might be wise to keep all of us up to date statistically. Thus, a rummage through several National Hockey League press books.

Those of you who followed my baseball season tirades are familiar with Michelson's love affair with statistics. Sports wouldn't be sports without numbers — batting averages, first downs, free throw percentages, corner kicks and those kind of things.

Until perusing the bilingual tome from the Montreal Canadiens and other such fodder, I didn't realize that hockey was so numbers conscious. (Funny how sexy numbers look in French.)

YOU'D FIGURE that there are goals and assists on the goals and goalie saves and that's that. You'd figure wrong.

Take the Chicago Blackhawk book. It traces Bobby Hull's record-busting goal performance three seasons ago much as baseball lore reveals the 61-homer year of Roger Maris.

In the 1965-66 season, Hull broke hockey's equivalent of 60 homers and the four-minute mile: The 50-goal barrier. So the Hawk book shows us the date, place, opponent and goalie involved in each of Hull's 54 tallies. Many people know off whom Maris banged his 61st homer (think hard now), but few are aware of Hull's 51st goal victim. Ready trivia collectors? It was Cesar Maniago, then with the New York Rangers and now with the Minnesota North Stars.

LUCKILY, the Detroit Red Wing pamphlet lacks the space to record each of Gordie Howe's 700-plus goals. But it has an even more exciting statistical column labeled "Important Goals." Important Goals?

Among the "important" types are winning goal, insurance goal, game's first goal, Detroit's first goal, Detroit's only goal (how important could that possibly be save for 1-0 Wing wins?), tying goal, go-ahead goal. Howe won in this department, a terribly startling fact.

MONTREAL'S BROCHURE includes "Record avec un joueur en moins," which tells us how many times the enemy scored when the Canadiens had a fellow in the penalty box and was shorthanded. From this column, I was thrilled to learn that last season the Canadiens played shorthanded against Oakland on 10 occasions (in four games) and was scored on twice.

Yet, none of these number revelations is as totally satisfying as the fodder provided in the encyclopedic press book published by the Pittsburgh Penguins, who would have been the NHL's worst team a year ago if the Seals weren't around.

Penguin flack Joe Gordon has ensured the world that everything Pittsburgh did on the ice last season is preserved for posterity. Presumably, Joe has buried one of these books in a time capsule deep in a Western Pennsylvania coal mine just in case of atomic holocaust.

UNDER THE HEADING "Individual Scoring Breakdown," we have these numbers for Penguin goals scored in 1967-68:

First period goals, second period goals, third period goals, power play goals, short handed goals, Detroit's familiar winning, tying and first of the game goals, home goals, away goals, first half of the season goals, second half of the season goals.

By creating all those categories for goals, one gets the impression Pittsburgh scored thousands last season. Actually, they managed less than three a game.

Hockey's obvious hope (or, if you will, goal) is to create so many statistics that the game will become popular in areas with little fan interest.

I have a strong feeling their number may be up.

Sierra Proves Nemisis

By KIMO CAMPBELL

With a cast completely composed of outlanders, the third annual College of Marin Invitational basketball tournament will wind up tonight in Kentfield when American River Junior College of Sacramento plays Napa J.C. at nine o'clock. Yuba and Reedley clash for third place at seven, while Sierra and Santa Rosa will go for the consolation championship at five.

American River earned a spot in the finals by crushing Yuba J.C. of Marysville 100-72 last night, while Napa had to go into overtime to edge Reedley College 82-77. Sierra College eliminated host College of Marin 71-68 and Santa Rosa J.C. outran Solano College of Vallejo 90-82.

Marin's play was greatly improved over the previous evening's debacle against Napa, but the Tars fell to their familiar nemesis from Rocklin, mostly on the hot outside shooting of Cliff Swesey and several bad calls by the officials, who were not consistent in their allowance of contact under the backboards.

The key call was at 2:30 of the last half, when Sierra rallied from a 41-34 halftime deficit to tie the score at 63-all. Pat Schafer was called for a ball control foul — i.e., charging — when two Wolverines were all over him and he was not in motion. Tar coach Cal Riemcke called the ruling "ridiculous" which states the case nicely. Schafer, the Tars' leading scorer, then fouled out on another debatable call under the basket.

THE DIFFERENCE

Swesey, however, was the difference. A skinny 6-2 forward with a shock of cornsilk hair, he put in a jumper to give Sierra a three-point lead after the two calls, another jumper after Bill Hoge's basket brought Marin within one, and sank two free throws at 0:36 to give the Wolverines the game. Overall, he hit on seven of ten from the field, mostly 10-15 foot jump shots, and set a new COM Tourney record with 10 of 11

Hornets Meet Lowell In Drake Cage Meet

By GARY TISCHLER

Last night may well have been the Drake Invitational High School Basketball Tournament's longest night. It was certainly its sloppiest and most surprising evening yet.

Consider these developments — Lowell of San Francisco clung to a deliberate, physical game and knocked off unbeaten Petaluma, 53-48, as Petaluma stars Pete Daggett and Larry Riis fouled out in the third quarter in a semifinal game that saw 48 fouls called, 29 on the losers.

Once-beaten Novato obligingly stumbled along with scrappy Drake of San Anselmo and had to grit its teeth to save a 58-51 win that could have gone down the drain by the slip of a toe.

That put the Hornets into the finals against Lowell at 8 o'clock tonight while Drake battles Petaluma for third place at 6:30 p.m.

In consolation play, Terra Linda continued to make this a miserable tournament for Redwood of Larkspur, pulling out a 51-47 upset, and Napa bowled over inept but game Marysville, 59-45.

Terra Linda plays Napa at 5 p.m. for the consolation title while Redwood goes after Marysville for what's left over at 3:30 this afternoon.

DELIBERATE GAME

Defending champion Lowell, with none of the key players from last year's team back, used a pair of swift guards and three behemoths under the boards, plus a more or less deliberate game to bring Petaluma's go-go, run-like-the devil game to an aching and stumbling halt.

The Trojans, who have hit in the 90-point area this season, managed only 10 points in the first three periods, and trailed by 21-20 at the half, wondering if and when they would ignite.

They never did. The third period was strictly a disaster, as first Riis, then Daggett, the superb ballhandler and high-scoring guard, were whistled out of the game.

Daggett, who had scored 29 points against Redwood, finished with 10 points.

Lowell went ahead by as much as 12 points in the final period, but still got a torrid battle from Petaluma's valiant subs, one of whom also fouled out. The subs got to within three points twice, but Bill Leong, a speed whiz who ran the Trojans silly all night, iced it with a pair of free throws.

Lowell also had control of the boards via the hands of bulky 6-5 Glenn Glasgow and Bill Stellings, also 6-5, a pair of slightly unpolished but effective giants.

SHEER GUT

Drake, played a curious style of sheer gut and comedy, throwing the ball away as often as possible but sank free throws like crazy to stay close to the taller, more talented Hornets who obviously felt they had it in the bag a little too soon.

The Hornets, now 5-1 on the season, got 16 points out of free-wheeling center Ed Herrnberger in the first half, but they could never quite shake the Pirates who almost pulled it out in the final seconds.

KEY PLAY

Trailing by three points with 29 seconds left, Pirate Glenn Pfaff got a crack at a one-in-one situation that could have made it a one-point deficit. He sank the first shot but was loudly whistled down for having his toe on the line, nullifying the shot and giving the ball to Novato, which quickly dumped in a pair of layups for the final margin.

Herrnberger wound up with 19 points, tops for Novato, and got big and late help from Steve McNally with 17. Bob Ament played a superb floor game and chipped in with 11 points.

For the second night in a row, Fred Westcott sank 19 points, nine points coming from the free throw line where the Pirates held a 27-16 edge. Dave Alvarado added 11 points and Jeff Meeker had 10 for Drake.

SECOND STRAIGHT

Redwood, which came into the tournament unbeaten, now is 4-2, after its second straight loss.

An icy-cold final period of just six points did the Giants in this time after they led, 15-11, 29-28, and 41-40, going into the final period.

Bob Nadell of Terra Linda led all scorers with 17 points. The Trojans are now 4-1 on the season.

Jim Peters with 11 points and Roger Smith with 10 topped Redwood.

NFL ROUNDUP

Incredible Bears One Away

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Chicago Bears, still on their feet in the National Football League championship race despite a staggering siege of injuries, try to hurdle Green Bay's fallen Packers tomorrow in one of two key games on the final go-round of the regular season.

For the first time in four years, the Packers will be running out the string. For the first time in five, the Bears will be running to daylight.

Chicago, 7-6, is tied for the Central Division lead with the Minnesota Vikings, who wind up against Philadelphia tomorrow. But the Bears have beaten the Vikings twice, and a victory over Green Bay will send them into next week's Western Conference title playoff against Baltimore . . . regardless of the Vikings-Eagles outcome.

In tomorrow's other season finales, the Coastal Division champion Colts visit Los Angeles, the Capitol Division winning Dallas Cowboys are at New York, Detroit at Washington, Pittsburgh at New Orleans and San Francisco at Atlanta.

Cleveland's Century Division kings, who'll meet Dallas next week for the Eastern Conference title, closed out their regular scheduled today at St. Louis.

100TH MEETING

The Bears and Packers go into their 100th meeting at opposite ends of the NFL picture. The Bears are up, having won three of their last four starts, including a 17-16 thriller over the Rams last Sunday at Los Angeles. The Packers are down . . . and out.

Green Bay, the NFL champion three years running, winner of the first two Super Bowl showdowns, was knocked out of the Central race last week by Baltimore. The Packers' 5-7-1 record is their worst in 10 years.

The Bears have been able to surmount obstacle after obstacle, including the loss of running back Gale Sayers five weeks ago for the remainder of the season. The Packers have been unable to overcome injuries to key men, including quarterback Bart Starr, plagued by bruised ribs for the last month.

PACKER PRIDE

But Packer pride should make tomorrow's scrap at Chicago a typically bruising encounter between the two NFL pioneers, who first met in 1921. The Bears won this year's first meeting 13-10 on Mac Percival's free kick field goal in the final minute for a 54-39-6 series edge.

At Philadelphia, the rugged Vikings put their championship hopes on the line against a young Eagle club which lost its first 11 games, then won two in a row to surrender the No. 1 pick in the college draft.

O. J. Simpson, Friends Get Some More Honors

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Southern California's Heisman Trophy-winning halfback O. J. Simpson and quarterback Steve Sogge each walked off with three awards at the annual Trojan awards banquet.

Simpson was named most valuable player at the festivities yesterday, won honors as the most valuable back and received the UCLA game trophy for finest player in USC's 28-16 victory over the crosstown rival Bruins.

Sogge was named the most inspirational player, the most improved player and was also given the Alumni Club Award for the senior with the highest grade point average. In four years, Sogge has maintained a 3.16 average compared to a perfect 4.0.

Others honored:

Bob Klein, end, the John Dye Memorial Award as the outstanding lineman; Kendall Nungesser, quarterback, the Sam Barry Award for the junior varsity player who had done the most for the varsity; and Gerry Shaw, linebacker, the Elmer C. (Gloomy Gus) Henderson Award to the player with the most minutes of action.

A Pair Of Cable Car Shocks As Santa Clara, USF Win

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Two upset winners—Santa Clara and the University of San Francisco—meet tonight in the final of the Cable Car Classic basketball tournament.

Santa Clara stunned nationally 12th ranked Houston 75-50 last night after San Francisco had dumped Brigham Young 79-75. The Broncos, ranked 16th, are now 4-0 and the Cougars 3-2.

The Santa Clara-Houston game was halted twice by two fights among players—the second of which saw both benches emptied as everyone raced to the floor.

Rebounds told the story as the Broncos collected 55 of 45 by for Houston. Dennis Awtrey led the winners with 20 rebounds—tying a tournament record for a single game.

Houston, which scored more than 100 points 18 times last year, had a very poor shooting night, hitting only 27 per cent from the field and missing 15 of 27 free throws.

Bud Ogden topped Santa Clara with 23 points, while Awtrey had 19. U.S. Olympic star Ken Spain was tops for Houston with 11 points.

San Francisco forged ahead 75-73 with 1:48 left on two free throws by Curtis Hinton and then held BYU to a lone point. Hinton, a 6-6 sophomore, ended up with 23 points while teammate Pete Cross took game honors with 29 points and 20 rebounds.

Paul Ruffner led BYU with 20 points. The Dons out-rebounded their rivals 46-36, but trailed 43-42 in percentage from the field.

Both teams now have 2-2 records.

The Coast took another big intersectional win at Seattle where Washington squeezed out a 46-44 win over previously unbeaten Oklahoma State in a defensive struggle.

George Irvine's jumper with two seconds to go overcame a fine effort by the losers' soph hotshot Amos Thomas. The two teams will clash again tonight.

But another Pacific Eight team tasted defeat as Washington State was upset in a Friday the 13th shocker at Montana, 109-96. At Spokane, Washington State manhandled the same team by a 90-57 count. Dennis Hegge of the losers led scorers with 29 points.

McNeil In Spotlight As 49ers Meet Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — San Francisco 49er split end Clifton McNeil, with one pass reception championship wrapped up, gets his last chance at a second one tomorrow when the 49ers close out their season against the Atlanta Falcons.

McNeil, who came to the 49ers at the beginning of the season from the Cleveland Browns and quickly established himself as one of the top receivers in the National Football League, has 69 receptions for 975 yards.

The reception mark virtually assures him of NFL supremacy in that department. Roy Jefferson of Pittsburgh is second with 52.

JONES GAINS

But Homer Jones of the New York Giants has gained one more yard than McNeil.

In Atlanta, the 49ers face one of the poorest pass-defense teams in the NFL. The Falcons have allowed an average of 221.2 yards per game through the air.

The Giants, on the other hand, face Dallas, which has allowed only 167.2 yards per game passing. So if the statistics hold up, McNeil might have a chance to end up the leader in both departments.

As for the game itself, the 49ers must beat the Falcons if they are not to fall below .500 for the first time in four years. San Francisco now stands at 6-6-1. The Falcons' record is 2-11.

Promotion Gets Out Of Control

BOSTON (AP) — A promotional gimmick got out of hand last night at the Boston Garden basketball game between the San Francisco Warriors and the Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association.

The Garden management, to promote their "Ball Night" scheduled for Wednesday, had the Harlem Globetrotters throw out several basketballs to youthful fans, and a melee resulted in which several youngsters were hurt.

As the Globetrotters threw the free balls into the stands, youngsters poured down from their seats. One was hit over the eye in the scramble.

Nino Favored In Title Bout

SAN REMO, Italy (AP) — Italy's Nino Benvenuti has emerged the 3-1 favorite to beat wiry Don Fullmer of Utah tonight and retain the world middleweight boxing crown.

The good-looking, brown-haired Benvenuti became the first Italian ever to wear the crown when he outpointed Emile Griffith in New York in April, 1967.

He lost the title to Emile in a rematch the following September, but regained it in New York last March. All three bouts with Griffith went the full 15 rounds. In fact, Benvenuti has never been knocked out in 80 professional bouts.

If Fullmer wins tonight, he will be the 34th American to hold the 160-pound division title and the second member of his family to do it. Brother Gene, now a mink rancher in Utah, held it twice—in 1957 and again from 1959 to 1962.

Betting was mostly in favor of the 30-year-old Italian. And American sportswriters here for the match generally agreed with the 3-1 odds.

Most observers also were betting there would be some action outside the 2,500-seat Ariston Theater tonight. Leftist high school and university students have denounced the event as a "capitalistic feast" and promised to demonstrate against it.

The students seek to swing television cameras their way to call wide attention to what they call San Remo's "poor and unknown elements."

The bout is to be telecast live throughout virtually all of Western Europe, including Italy, and sent to the United States and Canada via telstar.

Meanwhile, organizers drastically slashed ticket prices in hopes of filling the arena. At 50,000 lire ($80) and 25,000 lire ($40) tickets have sold poorly. The match has drawn only a smattering of the jet set San Remo had hoped to attract.

Less than 24 hours before the fight, the $40 tickets were put on sale at 5,000 lire ($8).

POSSIBLE RALLY

Organizers hoped this would calm down the student protestors. But police called in reinforcements from other cities to brace for a possibly rowdy, egg-heaving rally.

The 29-year-old Fullmer and his manager, Angelo Curley, however, were concerned only with what happens inside the theater, and they were not over-confident of a fair shake.

Promoter Rino Tommasi tried to dispel the Fullmer camp's worries about Italian refereeing by praising Piero Brambilla of Milan, tonight's referee, as a man widely known for impartial justice.

But Tommasi told Fullmer that European Boxing Union rules apply here and so the boxers must wear eight-ounce gloves, not the six-ounce variety U.S. fighters are used to.

Curley said he was afraid the referee might hinder Fullmer's close-in boxing style by calling too many "breaks." Tommasi assured Curley that Brambilla would let the fighters alone as much as he could.

Villanova Aiming For No. 2

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Villanova Wildcats are living up to pre-season expectations that they would be the strongest college basketball team in the East.

Coach Jack Kraft's boys from the Philadelphia Main Line made it four in a row by whipping Boston College 78-68 in a battle of unbeaten teams at Newton, Mass. last night.

Now only Catholic University stands between the nationally eighth-ranked Wildcats and an acid test against the second-ranked North Carolina Tar Heels in the first round of Holiday Festival Tournament in New York on Dec. 27.

Howie Porter, a 6-foot-8 sophomore, was the big gun for the Wildcats with 24 points as they knocked Bob Cousy's Eagles out of the unbeaten ranks. Terry Driscoll of BC was high for the game with 25.

A ROMP

The New Mexico Lobos, No. 5 in The Associated Press poll and the only other team in the top 10 to see action, enjoyed a 100-63 home court romp over Occidental.

Michigan State downed Butler 70-60, Washington edged Oklahoma State 46-44 on George Irvine's jumper in the last two seconds. Alabama similarly edged Miami of Florida 85-82 and Montana nipped Washington State 100-96 in other home court triumphs.

Wyoming and Duquesne won on the road. Wyoming beat Utah State 89-72 and the Dukes defeated American U. 86-56.

LATE HEROICS

Jimmy England hit a 25-foot jumper late in the second half to put Tennessee ahead 48-46 and the Vols went on to defeat Oklahoma 55-49 in the first round of the Volunteer Classic at Knoxville. Southern Illinois crushed Texas 58-37 in the other first round game and plays Tennessee in the final tonight.

Kansas came from behind to beat Creighton 78-65 and Kansas State trounced Syracuse 88-68 in the Sunflower doubleheader at Manhattan, Kan.

In the opening of the Cable Car Classic at San Francisco, the San Francisco Dons defeated Brigham Young 79-75 and Santa Clara walloped Houston 75-50.

free throws for a total of 24 points.

American River had little trouble with Yuba, outrunning, outshooting, and outstealing the 49ers from the opening tap.

Napa led most of the way against Reedley, taking a 72-70 lead at 0:17 on a corner shot by husky Bob Smith, but Reedley's Jim Mitchell hit on a twelve-foot jumper to send the game into overtime with four seconds left.

In the overtime period, two baskets and a free throw by Napa's Ken Clark (who tied Reedley's Wayne Aalto for game-and-tournament-scoring honors with 26 points) put the game out of reach, particularly since Mitchell, Reedley's backcourt leader, was tossed out of the game on a flagrant foul call — which was first called a technical (Mitchell pushed someone while both were off the ball) then a flagrant foul, which carries expulsion with it.

RIEMCKE HAPPY

Riemcke was happy with the improvement in his team's play, unhappy with the officiating, but felt that the game might have helped the team jell, as several reserves filled in for injured starters and did well. "With Andre Horn out, I thought Chris Cupples and Paul Leete both did fine jobs, along with Bill Hoge and Pat Schafer. Tom Seidenberg played well, too — as well as can be expected with that cage over his broken nose." Leete and Cupples had 13 and 12 points respectively while Horn sat out the game with a swollen ankle injured against Napa Thursday night. Marin returns to action Wednesday night against Napa in Napa.

WARRIORS TRYING FOR COMEBACK

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The San Francisco Warriors, fresh from a 108-98 win against the Boston Celtics, go against Philadelphia tonight, hopefully on the comeback trail.

The Warriors were in a five-game loss streak before the Boston match, four games back in the Western Division of the National Basketball Association.

The trouble was that center Nate Thurmond was sidelined with a bad thigh. But he got back into play last night, led with 27 points and saved the day.

The Warriors took an early lead and outscored the Celtics by 18 points at the free throw line.

Rodgers Turns Offensive Star

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pro football teams are well known for their ability to march downfield against the clock in the final two minutes for winning points, but Guy Rodgers has his own National Basketball Association two-minute drill.

Rodgers ran up and down the court, popping in 11 points in the final two minutes last night, and brought Milwaukee from behind to a 101-96 victory over San Diego.

The Bucks' guard, more famous for his playmaking than his scoring, put on his one-man show with host Milwaukee trailing 94-90. He hit three field goals and five free throws.

Oscar Robertson also came on strong in the final minutes, scoring seven of Cincinnati's 18 overtime points for a 130-123 victory over Phoenix in Cleveland.

In other games, San Francisco surprised host Boston 108-98, the visiting New York Knicks whipped cold-shooting Chicago 94-83 and Atlanta nipped Los Angeles 105-103.

In the American Basketball Association, Oakland downed Minnesota 127-122, Denver trounced New Orleans 127-108, Indiana whipped Kentucky 115-107 and New York turned back Houston 112-107.

San Diego led 54-37 before halftime and still held an 89-75 spread in the fourth quarter before Rodgers hit his stride, dropping 18 of his 20 points in the finale. Elvin Hayes had 27 for San Diego.

Cincinnati, playing without Coach Ed Jucker, Jerry Lucas and Don Smith, all out with the flu, needed a 30-foot shot at the buzzer by Tom Van Arsdale to tie 112-all at the end of regulation time. Robertson, finishing with 34 points, took it from there.

The Knicks, using five technical fouls, pulled to a 64-55 lead in the third quarter when the Bulls managed only five of 19 field goals. Chicago never recovered.

Los Angeles 1-2-3 punch of Wilt Chamberlain, Elgin Baylor and Jerry West had with 70 points, but the Lakers couldn't get a basket during a three-minute span late in the final quarter and Don Ohl and Lou Hudson put in nine straight Hawk points to build a 103-96 lead with 1:05 left.

Redwood Frosh Team Remains Unbeaten

Redwood High School of Larkspur's unbeaten freshman basketball team ran its record to 4-0 by downing Terra Linda 39-30 on Thursday and Drake of San Anselmo 40-25 yesterday.

Jim Thorn had 16 points against Terra Linda and 15 against Drake to pace the scoring in both victories.

Raiders Will Know What's At Stake Vs. Chargers

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

One thing the Oakland Raiders won't have to worry about when they play San Diego in tomorrow's key American Football League game is the scoreboard.

The Raiders can concentrate totally on the Chargers because Kansas City—Oakland's rival for the AFL's Western Division crown—is in action today. That means the Raiders will know exactly where they stand when they take the field against San Diego.

An Oakland victory can insure the Raiders a share of the Western title no matter how Kansas City makes out against Denver today. Of course, a Bronco upset over the Chiefs would leave the Raiders with a clear shot at the title.

In other AFL games tomorrow, New York, the Eastern Division champion, plays at Miami and Houston hosts Boston.

If the Chiefs and Raiders come out of the weekend action still tied, they'll play off for the AFL's Western crown at Oakland Dec. 22. A week later, the AFL title game will be played in New York with the Jets hosting.

Oakland and Kansas City both take 11-2 marks into the weekend and both could be in for trouble. The Raiders barely escaped against Denver a week ago, winning 33-27, and the Broncos promise to make things every bit as tough for the Chiefs.

"We'd like to wind up the season by winning a big one," said Lou Saban, coach of the youthful and improving Broncos. "We came close against San Diego and Oakland the last two weeks."

Kansas City eliminated San Diego from the Western race with a 40-3 romp last week and the Chargers would like to wipe out some of the embarrassment against Oakland.

The Raiders will still be without Kent McCloughan, the all-league cornerback who has missed six games with a knee ailment. McCloughan thought he might be able to play Sunday but Raiders' officials decided against it rather than risk an aggravation of the injury.

"The mistake made last year in a similar situation with Tom Keating, will not be repeated," a Raider spokesman said. Keating, an all-league tackle, injured an ankle in the AFL title game last year and then compounded the injury in the Super Bowl and All Star games and has been out all season because of it.

Clean-shaven Joe Namath will lead the Jets against Miami with New York hoping to pay a return visit to the Orange Bowl in about a month for the Super Bowl. Namath shaved his Fu Manchu mustache and beard off for a TV commercial last week—becoming the last of the Jets' beards to surrender.

Houston, last year's Eastern champion, aims for a .500 finish against Boston with the Patriots completing another dismal season.

Indians Capture First

Tamalpais High School of Mill Valley won its first basketball game of the year last night, but had to wait until after the game was over to do it. Bill Secor of the Indians was fouled on a shot at the buzzer with the score tied 33-all and put in the first free throw after time had run out to give Tam a 34-33 victory over Terra Nova. In other games, San Rafael High downed Armijo in Fairfield, 62-53 behind a strong rebounding effort and 31 points by Bruce Nave, while Marin Catholic lost in the St. Elizabeth's Tournament in Oakland, falling to Richmond High 80-60.

Tam and Terra Nova played a slow, defensive ballgame in Mill Valley, with the Injuns taking a 21-13 lead at the half, only to have Terra Nova comeback in the second half to tie it up before Secor's free throw iced the verdict. Mal Sibberson and Ronnie Small had eight points apiece to pace Tamalpais.

Nave, a clever 5-8 junior guard, sank an incredible 17 free throws to lead San Rafael's conquest of Armijo, Bulldog coach Mike Diaz' alma mater. Bill Slezar led the backboard assault for San Rafael with 16 rebounds, followed by Roger Thomas' 14 and Bruce D'Ambra's 12. Jim Grant, one of two front-line giants for Armijo, had 19 points to pace the hosts.

Richmond ran off 30 points in the first quarter to put Marin Catholic in a hole. The big gun was Jim Shelon, a 6-4 forward with strength and moves. He poured in 35 points, 30 in the first half alone, to put the game out of MC's reach. Mike Murray had 23 points to lead the Wildcats. MC plays Miramonte at one o'clock for 7th.

The JV action, San Rafael routed Armijo 68-38, led by Al Rossi's 18 rebounds, and Tamalpais beat Terra Nova 48-40.

His Name Is On Honor Plaque

Novato optometrist Steven S. Bates has had his name placed on a memorial plaque in honor of the late O. C. "Cort" Majors, captain of the 1920 University of California "Wonder Team."

The plaque features a reproduction in brass of the picture of the starting Cal football team of 1920. Also attached are brass plates carrying the names of the 1920 squad members and coaches, and the names of all the Cal football captains since 1920.

Bates, a halfback when he played for the Bears, was 1960 co-captain along with Bill Patton.

ABA ROUNDUP

Hawkins-Barry Scrap Fails To Come Off

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The first regular season meeting between Rick Barry and Connie Hawkins will have to wait another day—actually another 15 days.

Hawkins, the American Basketball Association's most valuable player last season, sat it out with a bruised elbow last night as Barry scored 45 points to lead the Oakland Oaks to a 127-122 victory over Minnesota.

Their next meeting is scheduled for Dec. 29 at Minnesota.

Elsewhere, Denver moved past idle Dallas into second place in the Western Division by trouncing New Orleans 127-108, Indiana topped Kentucky 115-107, and New York held off Houston 112-107.

Despite Hawkins' absence, Minnesota led Oakland 117-109 with 6½ minutes left. But the Oaks went on a 12-2 tear to take the lead and were never headed.

Barry, the league's top scorer, poured in 21 of his points in the third period. Chico Vaughn led the Pipers with 32.

Denver's Larry Jones outshone New Orleans' Jimmy Jones as the Rockets routed the Bucs. Larry Jones pumped in 29 points as the Rockets led from the start, at one point by 32. Wayne Hightower put the clamps on Jimmy Jones, who had been averaging 28 points a game, and held him to 17.

Fred Lewis and Mel Daniels scored 23 points apiece and Bob Netolicky added 21 to pace Indiana to its first two-game winning streak of the season. The Pacers led by as many as 20 points but had to withstand a fourth-period Kentucky rally.

Bob Lloyd scored 10 points in the final 4½ minutes to insure New York's triumph over Houston. The Nets broke away from a 92-92 tie with eight straight points, six by Lloyd, who finished with 20. Walt Simon led the Nets with 32 points, the same as Houston's Willie Somerset. Levern Tart added 21 for the Nets.

The game was delayed 20 minutes at the start when three officials, including Pat Denoy, showed up. Denoy was suspended by ABA Commissioner George Mikan on Thursday but said he had not been notified. He finally stepped aside.

Market Busy At Yuletide But Mostly Goes Sideways

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market churned through another week of heavy volume but made little headway except Friday.

It was not unusual. This is the season to be jolly, and on Wall Street merriment at Christmas time is a thing called switching and selling for income tax purposes, which makes for an irregular market pattern. Thus the sizable volume and the virtually stationary market.

Good news was in abundance, and at another time would have been impelling enough to give the list some punch.

The Commerce Department released a survey showing that manufacturers expected increased sales early next year. The auto industry reported that for the first 10 days this month sales jumped about 20 per cent above the figure for the year ago period.

Commerce also reported a rise in retail sales in November, ending a two-month dip. Christmas sales also were reported at a healthy level, according to Dun & Bradstreet.

The Labor Department noted that unemployment last month eased, further evidence that the income tax surcharge which went into effect at mid-year was having little impact in cooling off the economy.

HOLIDAY MUSIC FESTIVAL

The United Methodist Church of Mill Valley, Camino Alto and Sycamore Avenue, will present a festival of Christmas music at tomorrow's 11 a.m. worship service. There will be no sermon, but three choirs, including one composed of handbell ringers composed of church youth including George Landrock of San Rafael (left) and Scott Gallagher of Mill Valley. Directing the service will be Dale Danley, director of music. A highlight will be presentation of "The Little Drummer Boy," featuring the handbell ringers and Artie Huycke on the snare drum. The service is open to the public.

Two 'Davids' Dueling Over 'Involvement'

NEW YORK (AP) — Two "Davids" have squared off in a face-to-face duel over a Goliath-size struggle which is rumbling throughout American churchdom.

Their particular encounter, in print and on the air, offers a close-up scene out of the wider story.

A sampling:

"The church should adhere strictly to its spiritual mission," says Rev. David C. Head, chairman of a specially organized group, the Clergymen's Committee on China.

THE TRADITION

"The historic tradition of the church is to wage peace and justice," contends Rev. David Poling, president of the evangelical, non-denominational monthly, the Christian Herald. This "means involvement in human affairs."

Counters Rev. Head, a Baptist, of Briarcliff Manor, N.Y.: "You create havoc within the church when you encourage people to take a stand on these (controversial political-economic) issues. You divide the church, and this is what's happening today. Individual members are being pitted against one another."

Replies Reverend Poling, a Presbyterian, of Pleasantville, N.Y.: "Christianity has always faced division over moral issues. Slavery in this country divided the United States for a hundred years—divided the churches in half. Whenever the church takes a stand in social affairs, it's going to get kicked and powder burns and cuts. That's the name of the Christian game, whether in the first century or today."

WRITTEN DEBATE

The debate, commenced in written statements, developed into a confrontation between the two on a "World of Religion" discussion over the Columbia Broadcasting System radio network.

Reverend Head contended: "Respect for the clergy has been decimated fantastically within this country. There should be more of an emphasis for zealously proclaiming the good news of how man can be liberated actually from the bondage of sin and discover true peace and happiness by faith in Christ, Jesus." The church should get "back upon the spiritual road."

Declared Reverend Poling: "The church can't back away from social issues. The church should stick its neck out. It should talk about peace in this military society of ours and take its stand."

Replied Reverend Head: "Unfortunately, this is exactly what the Communists talk about all the time—peace—it's their favorite word."

So it goes, an argument that could be duplicated in innumerable religious conversations across the country. It usually builds up to charges of pro-Communist influences in the churches, with counterblasts of smear and falsehood.

TRADITIONAL FEAST OF LIGHTS

Hanukah, traditionally known as the Feast of Lights, will begin at sundown tomorrow, continuing through next Sunday. For Walter Hotzner of Terra Linda this year's Hanukah season has special meaning since he has just returned from a lengthy stay at Marin General Hospital, recovering from a heart attack. Holding the Hotzner's silver Menorah is daughter Judy while his other daughter, Terri, looks on. Both of Marin's Jewish congregations, Kol Shofar, of which Hotzner is a founder, and Rodef Sholom will have at least one special service during the eight-day feast which is primarily centered in individual members' homes. Hanukah is the annual celebration of the Meccabees' victory over the Greek-Syrian government more than 2,000 years ago. (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean)

Contemporary Service Set At Faith Lutheran Church

Faith Lutheran Church, 355 Los Ranchitos Road, Terra Linda, will present another in a series of contemporary worship services at 9:15 and 11 a.m. tomorrow.

Replacing the traditional sermon will be a reading of "The Man," taken from Ray Bradbury's recent book, "The Illustrated Man."

The story has been adapted for use by Edmond Deam of Novato, a member of the church.

Following the 9:15 a.m. service an adult discussion group will meet at 10 a.m. to examine member response to the use of science-fiction as a means of communication the Christian message.

The 11 a.m. service which makes use of the traditional Lutheran liturgy, will also feature Deam's talk.

Also tomorrow the church will hold its annual church school program, beginning at 6 p.m. under direction of Mrs. David Rixon of Terra Linda.

Choir To Give Holiday Cantata

John Peterson's Christmas cantata, "A Song Unending" will be presented at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow by the choir of the First Baptist Church of San Anselmo.

Directed by Elizabeth Roesch, the church's choirmistress, the choir will be accompanied by Mrs Scott Wan at the organ and Mrs. Gordon Chan at the piano.

Soloists will be Donna Galli, soprano; Mrs Gerald Overzet, mezzo-soprano; Robert Shawhan, tenor, and an alto duet composed of Mrs. Ralph Fortune and Mrs. Edgar Stump.

Churchmen Oppose Drug Law Changes

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UPI)—About 80 per ent of persons responding to a poll conducted by the Assemblies of God were opposed to relaxation of present laws concerning marijuana and similar drugs.

Some 18,000 respondents out of the 22,000 questioned said "no" to any relaxation of the laws.

PULPIT GUEST — Dr. Arnold B. Come, president of San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, will be guest preacher at tomorrow's 9 and 11 a.m. services at the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo. Dr. Come's sermon topic is "Jesus: Prince of Law and Order."

Original Play Tomorrow At Church

"Family Adoration," an original Christmas pageant will be presented at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow by the church school department of the Bethel Baptist Church, 1929 Novato Boulevard.

The play was written by Mrs. Donald Gorney. Mrs. William Olsen will direct. The play centers on a family worship hour on Christmas Eve and features slides depicting various events during the life of Christ.

Mrs. Edwin Grundstrom will play the mother; William Olsen, the father; Kanani Jones and Dennis Blevins, the children. Lorna Smith will act the part of Mary and Robert Beattie will be Joseph. Michael Pater and Danny Hobbs will be shepherds.

There will be carol singing and placing gifts at the manger with the gifts will go to the Scandinavian Seamen's Mission in San Francisco.

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Roman Catholics of the Archdiocese of St. Paul-Minneapolis have been given pevmission to join the local YMCAs and YWCAs.

St. Louis Archbishop Building Jewish Bridge

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—The Most Rev. John Carberry has been Catholic Archbishop of St. Louis for less than a year, but his reputation for harmonius relations with Jews has followed him to his latest assignment.

Archbishop Carberry, who promoted creation of the Church's Secretariat on Catholic-Jewish relations, was guest of honor at a recent dinner sponsored by the St. Louis Jewish Federation and the B'nai B'rith Anti-Defamation League.

When Archbishop Carberry was Bishop of Columbus, Ohio, before his appointment in St. Louis, he was named chairman of the Committee on Ecumenical and Interreligious Affairs of the American Catholic hierarchy.

The committee recommended founding of the Secretariat on Catholic-Jewish Relations, which this year published guidelines for Catholics in the relations with Jews.

The purpose of the guidelines is "to serve notice that injustices directed against the Jewish people at any time from any source can never receive Catholic sanction or support."

Bishop Carberry was the first Catholic bishop in Columbus to speak from the pulpit of one of the city's Jewish synagogues. In May 1967, priests of the Catholic Diocese of Columbus took part in a service at Congregation Tifereth Israel to show concern for Israel in the Middle East crisis.

A pastoral letter distributed by Bishop Carberry to his Columbus priests said: "The roots of anti-Semitism are deep and dark. Therefore, it is vital that all people become informed of the truth about this sin against Christ."

The speaker at the St. Louis dinner honoring Archbishop Carberry was Dr. Joseph Lichten, director of Intercultural Affairs of the Anti-Defamation League.Lichten met Bishop Carberry when both were in Rome for the Second Vatican Council.

Conscience Payment

HIGH WYCOMBE, England (UPI) — Rev. Eric Hague received a one-pound ($2.40) note and a letter from a man who wanted to clear his conscience. The man explained the pound was repayment for 10 pence he stole from the church 37 years ago.

Covenant Church Sets Holiday Event

Highlight of the Christmas season at the Marin Convent Church, which holds services at the Marinwood Community Center, will be its first annual Scandinavian Christmas Festival.

The festival will be held at 5:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 22. Activities will include a smorgasbord dinner, Christmas carol singing and a brief focus on Christmas by Rev. Gary R. Copeland, pastor.

Special guests will be Pro Madrigale Musica singers of Marin, who will present special holiday music.

During this month the church is holding worship services on Sundays at 9:30 a.m. nnd church school at 10:45 a.m.

Priest Updating Role On Campus

NEW YORK (UPI)—Father Joseph McNamara, OMI, assistant chaplain of Manhattan College, has very definite ideas on a priest's role at a college. The result: Midnight Mass on campus, confessons in dormitories, and daily masses in campus buildings.

STUDENTS' NEED HEEDED

Collegian Lends Helping Hand To Terra Linda High Teen-agers

A tutoring program for high school students has been initiated by a College of Marin sophomore who had heard youths say they needed help.

Mario Castaneda, South American-born student attending the college on a work-study program, said he has been talking with Terra Linda teens since he came to Marin three years ago.

"Some of them had problems. Every now and then, someone needed help," said Castaneda, a physics major who plans to transfer to the University of California at Davis next summer.

Castaneda lived with several Terra Linda families before he became a part-time Terra Linda fireman and moved to the station. His discussions with teens have continued at the fire station with high school student volunteers.

Convinced of the need for a tutoring project, Castaneda named the program Ayuda, the Spanish word for help, and began seeking cooperation.

He talked to College of Marin officials for tutoring support and to Terra Linda officials for students. An item in last week's Terra Linda school paper produced about 10 students, he said.

Support also came from Fire Chief George Walser, who agreed to let students use a room at the fire station and from the recreation department which approved use of recreation center rooms.

"I think it will be good — to get to them before they get into trouble," said Walser enthusiastically.

A fellow part-time fireman, Brian Waterbury of Terra Linda, volunteered his services for public relations.

Waterbury, a student at San Mateo Junior College, said he is interested because he needed a tutor in high school but couldn't afford it.

Secretary-treasurer of the new group is Irene Williams, a senior at Terra Linda High School, who will coordinate the students' end of the project.

Castaneda said he believes the service is a vital necessity. "Some people just get left behind," he said.

He added he has noted that, when students who are having problems reach mid-teens, they are tempted to quit studying and get a job.

The tutoring service will not only help them with their school work, but put them in contact with people who like to learn, he said.

"It may provide them with motivation," he said.

Castaneda plans to begin the project in time for help with semester finals and then continue with a regular program next semester.

Eventually, he said, students from other colleges, such as Sonoma State, which has a similar program, will join local tutors to offer the service to all students in the county.

Students who would like to take advantage of the service may contact Castaneda at the Terra Linda firehouse, 650 Del Ganado Road, Terra Linda.

Violence Blamed In Pullout Of Clinic At Marin City

Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, Marin County health officer, said yesterday that a family planning clinic was pulled out of Marin City because of four acts of violence against women attending the clinic.

"When I found out that a woman leaving the clinic had had her purse grabbed and had been hospitalized with a broken nose, I felt we could no longer take the responsibility for the safety of people attending the clinic," Dr. Albrecht said.

The clinic, which was held in St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church once a month on Tuesday nights, has been switched to the health department office in San Rafael, Dr. Albrecht said.

She reported that personnel of the clinic had asked the sheriff's office for more protection but were told that deputies were already "doing all they could."

Not only were four women accosted outside on the clinic, Dr. Albrecht said, but on two occasions automobiles of clinic volunteers were broken into.

Only about 20 per cent of the people using the clinic were Marin City residents, Dr. Albrecht said.

Some Ideas For Gifts To Boaters

For the man or family with a boat, there is a seemingly endless array of Christmas gift ideas that can be put to good use on the water.

Depending on your budget, you can get him, or them, anything from an outboard motor to a ship's bell. A visit to your local marina, boat dealer or sporting goods store will give you a fair idea of what's available.

SMALL OUTBOARD motors from one to three horsepower are offered by all motor companies these days, and all depend on aluminum as a key ingredient for lightweight dependability.

For the skipper who likes to entertain, you may want to consider hand-forged aluminum sandwich and cocktail trays, pitchers and ashtrays. They won't rust nor will they break down from accidental crashing to the deck.

Insulated non-tarnishing aluminum hot and cold mugs and cups are other appropriate gifts. They're also unbreakable and easy to keep clean.

MODERN TECHNOLOGY has developed a special extremely lightweight aluminized space blanket guaranteed to keep the boatman warm, yet folds up to fit in a trouser or jacket pocket — easy for stowing aboard.

The new aluminum boat hooks that extend from less than three feet to eight feet make useful gifts.

Folding aluminum swim ladders are light, strong and long-lasting.

A Timely Gift For The Child

This Christmas why not delight your youngster with a unique educational and decorative gift, one he's sure to make use of every day throughout the year?

A whimsically designed clock can be the perfect present for the juvenile set.

For the young child who has just conquered the mystery of time, a clock of his own will encourage the mastery of a new skill. A colorful timepiece with easy to read lettering and an amusing motif becomes an attractive wall accessory to enhance his room and make him proud of his ability to tell time.

Original St. Nick Lived In Asia Minor

The original St. Nicholas lived in Asia Minor during the Fourth Century, and was the patron saint of maidens, children, merchants and sailors, according to Encyclopedia Americana.

Our present-day Santa Claus comes by way of Holland, where he was known as Sant Nikolaas, traveled on a gray horse, and left presents in children's shoes on Christmas Eve.

A Setback For Yule Tradition

To the dismay of many traditionalists, more and more families are going for store-bought permanent or artificial Christmas trees.

There are several reasons for the trend:

FIRST, THE so-called permanent trees can be reused year after year if given reasonable care.

Second, they offer the advantage of greater uniformity in shape.

And, last but by no means least, they provide a greater margin of safety against fire.

The run on aluminum Christmas trees has been heightened by the added variety in color, sizes and styles.

MANUFACTURERS are offering trees in gold, green, blue and red in addition to the natural silvery color. Sizes begin with table-top models and range up to seven feet in height. Styles vary from the basic tree to those where the branches end in a flower-like tassel.

Setting up an aluminum tree is not difficult.

A center pole is set into the stand and tightened. Then the branches are put into the factory-drilled holes. It's best to work from top to bottom. A seven-foot tree can be assembled in about an hour.

A WORD about decorating the tree — it's best not to put electric lights directly on a tree, aluminum or otherwise.

Let Christmas Spirit Show Outside Home

Christmas is a season of sharing. It's a time to share with family, friends, strangers.

Why not also let the warm indoor cheer of your Christmas reflect in your outdoor decorations? Wish all who pass your home a gay "Season's Greetings."

Here are some tips for creating ingenious and joyous effects:

1. Begin with a plan.
2. Keep the plan simple, accenting and decorating a single feature — a tree, chimney, or door.
3. If you want to be more elaborate combine several of these features into an eye-appealing over-all scheme.
4. Use your imagination to camouflage floodlights. Pine boughs, tiny figures, or "snow" banked behind the lights hide them well.
5. Don't overdecorate with lights strung haphazardly from tree to tree, or gate to tree.
6. For lop-sided trees run the lights from the top, to pegs in the ground, teepee-fashion, for a more symmetrical effect.

Some Hints On Planning Festivities

Preparations for Christmas — including gift-giving, decorating and making a big family meal — can often be a problem, even for the most efficient hostess.

Here are some hints which can make the holidays easier and more enjoyable:

Store Christmas candles in the refrigerator for 24 hours before using. They won't drip and will burn more evenly.

HOLIDAY FRUIT cakes will keep indefinitely if they're properly wrapped and stored. A touch of orange juice sprinkled over the cake occasionally keeps it from drying out and adds extra flavor.

Remove cranberry spills from the tablecloth by immediately rubbing with an ice cube and then wash it.

Pine cones will gleam brightly if you place them on a piece of aluminum foil and put them in the oven at a very low temperature for a short while.

Popcorn that is being used to trim the tree should stand in the air for a while so it loses its crispness and won't break during stringing.

ADD COLOR TO homemade candles by melting crayons with the paraffin.

Use bonbons and cream cheese to make decorative roses for holiday eating. Thin cheese slightly with milk and add coloring. Take the tip of a teaspoon and arrange the cheese petals on the candy, smoothing from the top down.

Anyone who grows herbs can make an unusual gift by wrapping small amounts of dried herbs in cheese cloth squares. Each square should provide enough seasoning for one use — like a pot of soup or some salad dressing.

Correct Way To Trim Tree

There is a "correct" way to trim the tree if your eager and impatient children will allow it.

First inspect the lights for frayed cords, exposed wires, and broken sockets. Check all the bulbs. Then begin with the lights at the top working down and around placing them on the boughs nearest trunk first and working outward to the tips of the branches.

After all the lights are in place, hang the other decorations.

A Cookie Hunt

When old friends drop by, you can keep their children happily occupied with a Christmas cookie hunt. Just before they arrive, write each child's name in frosting on a home-made cookie — perhaps angels for girls and Santas for boys. Hide them among the ornaments on your tree and let each child search for his or her own cookie.

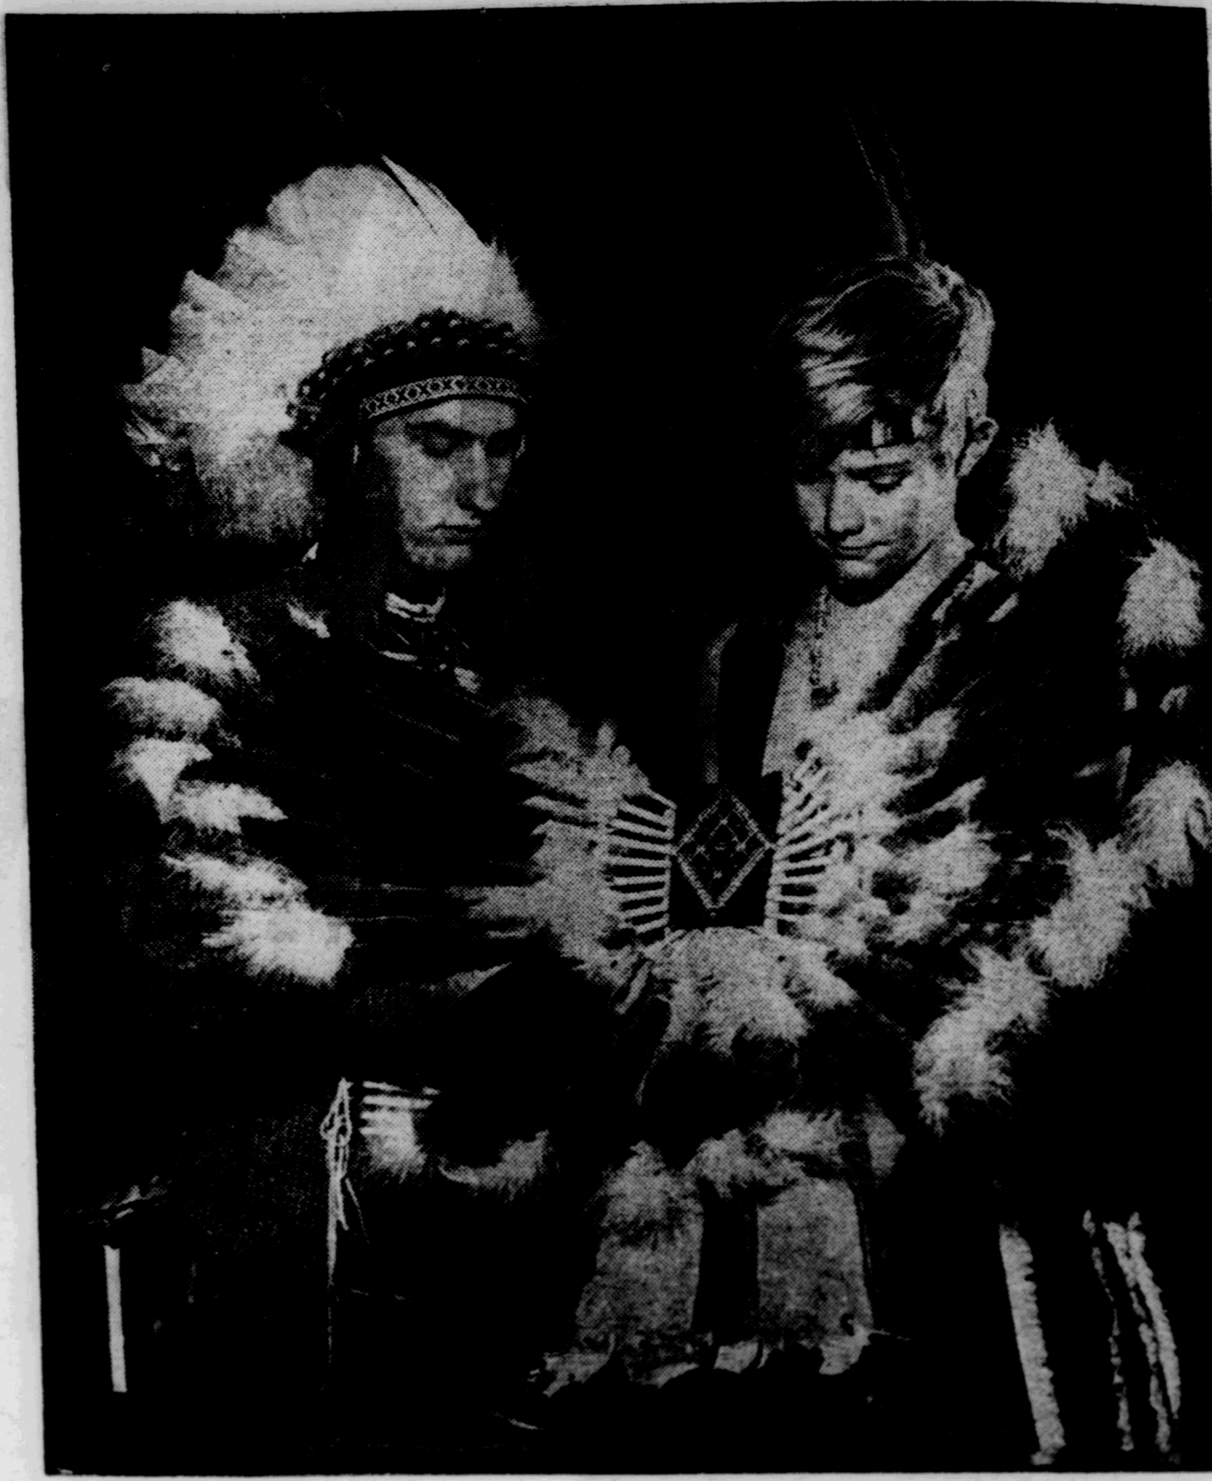
A Different Kind Of Folk Dance

Marin Youths Master The Rituals Of American Indians

By DON KEOWN



BERNE HOLMAN, left, one of the older members of the Talako Lodge Indian Dance Team of the Marin Boy Scout Council's Order of the Arrow, helps Dave White with the finishing touches to a feathered bustle that goes on the back of the Sioux costume.

At least once a month, a score of Marin youths, ages 12 to 19, go to a dance.

It is by no means the usual "rock" dance popular with today's teen-agers.

For one thing, the only instruments to be heard are drums.

For another, it's an all-male affair. There are no girls present.

YOU MIGHT call it folk dancing. But it is not the kind of folk dancing customarily associated with enthusiasts of ethnic dances. It's a completely, 100 per cent American kind of folk dancing.

The practitioners are the boys who make up the Talako Lodge Indian Dance Team from the Marin Boy Scout Council's honorary Order of the Arrow for outstanding Scouts.

Indian history and lore is a keen interest with the members of the order. And for some 20 of them, the Indian dance is a subject of special serious attention.

THE MARIN Scouts have been studying, mastering and performing the Indian dances since about 1951.

Dave Webb, 17, a Marin Catholic High School senior who is the current leader, says the Marin unit was founded in about 1951 —"I believe by Ted Davis."

Webb joined the group in 1963, making him the senior member of the dance team at present.

THREE OTHER older boys — Berne Holman and Ken and Bob Bode — with Webb make up a leadership nucleus for the group and provide direction for the younger members.

All the boys are first class Scouts or higher. "And all," says Webb, "aspire to become Eagle Scouts."

Indeed, "talako" is a Choctaw Indian word meaning "high eagle."

WEBB SAYS the boys at present have accomplished some 12 dances, and are in the process of adding more to their repertoire. A dance usually lasts from five to 10 minutes.

"They are mostly Sioux dances, or dances from the other Plains Indians," Webb says, "And mostly from the period just before 1900."

By selecting that time period, the boys simplify the problem of outfitting themselves in authentic Indian costumes.

BY THEN, the Plains tribesmen were wearing cloth, rather than leather.

The Scouts make their own costumes including the footgear, some with a bit of sewing assistance from their mothers. Their handiwork includes such skills as dyeing feathers and stringing bones. Webb is especially adept at beadwork.

Webb says the dances are worked out by the youths after extensive research that is made more difficult by the scarcity of resource materials.

"WE ARE always on the lookout for old books or photographs about the Plains Indians," he says.

From those few materials they do discover, they learn not only the dance movements and their meaning, but also the correct costumes.

The costumes, representing Sioux and Crow garb of the 1890-1900 period, are colorful, featuring various colored shirts, with fancy beadwork, dark blue leggings, some headdresses and roaches (hair decorations), and mocassins.

FOR THE accompaniment, the Scouts make their own drums. They also make the tomahawks, lances, pipe bags, rattles and fans they carry in the dances.

Of the dances, Webb says: "Some were for entertainment, some were for religious purposes. We avoid doing the religious dances out of respect for the Indians.

"After all, we wouldn't like to see people imitating a Catholic mass, a Jewish service or a Protestant rite. And the dances have that same sacred meaning to the Indians.

"SO WE concentrate upon the recreational-type dances."

The dances generally, he adds, bear little resemblance to the prancing, foot stomping, warwhooping spectacles seen in the movies and on television.

"Most of the dances of the period were fairly simple, describing the affairs of everyday life," Webb says. "They were more contained, slower, less wild, than the old war dances."

WEBB SAYS the Talako Lodge team holds once a month practice sessions in the San Rafael Boy Scout Hall and also tries to perform at least once a month.

Generally those performances are before Cub Scouts, Girl Scout or Campfire Girl units, but the boys also take part in the annual Scout-o-Rama, in parades and in such special events as the Sonoma Vintage Festival.

There is an annual competition in the late spring with the Indian dance teams from the Order of the Arrow in other Boy Scout councils of the Bay Area.

WEBB SAYS: "We would like to perform before some real Sioux Indian dancers sometime, so that we could have some ex-

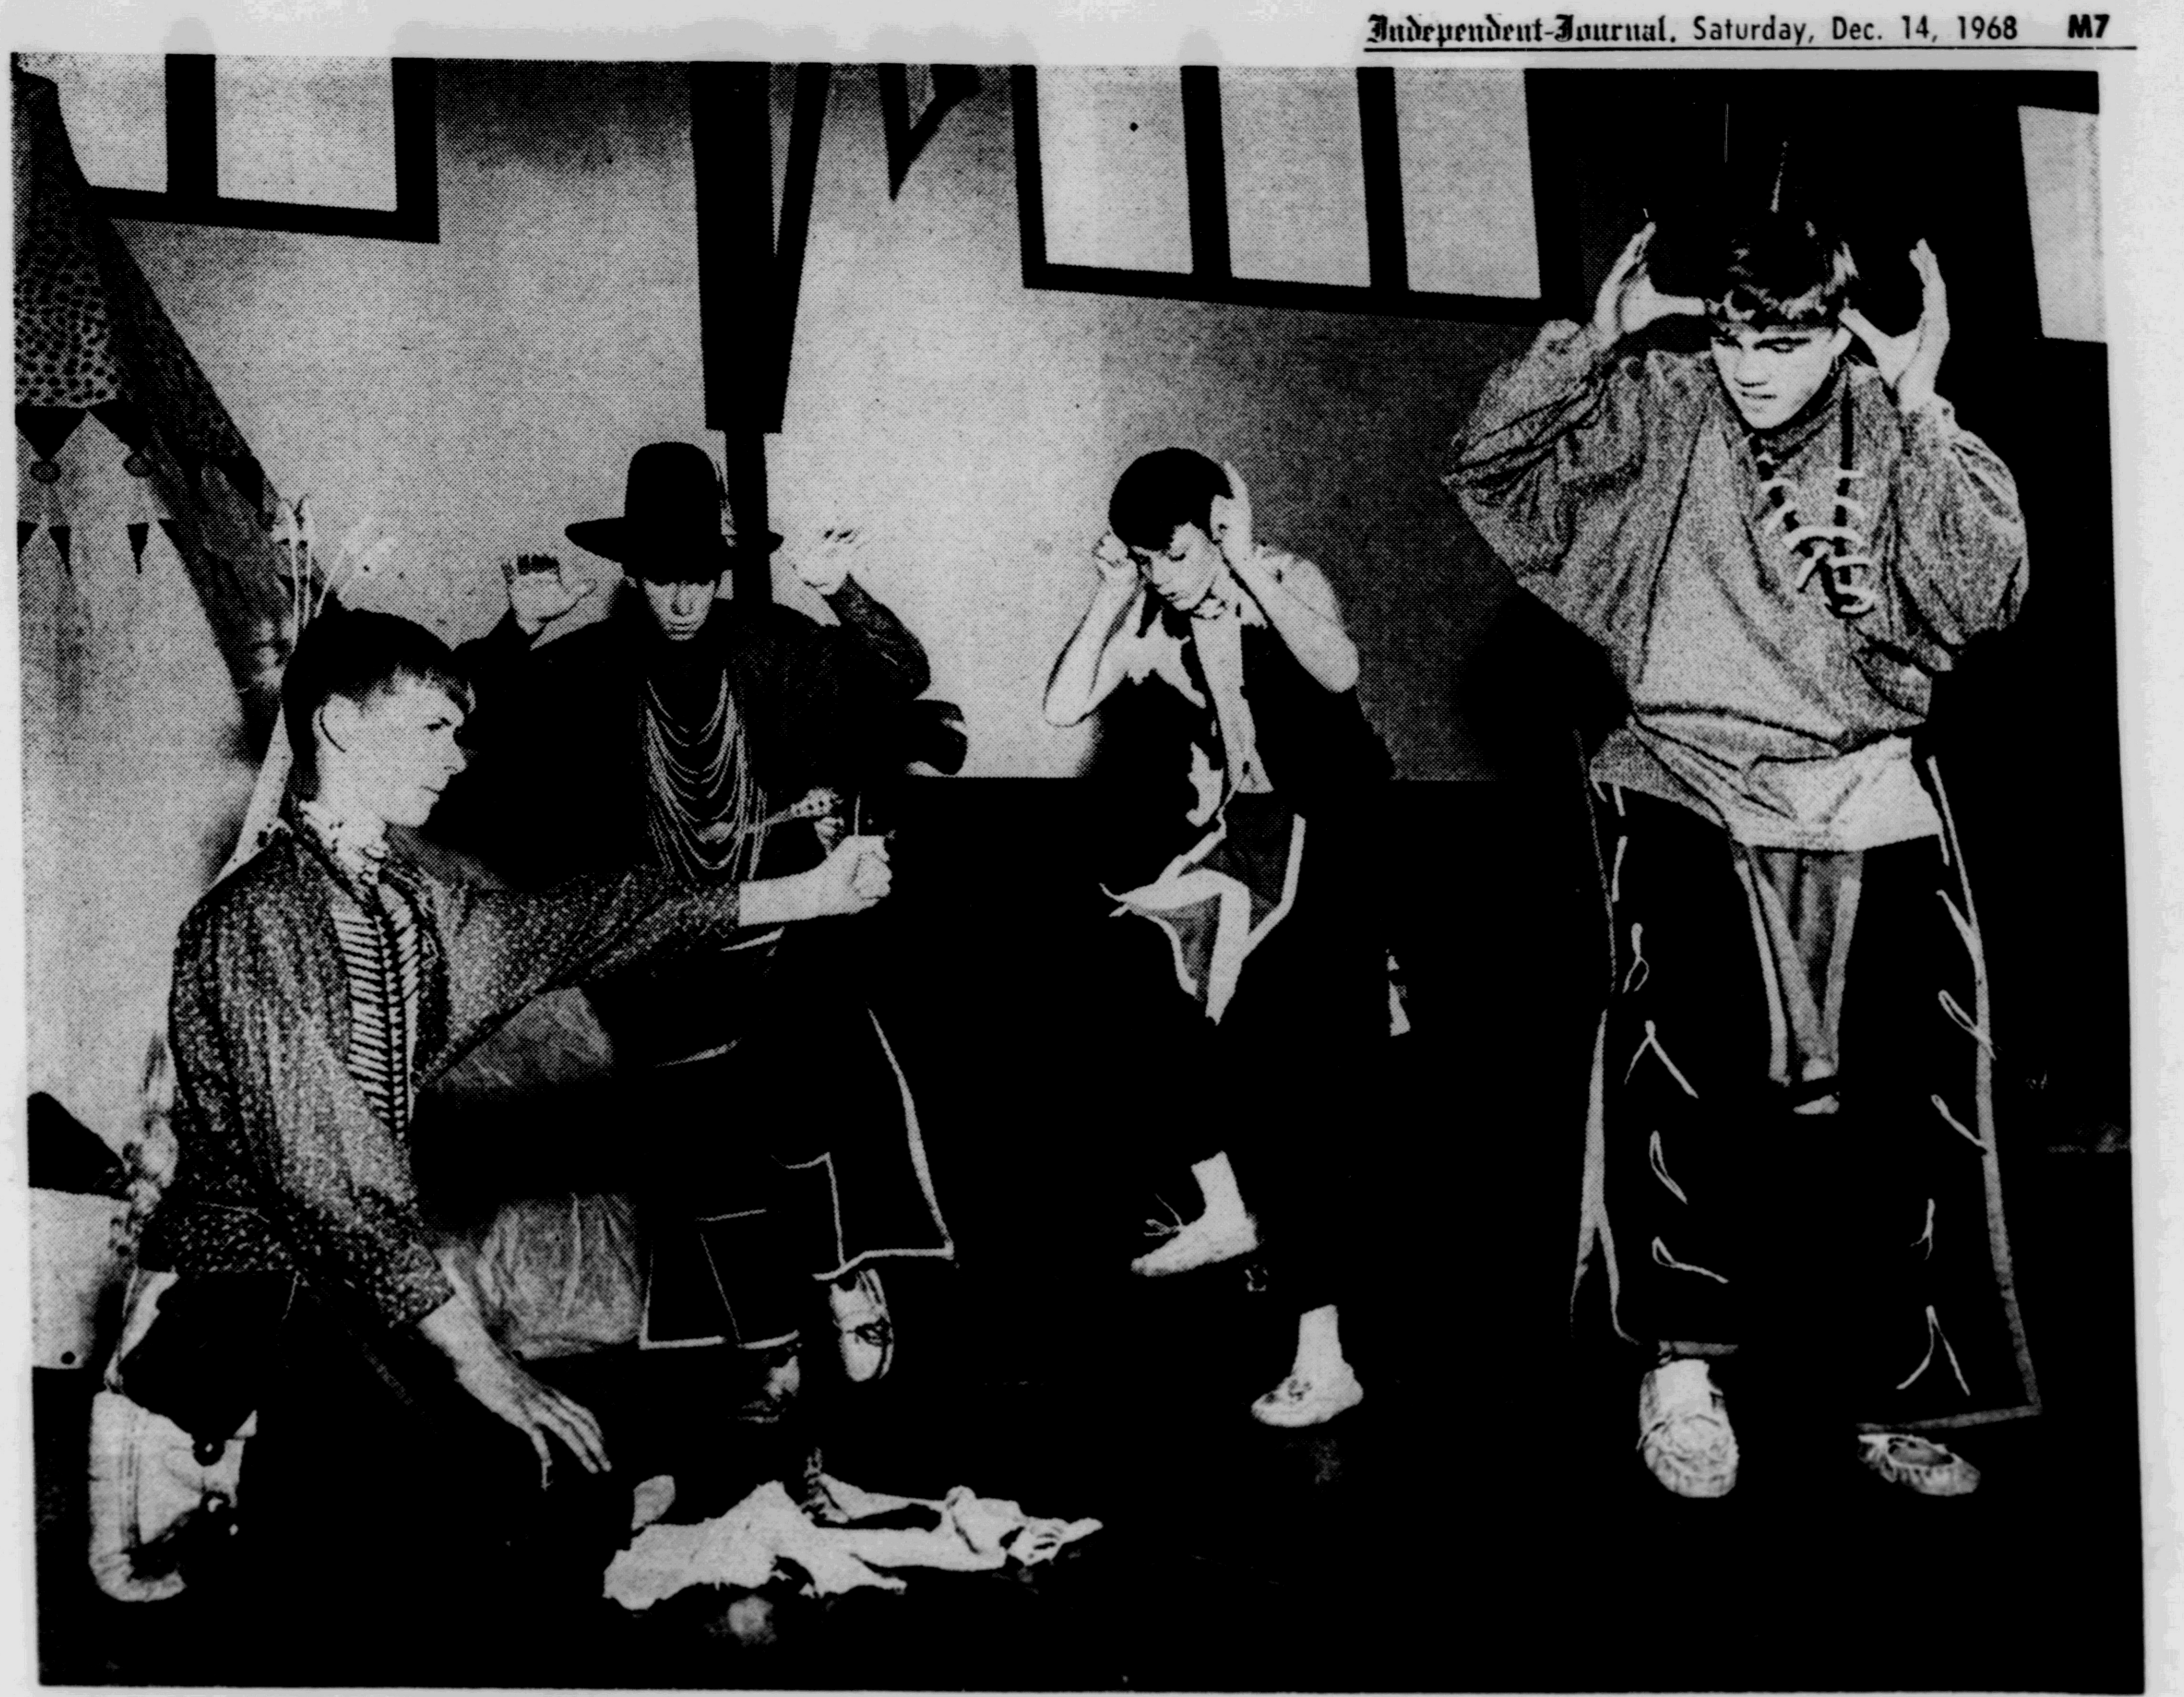
"Should I Use Nail Polish Remover On A Fabric Spot?"

If you have spilled nail polish on a fabric, be especially careful not to use nail polish remover on it. The reason is this. Many nail polish removers, used in the home, are made of acetone or ethyl acetate, sometimes mixed with oil. The big danger is that the fabric on which the nail polish has been spilled may be a synthetic which will be damaged by acetone or ethyl acetate.

Modern synthetic fabrics are so difficult to determine, appearing like natural fibers, that you cannot trust yourself to tell them apart. If you should use nail polish remover on the wrong synthetic fabric, the damage cannot be repaired.

However, nail polish can be removed swiftly and easily by your professional drycleaner. Do not attempt to remove the polish yourself. It might work once. It might never work. Why take a chance?

By Robert and Ronald Cassasa, Marin Cleaners, Inc.



BEING performed here is the bundle dance. "Brave" Mark Guy, left, picks up one of the symbols before him — a buffalo horn, an eagle feather, or a deerskin. And dancers, left to right, Dave Walraven, Steve McCurdy and Marty Parachini, then go into the appropriate steps and movements. The Marin Boys Scouts do extensive research to make certain that their dances are performed properly and in a manner respectful of their Indian originators. (Independent-Journal photos)

pert criticism." But the opportunity has not yet presented itself.

A big help to the dancers has been their adviser, Col. Mel Jarvis of Hamilton Air Force Base, with an interest in and knowledge of Indian subjects. Before him, another Hamilton officer, Capt. Hal Blakeney, served as adviser.

Soon Webb, who plans to attend Humboldt State College to major in wildlife management, will be leaving the dance team, as will the other older boys.

BUT SOME of the young members now under them will move up to take their places.

And new, yet younger boys will be taken in to fill up the ranks. A "recruiting" drive now under way will up the membership to 35, and interested Scouts are asked to contact the Marin Council office.

Of the Indian dancing, Webb says: "It can be hard work. But it can also be a lot of fun. One of our practice sessions may run for a couple of hours, but we have breaks for games and relaxation."

BUT ALWAYS, he stresses, in learning the dances, the boys strive for authenticity.

They think they owe that to the first Americans whose traditions and heritages have already been too much abused and distorted by the white man.

Chuck Hoeppner's Sets And Drawings Reflect Creativity

What similarity is there between the very real and very much alive metropolis of Hong Kong, and a fantasy Snow Forest?

More than one might at first suspect, says Chuck Hoeppner, Marin artist and designer. For both have a magical quality that stimulates the creative juices and challenges the artist.

Hoeppner has met the challenges — from both.

He is at present putting the finishing touches upon the sets that will turn the stage of the College Theater in the Fine Arts Building, College of Marin, Kentfield, into a Snow Forest and a Sugar Plum Palace for next weekend's traditional holiday season performances of "The Nutcracker" by the Marin Civic Ballet.

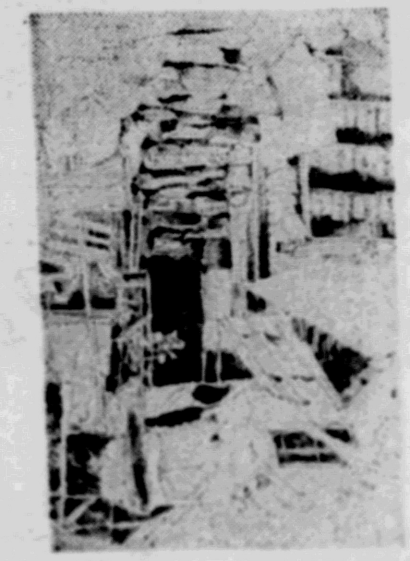
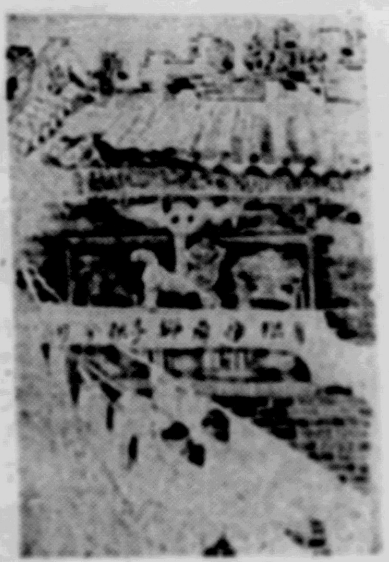
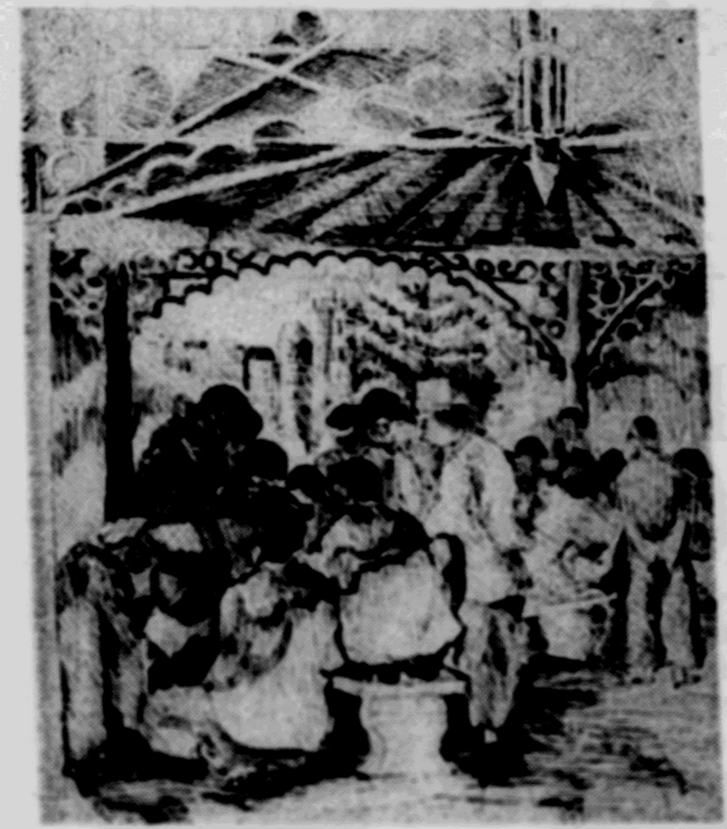
2:30 and 8 p.m. and Sunday at 2:30 p.m. will find themselves reminded of the Hoeppner designer touch that contributed so much to the success of the 1964 — "In the Medieval Manor" — and 1965—"Summertime, 1900" —Marin Art and Garden Fairs in the Marin Art and Garden Center, Ross.

Where has Hoeppner been since 1965?

For a good part of that time, he has been living in Hong Kong, designing artificial flowers for Rico Ltd., a subsidiary of Revlon.







AND WHILE in Hong Kong, Hoeppner did 150 pen and ink sketches of Hong Kong scenes.

"On the days I sketched," he says, "I would go out into the streets from 6 a.m. and work until 7 p.m."

His effort was to capture in the most delicate detail the extremes in life of Hong Kong, from the bustling markets to the tranquil architectural gems.

IT IS THIS same feeling for exquisite detail, says Leona Norman, director for Marin Civic Ballet, that has shone through in Hoeppner's imaginative work on "The Nutcracker" sets.

It also caught the eye of a passer-by who stopped one day in Hong Kong to admire his work. It developed that he was a publisher. And he asked permission to publish the sketches.

Thus Chuck Hoeppner's 150 drawings of Hong Kong and its life will be published this spring in Europe by Surasia.

BYRON BRACK, who did the pictures for Life magazine's Egyptian series, is handling the layout and design of the book. And after publication, the original sketches will go to the Hong Kong Museum which has purchased them for display there.

Hoeppner remembers with a smile the attention his southpaw approach to his work attracted in Hong Kong.

"It seems," he says, "that there are no left-handed Chinese. Since I am left-handed, everytime I worked, I drew a crowd of Chinese who stood around me exclaiming 'jaw sow' meaning 'left-handed.' I was very much an oddity."

HOEPPNER USED a pen normally utilized for mechanical drawing. When it ran dry, he would lift it into the air, shake it, and proceed to sketch again. This, too, caused amazement among the onlooking Hong Kong citizenry.

Chuck Hoeppner was born and reared on an Indiana farm. From his early years he cherished an ambition to be a sculptor. The schools studied horticulture and worked part-time in a florist shop doing design work.

In 1953 he volunteered for service during the Korean conflict. Discharged after 18 months, he returned to Purdue to finish his education. But soon thereafter he contracted tuberculosis, and two years of hospitalization followed.

IT WAS, Hoeppner says, during those two years that he gave some serious thought to life and its opportunities.

His decision: "Life is too short not to spend it in the field you really care about, trying to do what you really want to do."

After another year of recuperation at home, he enrolled in a school of art at Coronado near San Diego. The school required no prerequisites, so Hoeppner plunged into the basic art classes of life sketching, drawing, art history and oils.

HE BECAME a follower of the school that holds — "You first must know how to draw before you can abstract."

He moved to San Francisco, seeking a better art school after a year at Coronado, and settled in Mill Valley.

From 1959 to 1965 he worked as a decorator for the nationally known San Francisco florists, Podesta Baldocchi. In his free time he designed sets for Marian Hayes Cain's Magic Circle productions, and for earlier performances of "The Nutcracker" by Marin Civic Ballet.

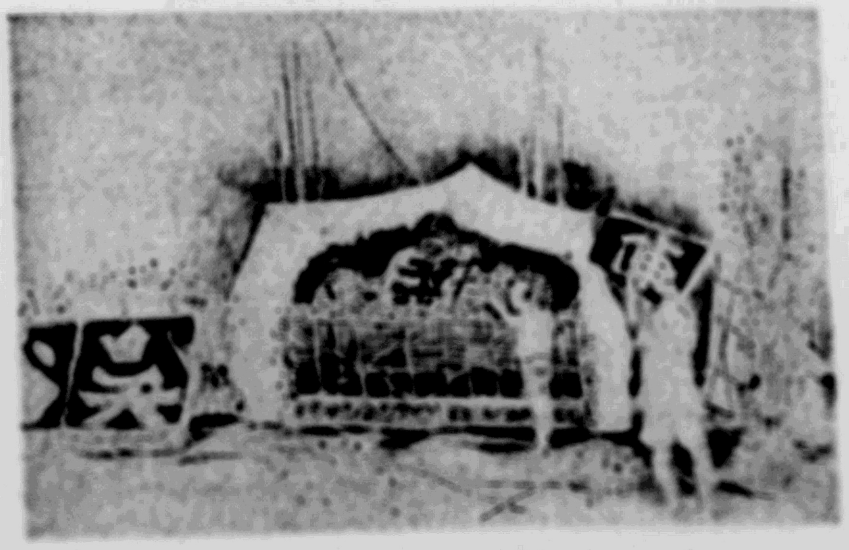
AND HE sketched, painted and did sculpturing in wood, rock and clay.

After his years in Hong Kong, Hoeppner says he would like to devote more of his time in the future to his first love, sculpture.

And after the publication of his book of Hong Kong sketches in the spring, he may head for New Guinea and Japan to do more sketches of the Orient for the same publisher.

BUT RIGHT now, his attention is focussed, not upon recapturing a New Guinea jungle scene or a Japanese tea garden, but upon creating a Snow Forest through which the Sugar Plum Fairy, the Snow Queen and other storybook characters will glide next weekend.

Into that task are going some 5,000 pieces of felt and sequins he has woven onto nylon netting, the twinkling lights of specially-designed chandeliers, a huge Christmas tree and all the other imaginative steps that Chuck Hoeppner has devised with the same skill and sensitivity he exercised in transferring to paper the scenes of teeming Hong Kong.



STEREO HI-FI

By C. J. Catania
Audio Engineer

If you are looking for a stereo system for the home with the big full range sound of a component type, but you do not have much space to devote to components, the COMPACT is the answer. The stereo COMPACT is a new breed of music systems that provide big sound in a small package.

When choosing a COMPACT such as the new Harmon Kardon SC 2550, you are getting the very latest stereo for the home that has everything. The SC 2550 music center is not much larger than the Garrard record changer which comprises the top of the unit. The highly styled walnut table top cabinet houses a sensitive FM Stereo tuner, a complete pre-amp control center, a powerful 50 watt music power stereo amplifier, a Garrard record changer with a magnetic cartridge and diamond stylus, and a cassette cartridge tape recorder and player. Yes, even a tape recorder is included in this very compact unit. The two speaker systems are separate and may be placed at convenient locations in the room. The entire music system consists of three matched pieces in walnut.

The speaker systems of the SC 2550 are radically new. They look like two end tables so they can be placed in the room easily. However, the sound completely surrounds the listener no matter where they are placed. They are of omnidirectional design; thus they diffuse and scatter the sound over the entire room. You hear 360 degrees of sound. Because of this unique design you can place these speakers almost anywhere in the room, even behind chairs or curtains.

This COMPACT will produce more music in more ways than other compacts available. It will play monaural or stereo records. It will receive standard and FM stereo broadcasts. It will record and play back from the stereo phonograph.

The new cassette tape recorder is very simple to use. Just snap in a cartridge, push a button and you are ready to record or play back. The tape cartridge is no longer than a pack of cigarettes and half as thin.

The control console has all the adjustments necessary for true High-Fi listening: bass, treble, balance, volume, loudness, speaker selector and others. For an experience in stereo listening, visit our showrooms and hear the COMPACTS by Harmon Kardon.

New Nonesuch releases of the classics:

"THE TRIUMPH OF MAXIMILIAN I" — Music of the 15th and 16th centuries by Isaac, Hofhaimer and Senfl — The London Ambrosian Singers/John McCarthy, director/The Vienna Renaissance Players — Nonesuch HB-73016:

Emperor Maximilian I (1459-1519) is considered the creator of the Hapsburg Empire that dominated Europe in the 16th Century.

An avid patron of the arts, he was determined to match the splendor of the courts of France, Milan and Florence with musical spectaculars in Vienna and Innsbruck. He hired some of the finest composers of the period, and this two disc album highlights their sacred and secular works written for the emperor.

Isaac is probably the most famous of the three, and is represented by the most music in the collection. Very attractive is a quarter-hour-long motet in honor of Maximilian.

Senfl was a Swiss composer who began under Maximilian as a choirboy.

Hofhaimer was known as a fine organist as well as a composer.

Most of the works in this set are only a minute or two long, and are more varied than most collections from this period. The little instrumental pieces are gems, often featuring lutes and viols.

Translations of all vocal works are included as well as interesting notes tying the music to the history of the times.

DEBUSSY: "Iberia"; ALBENIZ: "Iberia" — French National Radio Orchestra/Charles Munch — Nonesuch H-71189:

This thrilling disc certainly deserved the French Grand Prix du Disque.

Maestro Munch is at top form in this type of score, and the coupling idea is original. The Debussy score especially rises to heights of poetic mood-painting that a few other versions can match.

The epitome of the Spanish spirit is preserved in these scores. A record not to be missed!

GREGORY JOSEPH WERNER: "The Curious Musical State Opera Orchestra/Paul Angerer —Nonesuch H-71192:

A curious selection of pieces from a series of 12 suites intended to portray the character of each month of the year. Tchaikovsky did the same thing over 100 years later.

PAMELA JENKINS is featured in "Awemawae-Calinda," the Haitian mating dance, on the "Ballet Afro-Haiti" program to be performed twice, at 2 and 8 p.m., Sunday at Tamalpais High School by the Duncan Company.

Werner was Joseph Haydn's predecessor at the court of Count Esterhazy and some of the programmatic movements such as the thunderstorm and the nightingale remind one of similar efforts by Papa Haydn in "The Seasons." Perhaps this score was his model.

Fine sound.

BACH: "Partitas for Harpsichord Nos. 2 and 6" — Albert Fuller, harpsichord — Nonesuch H-71176:

This is a welcome start on a three-disc set of the six complete partitas, since most recordings now available feature piano. Only Kirkpatrick's set uses harpsichord, for which the music was probably written, and his performances are more pedantic and scholarly than Fuller's.

Sound is excellent and the low price means that the complete set will be easy on the pocketbook.

"FLOWER DANCE" — Japanese Folk Melodies — The Noday Family, shamisen and koto/Nakagawa and Oishi, percussion — Nonesuch Explorer Series H-72020:

A wonderful album of Japanese music drawn from ancient folk songs and played on traditional Japanese instruments. There are lullabies, drinking songs and music for dances to be performed in spring under the cherry blossoms. All is exquisite and easy on Western ears.

CHRISTMAS COLORS

A Christmas chill
Came this morning . . .
Frost settled over our lawn,
And every blade of grass
Stood stiffly-white.
Mist clung heavily
In the air . . . changing my breath
To puffs of white . . .

Everything outside appeared whitish . . .
In a way.
Bare, lean tree branches
Bowed from great, spear-like icicles
Shining, sparkling in morning's sun.

Not everything was white and cold though.
Inside our house . . . and our hearts
Radiated a warmth of cheer;
Red, if one were to give it a color . . .
For this was Christmas morning.

Logging A Luxury Cruise

The Travel Page

By MURRAY J. BROWN
UPI Travel Editor

ABOARD THE M.S. EUROPA (UPI)—How can you visit foreign exotic lands without worrying about where to sleep, eat, have fun and some of the other problems which can plague the traveler on the go?

It's a cinch. Take a cruise.

We and about 470 other passengers found out how easy island hopping can be aboard North German Lloyd's Luxury liner Europa on a seven-port, 14-day cruise to the Caribbean from New York.

ONCE WE HAD unpacked our bags and settled down in our cabins, our worries were over. The 21,500-ton liner served as our floating hotel resort throughout, providing top accommodations and meals and a full schedule of entertainment and other activities in port as well as on the sea.

Ports of call included Puerto Rico, St. Croix and St. Thomas in the U.S. Virgin Islands, Guadeloupe in the French West Indies and the British-flavored islands of Grenada, Barbadoes and St. Vincent.

The outbound run from New York to San Juan, and the homeward leg from St. Thomas, took about three and a half days. The Caribbean itinerary was plotted so the Europa could cruise from island to island during the night.

WE SPENT ABOUT 10 to 18 hours on each of the seven islands, time enough for sightseeing, shopping, swimming and even to drink and dance or watch native entertainment at a local night club or bar. Many of the passengers arranged to return to the Europa for lunch and dinner, thus cutting down on expenses ashore.

Completely air-conditioned, the Europa operates as a one-class ship in cruise service with all passengers, regardless of their accommodations, enjoying the same privileges in the dining room and of all other public facilities. The Europa, which carries up to 786 passengers on trans-Atlantic voyages, restricts cruise passengers to a total of 478 so there is only one sitting for breakfast, lunch and dinner. There is room service, too, for those who prefer to dine alone.

AND WHAT meals!

The breakfast menu alone lists more than 100 items, including such hearty waker-ups as chicken livers with mushrooms in burgundy, sirloin steak with french fries, and steak tartare. Lunch and dinner are full-course (up to 10) meals of gourmet delights, featuring a choice of entrees a la German, French, American and other cuisines. And there is an excellent wine list with prices you can hardly afford to pass up.

Between meals, there are other things to do.

THERE ARE more than a score of public rooms aboard the Europa, including three lounges with music and entertainment, a swinging late-late night club, four indoor and outdoor bars, writing, reading and card rooms and a 200-seat theater. Church services are held daily in the theater by a Roman Catholic chaplain and a Protestant minister.

There's a gift shop, beauty salon and barber shop. Do-it-yourself laundry and pressing facilities are available.

The Europa has two pools—one outdoors on the Upper Deck and an indoor one below on A Deck complete with suana, massage parlors and a gym.

A PRINTED schedule of the day's events—when cruising or in port—is delivered daily to your cabin along with a resume of world news from United Press International.

Activities would include free dancing and German language lessons, calisthenics and golf classes, trap shooting, ping pong and shuffle-board, card games, bingo or horse racing games and a German brass band concert on deck.

A Different Kind Of Vacation On The Water

Once only in the domain of the wealthy few and still a favorite pastime of the so-called "beautiful people," private and semi-private yacht cruises in the Caribbean are now well within the range of many vacationers.

It really doesn't take much to transform the average business man, housewife, college student or secretary into a "beautiful person" cruising aboard a sleek sloop under sunny tropic skies.

According to the Caribbean Travel Association, all you need to join a "singles-only" semi-private schooner cruise for 10 to 16 passengers is a week's vacation and the $335 minimum rate for package seven-day trips through the U.S. and British Virgin Islands, including meals, sports equipment and round-trip jet fare from New York.

Similar cruises through the romantic Windward Islands and Grenadines start at $394.

Whether on a luxury or a thrift trip, passengers share the excitement of new landfalls, sometimes several a day, at islands ranging from lively and exotic to offbeat and uninhabited. Then, there's ample time for fishing, SCUBA and snorkeling, beach parties and most aquatic sports and fun with congenial outdoor-type people.

Yachts are available at most Caribbean islands — with rates often starting under $20 daily per person for experienced "bare boat" sailors who wish to provision and skipper their own sloop.

All-expense charter fees, generally including crew, meals and gear, start at about $20 daily per person.

NOTES TO TRAVEL BY

A booklet listing 1968-69 winter events in Switzerland plus some of next year's summer activities is available free from the Swiss National Tourist Office, 661 Market Street, San Francisco . . . Delivery of two more advance DC-9s to Air West has increased to 16 the number of Douglas twinjets that line has in operation . . . Air California has begun all-jet service between Hollywood-Burbank and San Jose-Oakland, with nine flights daily.

Reservations desks of Trans World Airlines are now offering up-to-the-minute reports on ski conditions in major winter resorts of the United States and Europe, collected by teletype . . . Greyhound is still accepting reservations for its New Year's holiday tour to Southern California for the Tournament of Roses Parade and game . . . Alitalia Airlines is featuring a ski vacation package to Europe that includes a self-drive car and a choice of accommodations at the Agip motels and hotels in Italian, Swiss and Austrian resort areas.

THE BOOK PAGES

California's Colorful Past Recreated In Two New Works

By DON KEOWN

THE CALL TO CALIFORNIA by Richard F. Pourade; Copley, 193 pages, $9.50.

CALIFORNIA: AN ILLUSTRATED HISTORY by Don E. Fehrenbacher and Norman E. Tutorow; Van Nostrand, 184 pages, $12.50.

"The Call to California" is one of those unusual books in which the illustrator, rather than the author, merits top billing.

In this case, that illustrator is photographer Harry Crosby, who with his cameras has followed the tortuous route of the Don Gaspar de Portola-Fr. Junipero Serra expedition of 1769 from the Gulf of California to San Francisco Bay, recreating the trail and its surrounding terrain almost exactly as it was 200 years ago.

This involved 18 months of arduous labor and a muleback expedition of more than 500 miles.

Crosby sought out not only authenticity of locale, but also of season. Indeed, he insisted that the very flavor of his photographs reflect the countryside as the Spaniard had known it on their historic trek.

All this extraordinary effort was not wasted. Crosby has succeeded magnificiently with an assemblage of full-page pictures, some in color, that recaptures vividly the California of the past before white man began his alterations.

"Fortunately," it is explained, "much of California is still unspoiled, but for how long, nobody knows." One suspects Crosby acted none too soon.

In some few instances civilization had already caused such changes that photography could not regain the past. There paintings, beautifully done and reproduced double page in color, by gifted Lloyd Harting have been substituted, with a special impact of their own.

The text is by Richard F. Pourade, editor emeritus of the San Diego Union. His narration is entirely adequate, but hardly inspired, as he seems unable to rise above his years of newspaper writing and settles for not only the simplest but also the most prosaic where something more poetic would appear appropriate.

Thanks largely to Crosby's photographic achievements, with secondary credit to San Diego's The Copley Press for an exceptional job of design and printing, "The Call to California" is a book of lasting value and pleasure, certain to delight any California history or scenery buff who might find it beneath his Christmas tree.

ANOTHER BOOK that attempts to reproduce the past and relies heavily upon pictures to do so is "California: An Illustrated History," a collaborative effort by two Stanford University professors, Don E. Fehrenbacher and Norman E. Tutorow.

It covers a far more sweeping period of time than "The Call to California" with the greatest attention, however, focused upon the state's 20th Century explosion.

Within the limited space available to them, Tutorow and Fehrenbacher have done a workmanlike job of condensing a chronicle that is too broad and too complex to lend itself readily to that kind of treatment. They succeed in presenting for quick-reading a generally informative and fairly interesting summarization of how California has become what it is today.

But it is the illustrations that are the book's selling point. They have been gathered from many diverse sources and undoubtedly constitute a collection of Californiana that will keep students of the subject engrossed for hours. There are old (and not so old) photographs and paintings. There are handbills, cartoons and advertisements as well. Two hundred and ninety in all.

Unfortunately, the book does not completely avoid the hodgepodge scrapbook look in its handling of this material. And the pictures are reproduced on a lesser quality paper than is generally used for books in the gift price range.

Still, there is considerable fun in thumbing through its pages and enjoying the pictures. And there is at least sufficient meat to the text to justify its reading.

DEALING WITH a subject that should be of special interest — and a source of considerable embarrassment — to Californians is the University of California Press-published "Prejudice, War and the Constitution."

It is a study of, not our present crises, but the World War II evacuation of Japanese-Americans from their homes — one of the unhappiest and least defensible acts in U.S. history.

Co-authors Jacobus tenBroek, Edward N. Barnhart and Floyd W. Matson compiled a careful and scholarly probe into the causes of the act, including both the long-seated anti-Oriental prejudice and the wartime hyteria of the moment, and also analyzed its longer term consequences.

The book first appeared in 1954, but has now reappeared in a third printing, both as a $2.25 paperback and $7.50 hardcover.

UNIVERSITY OF California Press has published a small handbook, "Native Shrubs of the San Francisco Bay Region," likely to find a considerable audience among nature-loving Marinites.

Roxana S. Ferris has written the text describing with scientific accuracy, yet in laymen's terms, the shrubbery of the nine counties that touch the bay plus Santa Cruz County, and the $1.75 paperback has been illustrated with color plates as well as drawings. It is part of the university's excellent California Natural History Gudes series being edited by Arthur C. Smith.

JAMES YAFFE'S "The American Jews: Portrait of a Split Personality" has been designated by Book-of-the-Month Club as its alternate selection for January.

FORMER New York Times reporter David Halberstam, now a contributing editor to Harper's magazine, and Random House are rushing for Jan. 27 publication "The Unfinished Odyssey of Robert Kennedy," a 60,000-word book covers the last months in the life of the late U. S. senator and presidential aspirant.

THE PEOPLE, simple and dignified, living in the high hills of the Himalayas, share honors with majestic mountains in the Sierra Club Exhibit Format Series book "Everest: The West Ridge" that has now been published by Ballantine Books as a $3.95 paperback. It is Thomas Hornbein's account of the first attempt to scale Everest's western spine. Photo above is by James Lester.

Sleuths & Suspense

STRANGER WITH MY FACE by Patricia McGerr; Luce, 182 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

A "damsel in distress" suspense yarn, Miss McGerr has given this novel added interest with a colorful international background.

Susan Wills, a young divorcee, sails for Europe in an attempt to forget her past and problems. On shipboard, she becomes involved with two young men. And in Italy, her relationship with one of them deepens and begins to take on sinister undertones. The climax comes in Yugoslavia.

As so often happens with [illegible] is so naive — stupid might be a better description — that the reader becomes more exasperated than concerned for her, and the enjoyment of the book is marred.

A Critical Look At The 'Sports Nut'

THE RIVALS by Jerry Izenberg; Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 284 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Jerry Izenberg, a syndicated columnist with the S. I. Newhouse newspaper chain, has written a different kind of sports book.

Despite his title, his primary focus is not upon the competitors, but upon the spectators, and specifically upon those followers who in their rabid devotion to certain teams or individuals tend to disport themselves more like raving maniacs than reasoning human beings.

Izenberg traces a number of athletic contentions that have triggered such fanatical reactions.

There's Army vs. Notre Dame, with the Irish's Subway Alumni behaving like hooligans; there's Arnold Palmer vs. Jack Nicklaus on the golf course, with Arnie's Army acting more like rabble than the usually disciplined onlookers of a gentleman's game; there's the Giants (New York version) vs. the Dodgers (Brooklyn brand) with their rooters stopping not even at murder. There's Roger Maris vs. the ghost of Babe Ruth, and the unbelievable abuse heaped by the Ruthian cult against the interloper who was threatening their long cherished myths.

We don't remember everything the way Izenberg recalls it. But perhaps the difference is geographical.

In the Midwest where we lived, for instance, there was no great nationalistic rallying behind Joe Louis for his return bout with Max Schmeling. Racial bigotry outweighed fear or distrust of Nazi Germany. Most boxing "nuts" were willing to accept a white hope for the heavyweight championship, regardless of nationality. Nor were Midwesterners particularly incensed by Adolph Hitler's supposed snub of America's Negro trackmen at the 1936 Olympics. Kansans were more concerned that their own Glenn Cunningham win his mile event (he didn't).

But Izenberg is writing mainly about New Yorkers, who as sports fans are a breed apart, representing both the best and the worst in the ranks of the followers of athletics.

Izenberg has emphasized that "worst." He demonstrates that sportsmanship is more likely to be found on the playing field than in the grandstand. But whether proof of this is needed is problematical. It would seem that anyone concerned with sports, and retaining some semblance of balance, cannot help but realize that a good many of his fellow addicts have a distressing tendency to act like children if not like mindless idiots.

What is more to the point is the question: Why do they so behave? But that is a question to be answered by psychiatrists. And Izenberg is a sportswriter. As such, he has performed his function in writing a book that explores the question as well as entertain.

The 29th U.S. President

THE SHADOW OF BLOOMING GROVE by Francis Russell; McGraw-Hill, 666 pages, $10 until Jan. 1, then $12.50. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

It has been 45 years since President Warren Gamalial Harding died of apoplexy on Aug. 2. 1923, in San Francisco's Palace Hotel, yet in all that time no full-length biography of the 29th President of the United States has been published.

Harding's administration has come to be remembered for the scandals which involved several of the President's appointees — scandals which began to come to light as Harding was touring the nation to lay the groundwork for his re-election, and which may have hastened his death.

Francis Russell has tried to fill the void with "The Shadow of Blooming Grove: Warren G. Harding and His Times." He has given us a detailed, well-researched and readable account of Harding's life. If the well-meaning Ohio newspaper publisher, whose abilities were not inconsiderable, remains as neglected by biographers as he has to date, this may have to stand as the definitive Harding biography.

Russell tries to deal fairly by Harding. He avoids the prejudices attached to the President for the deeds of his underlings. Unfortunately, however, the author has many prejudices of his own, and he is unable to suppress them.

The title itself hints the nature of the treatment. The "shadow" referred to is the claim that Negro blood flowed in Harding's veins—a story that was picked up and made much of in whispering campaigns by his political opponents, and which had dogged at least two generations of Hardings despite no evidence to back it up. Russell makes much of it; one feels it bothers him more than it did Harding.

The writer had obtained letters written by Harding to Carrie Phillips, the "other woman" in the future President's life for many years before Nan Britton appeared on the scene. Court action by the Harding family prevented him from including extracts from the letters in the volume; but instead of just removing the references, he left a series of blanks to indicate each place where one of the love notes had been quoted.

These add nothing to the book; on the contrary, they detract from it.

Russell finds it hard to ever refer to Harry Daughterty without alluding to the fact that the attorney general had a cast in one eye. Like a Time magazine writer, he feels he must include an adjective in each identification: "creaky Chief Justice White," "the protean Harding," etc. The book's attempted objectivity is further damaged by these.

"The Shadow of Blooming Grove" will give the reader a much better understanding of Warren Harding, who must have been one of the most likeable men ever to occupy the White House, and was certainly not the least able. But it is hoped a writer with a broader view may yet do better justice to the 29th President.

Shells And A Shop

SHE SELLS SEASHELLS by Veronica P. Jones; Funk and Wagnalls, 198 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Jean Day.

Veronica Johns would do well to widen the door of the "little outpost on Third Avenue" where she sells seashells.

By the time one finishes the story of her involvement with seashells and her acquisition of the shop, the resolution to see it all and to know her better is firm.

Besides being a delightful and absorbing tale, the jacket is illustrated with some of the beautiful subjects, all properly identified. Inside the covers and at the head of each chapter are shaded black and white drawings which are a delight to the eye. Since the author is admittedly a dedicated seashell buff, her enthusiasm is sure to make converts.

She devotes one chapter to the neglect of the subject in museums throughout the land. If her missionary work is successful, there should be some mad scrambling in the basements of some of them to set up a decent and informative display.

The December publication date makes the book a little late for this year's Christmas list, but it should be a popular gift item. The recipient should be selected with care, however, because a mild addict of seashell worshipping could be driven into the hard-core camp by this delightful tract.

SHORT REPORTS ON SOME NEW BOOKS

THE COMPLETE BOOK OF ENTERTAINING by Nata Lee; Hawthorn, 276 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

This is a revised edition of a guide by one of the country's best-known party-givers that first appeared in 1961.

Miss Lee has brought her well-accepted handbook up to date with the latest ideas for hostesses.

The book is divided into two parts. The first half covers the "idea" field — and covers it well — with answers to the problems that confront the party-giver as she plans her fete. The second half is an excellent collection of recipes especially suited to entertaining.

A Christmas buffet menu, the wording of the formal invitation, the mixing of a drink, introductions, the guest list, a party service chart, the recipes for cherry upside-down cake and for linzer cookies — all are there. For the woman who entertains often — or even fairly frequently — the book is a most worthwhile acquisition.

BUSINESS LEADERSHIP AND THE NEGRO CRISIS edited by Eli Ginzberg; McGraw-Hill, 175 pages $5.95. Reviewed by Harry Craft.

The book is the outgrowth of a conference on urban minority problems at Columbia University, where Dr. Ginzberg is a professor of economics at the Graduate School of Business and director of Conservation of Human Resources.

The 11 other contributors to the book were participants in the conference and are important businessman, Negro leaders and social scientists.

The writers outline their respective viewpoints identifying the problems of absorbing Negroes into American society and present their respective solutions. Discussed are the phasing out of former sophisticated Negro middle-class under the old segregation pattern and the need to create conditions which will allow black people to emerge from their traditionally low status in the total economy.

The opportunities and responsibilities of private business in this program are enumerated and major moves in this direction are cited, such as accomplishments of the life insurance industry in arranging long term financing to help solve the problem of urban blight in the ghettoes.

Other subjects include both problem causes and suggested remedies in the areas of education, housing, business and government employment, city planning and growth of Negro initiative and opportunities in business.

THE YOGA WAY TO FIGURE AND FACIAL BEAUTY by Richard L. Hittleman; Hawthorn, 205 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

His television program and his books have made Richard Hittleman the western world's foremost exponent of Hatha Yoga. In the Bay Area, his show, carried several times a week on KQED (Channel 9), has won a large and devoted following.

This, his newest book, differs from its predecessors in that it is aimed specifically at women, and at aiding them with their personal appearance problems.

Hittleman, with the help of photographs of a demonstrating model, prescribes a series of Yoga postures and exercises which he says are especially helpful in attaining the attractive figure and face to which all women aspire. Particular exercises for particular trouble areas of the body are specified. Breathing, diet and emotional serenity and stability also come in for brief discussion.

Women following the Hittleman TV show will no doubt want to avail themselves of this newest book by a veteran practitioner who has played a major role in America's current state of Yoga consciousness.

SOME NEW BOOKS FOR THE JUNIORS

Doubleday has issued a number of books in two series of exceptional caliber for children of the fourth through sixth grade level whose interests lie in the arts and sciences.

An "Art For Children" series spotlights three contemporary artists —Marc Chagall, Pablo Picasso and Paul Klee.

Ernest Raboff has written the texts for all three, using an attractive hand lettering and his years of experience in art to outline briefly the biographies of the painters, and then to discuss with fine cogency and clarity the special merits and qualities of the selected artwork that has been reproduced — approximately 15 color reproductions for each artist plus a number of smaller drawings and designs.

These are books designed and executed for youngsters who will find them attractive without being overpowering, informative without being pedantic.

The price, $3.95 per book, is quite reasonable, considering content and presentation.

The books represent an unusual opportunity to whet a child's interest in 20th Century art, or even to create one where none exists today.

The "A Wonderful World. . ." series carries the same price tag, and also represents a high degree of accomplishment in juvenile publishing.

"The Wonderful World of Music" is by Benjamin Britten and Imogen Holst, telling the story of how this art has developed through the ages. "The Wonderful World of Archaeology" is by Ronald Jessup and details how man has gone about re-discovering his past. Lancelot Hogben is the author of both "The Wonderful World of Energy," detailing how man has harnessed and used power, and "The Wonderful World of Mathematics," tracing man's use of numerals from their beginning to the technological present.

All the authors, of course, are persons of eminence in the fields in which they write. And all four books have been splendidly illustrated. They represent the kind of respectful treatment which more serious and curious young readers deserve.

There have, incidentally, been a number of earlier books published in "The Wonderful World. . ." series.

Some other new books for the juniors:

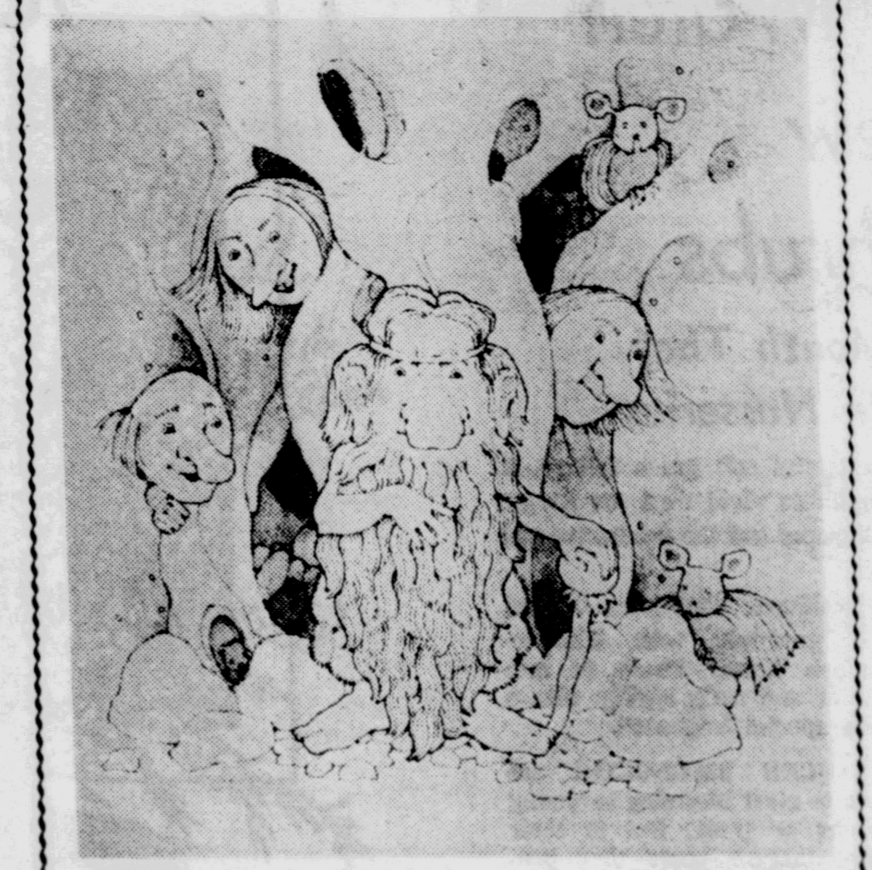
Willy Ley possesses the skill of luring any reasonably intelligent reader, young or old, to awaken to things scientific that the reader may have studiously shunned before. A prime example is his latest book "Inside the Orbit of the Earth" (McGraw-Hill, $4.50). Ley recounts the history of scientific study of Venus, Mercury, and mysteries of the solar system, along with a healthy lesson in terminology and math — all in most enjoyable terms. The illustrations by Rino Dussi are unusually good.

Jeffrey Ashford is a successful English writer, largely in the adult mystery novel genre, who is also a knowledgeable automobile buff. He uses that interest extensively in his "Grand Prix Monaco" (Putnam's, $3.29). Young driver Dick Knox survives a bad wreck in his Formula I racing car and attempts a comeback, climaxed by an exciting competition at Monte Carlo. Television and newspaper sports pages have been focusing increased attention upon Grand Prix racing, thereby building interest in the sport. Young fans will be delighted by the manner in which Ashford has loaded his book with automotive lore without in any way interfering with the pace of his story.

Every region abounds with spectral legends, and the American West is no exception. "Great Ghost Stories of the Old West" (Four Winds, $3.38), edited by Betty Baker, proves the point. It is a collection of seven yarns about ghostly goings-on, some coming from the Indians, some from the Spanish and some from the early Anglo-Saxon settlers, as retold by leading members of the Western Writers of America. There are ghost riders, phantom trains, monsters and a hexer. Pre-teens and early teens who like western history or ghost stories, or both, will eat it up.

An adventure book from Norway is "Olaf and the Echoing Cave" (McGraw-Hill, $4.95) by Bjorn Rongen, translated by Evelyn Ramsden. A 9-year-old goatherd is trapped in a cave with his charges by a landslide. The courageous and ingenious lad's fight for survival of himself and his goats while rescue efforts go on outside makes for a thrilling fact-based yarn for young boys.

Watercolor illustrations of delicacy and beauty are in themselves enough to lift "The Kingfishers" (Funk & Wagnalls, $4.95) out of the ordinary. But the text, by Karel Novy, is also exceptional. It follows dramatically the lives of a kingfisher pair through one year. While it is the kind of book where animals converse, it is, nevertheless, true to nature. Both Novy and the gifted illustrator, Mirko Hanak, are well known in their native Czechoslovakia where this book was first published five years ago. This is the first English translation.



THIS ILLUSTRATION by Jeanette Winter is from her book, "The Christmas Visitors," published by Pantheon.

Be On The Watch For The New Flowering Shrubs

December Is The Month They Start Showing Up In Nurseries

The new deciduous shrub and tree stock is beginning to show up in Marin's nurseries.

By late this month, they should be in full supply.

Keep your eyes open between now and then, for generally, the early purchasers get the choice shrubs. And watch especially for the deciduous shrubs that flower.

Marinites can choose from among a wide assortment of such shrubs that thrive in our climate.

THE FLOWERING quince, for instance, is a well-established favorite with Marinites. No longer do you have to choose a quince that flowers in white, in red, or in pink. You can pick the newer Fascination, which blooms with all three hues on the same blossom.

The pomegranate has an exotic sound, but it is well suited to Marin conditions. Along with delightful soft green foliage, it produces vivid red-orange blossoms and the decorative red fruit.

Deciduous viburnums reward the gardener with white-to-pinkish flower heads in late winter and early spring, plus a very special fragrance.

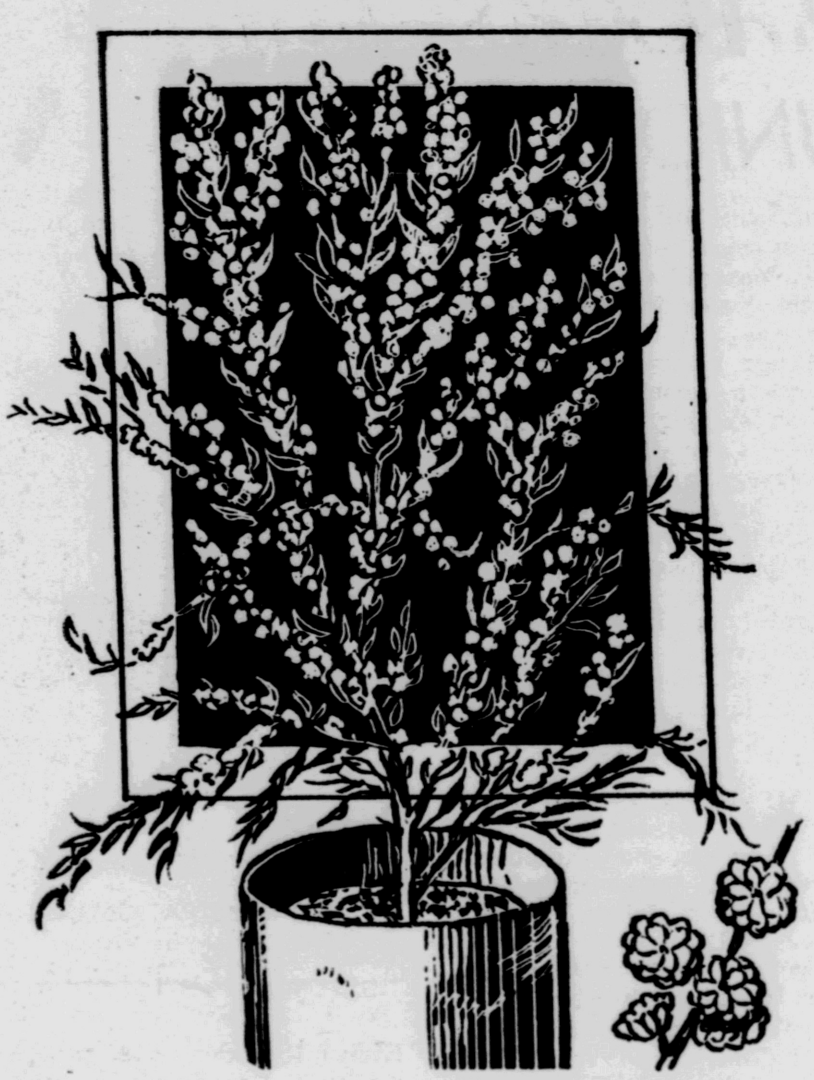
SAUCER MAGNOLIAS are slow to start blooming as young shrubs or trees. But in their more mature years they produce a profusion of tulip-like flowers of white, pink and even purple.

The star magnolia starts showing off, right from the beginning, with scads of white blooms.

Among the deciduous trees now available, or soon to be available in bareroot form, are the flowering fruits such as flowering peaches (red, white, pink and variegated), flowering cherries (pink and red) and flowering plums (pink and white blooming with a special treat in purple foliage).

SOME GARDENERS shy away from deciduous shrubs and trees because they drop their leaves in the winter time.

What they overlook is that their return to life after winter's sleep is one of the joyous harbingers of spring, making the season of rebirth all the more meaningful to the proud owners of such shrubs.



SPIREA IS a deciduous flowering shrub with nostalgic appeal for many who remember when grandma used to grow it in her garden. But it is still popular in landscaping today. There are many types of spirea available. And they provide generous quantities of red, white and pink flowers. Like so many other deciduous flowering shrubs, the plants are literally smothered with bloom. Fast approaching is the time when Marin's nurseries will be crowded with these and many other deciduous favorites, ready for your garden. (Photo courtesy of the California Association of Nurserymen.)

For The Perfect Christmas Present, Pick A Plant

It is worth repeating that a plant makes the perfect Christmas gift for the gardening enthusiast.

Give him or her a choice rhododendron or camellia, and you have a happy recipient. It is a gift, too, that will continue for years to come to remind him of your friendship and generosity.

There are other possibilities besides rhododendrons and camellias.

AZALEAS, FOR instance, are always appreciated. So is a blooming chrysanthemum. Or a pot of heather. Or any indoor foliage plant.

Remember, too, that the first bareroot roses generally show up in Marin nurseries just a few days prior to Christmas Day. Have your nurseryman set aside one for you, and notify you when it arrives.

For elegance, there is always the orchid, although these generally should be reserved for orchid enthusiasts with the proper facilities and sufficient time to care for them. The cattleya orchids, however, can be treated very much like any other house plant or given a spot in the shade garden without requiring too much special attention.

FOR THE indoor gardener, the African violet is another excellent choice. And the cyclamen is also a sure-pleaser.

If there's a name or two on your gift list for whom you just haven't been able to come up with a proper present, give some thought to these plants. In Marin, it seems, just about everybody is a gardener at heart.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- ✓ Snails and slugs are especially active in cool weather. Furthermore, rain washes out the effectiveness of your bait. So put out fresh bait regularly and frequently.
- ✓ Remember that garden tools make a perfect inexpensive Christmas gift for the "green thumber."
- ✓ Check your nursery for camellias in bloom. You can choose the exact flower form and color that you need for your garden.
- ✓ Plant perennials of all kinds from nursery flats. Divide older crowded clumps of perennials in the garden.
- ✓ Most homeowners wait until February to start their crabgrass control program. But there is no reason why you can't begin now and get the jump on this pest.
- ✓ Keep your poinsettias, chrysanthemums and other indoor holiday season plants well watered. Indoor heat dries them out quickly.

The Wonderful Future Of Plastics

Handyman's Page

The rapidly advancing technology of plastics has added to the beauty, economy, health, safety, convenience, comfort and pleasure of modern living.

But the really stunning wonders of plastics are yet to come — and they won't be long in getting here.

Experts predict that by 1980, if not even sooner, the role of plastics in home construction, furnishing, decorating, labor-saving and pleasure-giving will be little short of breathtaking.

HERE ARE some of the forecasts of plastic wonders to come:

Completely unitized kitchens and bathrooms, as well as other rooms perhaps, which can be slipped into construction frames of homes or apartment buildings as single units.

All-plastic furniture. One executive of a leading furniture manufacturing concern foresees a complete switch-over to plastics from wood, except for antiques and some of the very highest-priced furniture.

"Atomic wood" for furniture and other applications where wood is now employed. This is a newly developed plastics-impregnated, irradiated wood which possesses properties of both plastics and wood plus some new characteristics.

Virtually all-plastic refrigerators, washers, dryers, dishwashers and air conditioners.

Computerized home operation for the housewife. Through a number of devices made practical and economical through plastics, the housewife before retiring for the night will be able to press a series of buttons to program all her needs on tape for preparing and serving food the next day, for housecleaning, for shopping and delivery of goods and even for payment.

Plastic homes. Many plastic materials already are being used for current interior wall, floor and partition construction. The future is expected to bring even more extensive use for siding and roofing. Such plastics will require no maintenance or painting and can be installed much more easily than current materials.

Packaging. Many of today's food and other products now come from the store encased in protective plastics. The outlook is for a phenomenal increase in this respect.

Household utilities. Plastic piping shows prospect of replacing other materials in the future because of ease of installation, strength, flexibility and economy.

Home furnishings. Here again plastics will prevail — for carpeting, upholstery, draperies, mattresses, pillows, windows, lighting fixtures, unbreakable light bulbs, patio furniture, awnings, fencing and electronic devices of many kinds.

THERE'LL BE other such items as plastic film chairs and couches which can be inflated and hardened into solid furniture, or other types which can be left springy and buoyant after inflation.

One startling prospect which should gladden the heart of every housewife would be a machine for making disposable plastic dishware quickly and cheaply as needed.

A series of dies would give the housewife a choice of styles. Such a machine could completely eliminate dish washing and storage, and the machine itself would occupy far less space in the kitchen than is now used for dinnerware storage.

ALL THIS IS only a small sampling of what can be expected.

HOLIDAY SEASON programs will lend a special sparkle to the television programming during the week ahead. One of the best of them will be a repeat showing by CBS of its "The Nutcracker," the Tchaikovsky ballet based on the E. T. A. Hoffman fairytale and filmed in West Germany. Traudl Mittermayer, at top, is cast as Little Klara whose dreams give birth to the fantasy land in which the ballet takes place. Edward Villella and Melissa Hayden of the New York City Ballet, in bottom photo, are among the dancers who perform. The spectacular color show will be carried Friday at 7:30 p.m. on Channels 5 and 10, climaxing a week of Christmas programming and marking the start of a weekend crowded with even more specials.

San Rafael Woman Doctor Kidnaped, Escapes

An elderly San Rafael woman doctor was kidnapped yesterday and taken by gunpoint to Albany after she agreed to aid two teen-age girls in distress at the Northgate Shopping Center.

San Rafael police said Dr. Katherine H. Leicester, 70, of 188 Bret Harte Road, San Rafael, managed to call for aid when she was sent into an Albany grocery store to purchase three cola drinks.

The two girls drove off in Dr. Leicester's 1965 white Buick Skylark, license BEK 383, when she entered the store, she said. The car, which had not been recovered today, contained numerous Christmas packages purchased by Dr. Leicester earlier in the day. In the trunk was her medical bag containing a "substantial" amount of narcotics, including morphine, police said.

The two girls were described as well-dressed Negroes 18 to 20 years old and from 5 feet 4 inches to 5 feet 6 inches tall.

Dr. Leicester, a well-known internist and heart specialist on the staffs of both Marin General and Ross hospitals, told police she had returned at 4:30 p.m. to her parked car after an afternoon of Christmas shopping at the Northgate Shopping Center when the two girls approached and asked for a ride to the Greyhound bus station.

She said the girls told her they had been shopping, had become separated from their companions and were lost, tired and without a ride to their homes in the East Bay.

One girl said, "My mother will kill me" for being late, Dr. Leicester said.

Dr. Leicester said she agreed to give the girls a ride because "it was raining, they appeared tired and their story seemed plausible." She said both were polite and spoke in "cultivated voices."

It was the first time she had ever picked up a hitchhiker, Dr. Leicester said today. "My husband always warned me against it and I followed his advice until yesterday, and now I feel so guilty."

She said she suggested she aid them in calling their mothers from the shopping center but the two said a ride to the bus stop would be sufficient.

She agreed to drive the two to the San Rafael bus depot, but began to feel uneasy once the car was on Highway 101 when one of the girls, sitting in the back seat, kept urging her to pull off to the side of the road.

Dr. Leicester said she insisted on driving to San Rafael but once there was ordered to pull over near Lincoln and Mission avenues.

After she had stopped the car she saw that the other girl, sitting in the front seat, was holding what appeared to be a chrome plated .45 caliber revolver. The girl snatched the car keys from the ignition. Then

Lake County Bid To Join Bridge Board Protested

Bay Directors Claim Attempt Being Made To Change Balance

The Lake County Board of Supervisors has voted unanimously to annex that county to the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District, it was learned yesterday.

The supervisors' vote, the first time any county has sought to join the six-county district since it was formed 40 years ago, was on Oct. 28, but came to light yesterday at the bridge board's regular meeting at the toll plaza. (Another bridge board story, page 20.)

The Humboldt County Board of Supervisors also was reported to be about to seek annexation to the district.

Annexation requires approval of the bridge board and new legislation.

Bridge directors yesterday referred the Lake County resolution to the legislation and finance commitees.

The request immediately drew fire from Marin and San Francisco directors as an attempt by the northern counties to undermine a new state law that expanded the bridge board and added elected officials from Marin, San Francisco and Sonoma counties. The other counties in the district are Napa, Mendocino and Del Norte.

Marin director Joseph E. Sheeks of Belvedere told the Independent-Journal that "if there are going to be any additional votes, they ought to be from Marin County, which has more at stake in the district than any other county, other than San Francisco."

"There doesn't seem to be any reason at this late date for them to join."

San Francisco supervisor William C. Blake, who took his seat on the bridge board yesterday under the new law, called the Lake County petition "utterly ridiculous."

Young Suspects Take Police On Theft Tour

One of four San Francisco youths arrested for burglary in San Rafael Thursday led sheriff's officers on a tour of his gang's burglary scenes in Southern Marin yesterday.

Lt. Harvey E. Teague, commander of the sheriff's juvenile bureau, said the tour cleared up eight burglaries in Homestead Valley, Tamalpais Valley and Sausalito.

Arrested were Dawn Diane McCormick, 15, Richard Gilbert Munday, 17, Randolph Frank Lopez and Craig Randall Button, both 16.

The teens used two stolen cars, always the same brand, on their burglary runs, Teague said.

When arrested in San Rafael, they had two stolen cars. The back seat of one had been torn out to make room for burglary loot, San Rafael officers said.

Teague said the teens, who said there were five others in their gang from Washington High School, told him they went into Marin houses looking mainly for color television sets, but took money, jewelry and lots of clothing as well.

With their loot loaded into the stolen cars, they would return to San Francisco and cruise the streets, often in the financial district, selling television sets and stereos at cut rates to passing businessmen, Teague said.

They would sell an $1,100 television console for $150 "and most people find that kind of price very hard to resist," Teague said.

The teens told the lieutenant that two of them started the burglary operation on their own in October, but that seven other students and friends joined them

Radio Hanoi Hints More U.S. Airmen To Go Free

TOKYO (UPI)—Radio Hanoi broadcasts said today U.S. pilots held captive in North Vietnam will be released and returned to their families for Christmas.

The broadcast, repeated in several languages, made no mention of the number of Americans to be freed. Neither did it give any names.

The broadcast, quoting the official Communist Vietnam News Agency, said the political bureau of the Vietnam Armed Forces and the Vietnam government had decided to free the captives for "humanitarian reasons."

A total of 1,215 Americans are known to be prisoners of the North Vietnamese or are listed as missing in action in North and South Vietnam. The figure includes 336 known to be captives and 879 listed as missing.

Most of the captives are airmen whose planes were shot down during raids over the Communist north.

Table Shape Still Stalls Paris Talks

PARIS (AP) — Rival Vietnamese clashed over their latest peace conference table shape plans today while U.S. envoys voiced guarded hope for an accord in time to start the sessions before Christmas.

The Viet Cong's National Liberation Front announced another move in the preconference prestige battle: the arrival Monday of Tran Buu Kiem, ranked as "foreign minister," to head its delegation.

Kim's arrival will give the Communists opportunity to stage an airport rally rivaling that for Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky's team when it flew in from South Vietnam last Sunday.

The immediate status argument holding up the long-delayed peace conference deals with seating arrangements.

By late yesterday, North Vietnamese and U.S. negotiators, who a fortnight ago began with competing designs for square and rectangular tables, had geometrically narrowed their differences to the point where both were offering versions of round tables.

A South Vietnamese spokesman made plain Saturday, however, that Hanoi's latest plan—for an undivided round table—was not to the liking of the Saigon delegation.

"The round table is not acceptable to us because we have come here understanding that it was to be a conference of two sides," the spokesman said.

The delegates are taking the

A CHRISTMAS BARGAIN?

Novato youngsters inspect abandoned bicycles on the auction block at the Novato Police Department's annual auction of unclaimed bicycles. Approximately 30 bicycles were sold today to thrifty youngsters and parents, including the one who decided the pictured bicycle was a good buy for $4, even without a wheel, and carried it off early in the auction.

Both Sides Cheer S.F. State Closing

Strikers Vow To Keep Up Efforts After Reopening

COMBINED AP & UPI

SAN FRANCISCO — The decision by acting president S. I. Hayakawa to close embattled San Francisco State College a week early for Christmas vacation drew praise from friend and foe alike today.

Hayakawa made his surprise announcement yesterday noon from the police lookout atop the administration building over a battery of powerful new loudspeakers.

He said the campus would be closed from Dec. 14 through Jan. 5 with the extra week tacked onto the end of the semester. He then wished the stunned pickets and demonstrators below a Merry Christmas.

Loud cheers swept the grassy commons and picketing faculty members and students stopped marching and started to sing Christmas carols.

Dissidents called the extended vacation a victory. Roger Alvarado of the Third World Liberation Front—a coalition of non-Negro minority students — said that the next three weeks would be spent on intensive campaigns to "educate" ghetto neighborhoods and enlist their support. He promised renewed militancy when school reopens Jan. 6.

But State College Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke and Theodore H. Meriam, president of the State College board of trustees, also praised the decision. So did Mayor Joseph Alioto of San Francisco, who said that the holiday period would provide an

SAN MATEO (UPI) — A rampaging mob of Negro and other militant minority students swarmed on the College of San Mateo campus yesterday, beating students and faculty members and shattering scores of windows in five buildings.

Twelve persons were injured, including three teachers, in the second day of disorders at the junior college 20 miles south of San Francisco.

Dennis Knudson, 26, a student from San Mateo, was battered to the ground by militants in front of the electronics technology building. He was taken to the intensive care unit at San Mateo County General Hospital with head injuries.

News photographers were beaten and their cameras wrecked. The buildings sustained thousands of dollars in damage. The militants struck out indiscriminately in anyone who came near, reports said.

The violent outburst started after a scheduled noon rally for increased educational opportunities for Negroes and other nonwhites.

Sonoma State Recruits Set Strike Journey

Striking students and nonstrikers clashed verbally at Sonoma State College at a noon rally yesterday to discuss violence at San Francisco State College.

Strikers told of police brutality and vowed to return Monday for another confrontation — even though the San Francisco college will be closed for holidays. Leaders of the strike committee urged students and faculty of Sonoma State to join the cavalcade to San Francisco at 9 a.m. Monday.

In a tense and emotional gathering of more than 500 in the student lounge, nonstriking students fought for use of the microphone to question the militant methods of the strikers.

The strikers shouted down their adversaries several times, telling them the strike committee was in charge of the meeting and they had no right to speak. Nonstrikers retaliated with shouts of "anarchists" and "communists."

The parade of protesters to the podium told of Thursday's struggle at San Francisco and issued safety guidelines for Monday's encounter. They warned students to remain in large groups at all times. "If you stay in groups of 15 or 20, the police won't attack you," they claimed.

Others advised demonstrators to never run, but walk quietly through the campus. "If you panic — well, the pigs really love that," a leader said.

S.F. Campus Closure Leaves Demands Still Not Settled

SAN FRANCISCO — Closing of San Francisco State College one week early for Christmas holidays yesterday followed a series of violent events that began Nov. 6 in attempts to impose 10 demands by the Black Students Union.

The BSU was joined during the six-week turmoil by the Third World Liberation Front, claiming to represent non-black minority students, with five demands of its own.

The 10 demands, which the BSU has held are nonnegotiable, are:

1. That all black studies courses immediately be made part of the black studies department and all instructors in this department receive fulltime pay.

2. That Nathan Hare, head of the black studies department, be made a full professor.

3. That the black studies department grant a bachelor's degree in black studies, and that its chairman and faculty have the sole power to hire and fire for the department.

4. That all entrance "slots" allotted to black students under the college's special admissions program (waiving usual academic requirements) be filled for the spring semester.

5. That all black students who wish to attend the college be admitted next fall, regardless of whether they have filled academic requirements and of whether the college enrollment limit is exceeded.

6. That 20 fulltime teaching positions be allocated to the department of black studies.

7. That a black person be

Brazil Opens Politics, Press Crackdown

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Armed with sweeping new powers, the military-dominated government of President Arthur da Costa e Silva today began a massive crackdown on its opposition.

Congress was given an indefinite vacation, censors moved into newspaper offices and police began making widespread arrests. Among the first reported in custody were a former president, a federal deputy and some journalists.

Former president Juscelino Kubitscheck, who was stripped of his political rights and ousted from the Senate in 1964, was arrested at the municipal theater where he had been attending a graduation ceremony.

JOURNALIST ARRESTED

Osvaldo Peralva, superintend-Correio da Manha, was arrested Correio da Manha was arrested in his office after police shot open a door to gain entry to the newspaper building yesterday.

Four censors occupied the Correio da Manha offices and others moved into Rio's other newspapers. There were unconfirmed reports that opposition publisher Helio Fernandez also was taken in custody, and that opposition deputy Helio Navarro had been arrested in Sao Paulo.

The government crackdown began last night minutes after Costa e Silva and his cabinet signed a new institutional act overriding the 22-month-old Brazilian constitution.

The act, effective immediately with no terminal date, allows the president to strip any Brazilian of his political rights; declare a state of siege; and seize the assets of those who "illegally enrich themselves in public office." It also suspends the writ of habeas corpus for anyone charged with "crimes against national security."

The latter provision is expected to result in the rearrest of students and government opposition leaders recently released from jail. It also precludes a release order for three priests and a Brazilian deacon held in an army barracks in Belo Horizonte on charges of subversion and organizing guerrilla warfare.

STRONGMAN NAMED

Sources say the military strongman behind the government is Gen. Siseno Sarmento, chief of staff and commander of the powerful Rio-based First Army. A 62-year-old World War II veteran, Sarmento became chief of staff after the 1964 coup and became 1st Army commander in March after a stint as boss of the Sao Paulo-based 2nd Army.

ACT DEFENDED

The government said the act was issued because of "revolutionary war" being waged by persons "unwilling to understand" the movement that brought Brazil's military-backed regime to power in 1964.

It acknowledged the act—the fifth to be issued since the ouster of left-leaning President Joao Goulart in 1964—was an "exceptional move." But it said the measure is essential to "safeguard the higher interests of the nation."

Costa e Silva signed the act after 24 hours of rising tension following a stinging government defeat in Congress.

Members of the government's National Renewal Alliance party ARENA had joined members of the opposition Brazilian Democratic Movement MDB in killing a motion to try Deputy Marcio Moreira Alves on charges of abusing his civil rights. The charges stemmed from a series of antimilitary speeches Moreira Alves made recently on the floor of Congress.

California Gets Slim Share Of Road Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government has added about 1,500 miles of highways to the interstate system — about 110 miles of the total in California.

Secretary of Transportation Alan S. Boyd announced the allocation yesterday.

Although California had recommended nine projects totaling 433 miles, only three of its projects were approved.

The largest, a 102.5-mile section of Interstate 8 from San Diego to join Interstate 10 near Colton in San Bernardino County, would virtually complete an interstate highway route from San Diego to the Canadian border near Calgary.

The other projects are smaller: a 1.6-mile extension of Interstate 280 in San Mateo County, and a 5.5-mile addition to the San Gabriel River Freeway (Interstate 605) beginning at Interstate 10 near the southwest edge of Baldwin Park and ending at the Foothill Freeway (Interstate 210) at Irwindale in Los Angeles County.

Funds for the projects were not included in the Department of Transportation's allocations. The money will be requested from Congress after the next interstate highway cost estimate is presented early in 1970.

However, a spokesman for the California Department of Public Works in Sacramento said engineers can proceed with design work on the projects, which will be financed with 90 per cent federal funds and 10 per cent state money.

Dual Transplant Patient Dies; Brain Clot Blamed

STANFORD (UPI) — A retired airline pilot who became the first person to undergo two heart transplants died yesterday of a blood clot on the brain.

Doctors at Stanford Medical Center said Darrell Hammarley' third heart continued to function "normally" up to the time of his death. There were no signs of rejection.

The 56-year-old San Jose man lived for 22 days with his third heart. He suffered a stroke Thursday morning and his condition deteriorated rapidly.

A preliminary autopsy indicated Hammarley's death and the initial stroke were both caused by a blood clot.

A surgical team headed by Dr. Norman Shumway placed a new heart in Hammarley's chest on Nov. 20. When the heart failed to beat steadily it was removed and another heart was transplanted. Both hearts came from anonymous donors.

The world's only other double recipient, Everett C. Thomas, 47, Phoenix, Ariz., died a few hours after receiving his second heart. The operation was performed by Dr. Denton Cooley at St. Luke's Hospital in Houston.

Hammarley is survived by his widow, Winifred, and two sons, John, 16, and 1st Lt. Robert Hammarley, 26, stationed with the Air Force at Wichita Falls, Tex.

Kremlin Foes Keep Posts

PRAGUE (UPI)—A communist party central committee meeting apparently adjourned without firing any of the men who wrote the reforms that once made Czechoslovakia the most liberal communist action, informed sources said today.

The meeting broke up last night with only a brief comment on a proposed reshuffle in the cabinet scheduled for Jan. 1 when the nation is federalized into Czech and Slovak republics.

Workers and students had protested a reported move to at least demote Joseph Smrkovsky, president of parliament. To aid Smrkovsky some workers had vowed to stage a general strike. He has been a target of increasing Soviet criticism since the Aug. 21 Warsaw Pact invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Smrkovsky helped write the reforms instituted last spring and has been an outspoken proponent of the liberalization.

Cancer Vaccine Company Faces Fraud Charges

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A federal grand jury has indicted James Rand III and his Rand Development Corp. on charges growing out of the promotion of an experimental cancer vaccine manufactured by the Cleveland-based company.

The indictment returned yesterday charged three counts of mail fraud and three counts of stock manipulation, which carry on conviction penalties of up to 21 years in prison and up to $45,000 in fines.

It was charged that Rand and his company, in exchange for loans on Rand vaccine stock, knowingly made false statements about the vaccine's results in attacking cancer and saving terminal cancer patients.

Rand was accused in the indictment of devising a master scheme to artificially stimulate the stock in order to defraud the Franklin National Bank of New York and Rand Development stockholders.

Strangler Kidnaps Warden And Wife

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — A convicted murderer attacked State Prison Warden Frederick Reincke today and forced the 69-year-old warden and his wife to drive him to Hartford.

State police launched an intensive search for 33-year-old David F. Mabery, who was described as "extremely dangerous."

Warden Reincke suffered wounds from a sharp instrument on his shoulder and back. He was listed in satisfactory condition in Hartford hospital.

Mrs. Marjorie Reincke, 63, was examined at the hospital and released.

Mabery, who was serving a life sentence for second degree murder, was a trusty who worked in the warden's home at the State Prison in Somers, north of Hartford.

State police said Mabery jumped the warden at about 1:30 a.m. and forced Reincke and Mrs. Reincke to take him in their car.

The convict left the Reinckes off West Service Road near Interstate 91 just north of downtown Hartford.

Mabery was reportedly carrying a tire iron and a blanket, and wearing a white hospital-orderly type uniform with bloodstains on it. He was described as a Negro, 5-foot-7, medium build.

State police said Mabery may have headed for New Haven, where he once lived.

Mabery pleaded guilty on Feb. 31, 1961, to second degree murder in the strangling of a 15-month-old boy.

The baby was the child of his girl friend, Mrs. Ruth Henderson of New Haven. Mabery choked the child with a bathrobe and burned him in a back yard.

A sanity test was made on Mabery before he was ordered to stand trial, and psychiatrists described him as a "psychopathic personality."

Mabery was sentenced on March 10, 1961, and has been in prison ever since. Eventually he won status as a trusty, and last July was assigned to the warden's residence, primarily to look after the warden's 90-year-old mother-in-law.

Unruh Not Labor Foe, He Stresses

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman Jesse M. Unruh says his criticism of the trade union movement was made as "a friend of labor."

The Inglewood Democrat said yesterday he was disturbed by interpretations placed on his statements that labor has failed to help solve the problem of unemployment among minority groups.

"Nothing that I said should be construed as implying that I am bitter towards labor," Unruh said in a statement issued by his office.

"I have made my criticisms as a friend of labor, and I have voiced them because I want labor to succeed in its announced goal, not because I want it to fail," he added. "Labor can succeed only if its friends are courageous enough to look at its procedures dispassionately and objectively."

Unruh, Assembly speaker for seven years, pointed to a "decline of liberalism in organized labor" in a 33-page booklet published by his office. The booklet consists mostly of speeches Unruh made during the fall election campaign and some articles he has written.

In the booklet, Unruh said: "Minority unemployment is almost universally recognized as the principal canker in our central cities. The labor movement could be expected to be in the forefront of attacking this problem, but it is not.

"There is not even any very effective self-policing of discrimination in most labor unions. Racism in the building trades unions is a national scandal.

"It can be most convincingly argued that the policies of the National Association of Manufacturers regarding minority employment are often more progressive than those of the AFL-CIO," he said.

LBJ Cites Friendship On Border

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson says the friendly settling of a century-old dispute with Mexico should show other nations that borders "are not just lines across which men shake their fists in anger."

The President included this message for nations overseas yesterday as he and President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz of Mexico, standing on a bridge midway between their countries, detonated a dynamite charge that diverted the Rio Grande river and formed a new southern border for the United States.

The blast and the meeting of the two presidents in an atmosphere of joviality and friendship returned to Mexico some 400 acres of land that has been in dispute since great floods of the mid-10th century shifted the Rio Grande's course.

Accompanying President, who later flew to his ranch for the weekend, was his wife, Lady Bird.

Before the two presidents detonated the charge, they exchanged praises on the length of the friendship betwen the two countries.

"We have shown that borders between nations are not just lines across which men shake their fists in anger," Johnson said. "They are also lines across which men may clasp hands in common purpose and friendship—and we have done so."

New Pueblo Move Hinted

SEOUL (UPI)—The United States today told South Korea it will make a move soon to get the release of the crew of the captured U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo before the end of 1968, the newspaper Dong-A Ilbo said.

The newspaper said the information was conveyed by U.S. Charge Wade L. Lathram in a meeting with vice foreign minister Chin Pil-shik of South Vietnam today.

The newspaper said Lathram said negotiations toward release of the Pueblo crewmen had progressed rapidly in the past weeks.

The Pyongyang government has insisted the United states apologize for intruding in North Korean waters and for spying as a condition to release of the vessel and its crew.

Neither U.S. nor South Korean officials were immediately available for comment on the newspaper report.

Red Satellite Up

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union launched today its 259th unmanned satellite of the Cosmos series. Tass said it was designed to carry on the Russian space exploration program.

The satellite was in a cigar-shaped orbit, ranging from 135 miles to 840 miles above the earth. Those in lower, near circular orbits are believed by Western scientists to be spy satellites.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Draft Case Dropped

TOKYO (AP) — The United States will not seek the arrest of a Japanese youth who was drafted in America and later went absent without leave from the U.S. Army in Vietnam, a U.S. Embassy spokesman said today.

Tetsuo Shimizu, 24, told a news conference in Toyko Sept. 16 that he decided not to return to Vietnam from his rest and recreation leave in Japan because "after two months fighting in the war front I have come to realize that this war is nasty and meaningless."

Shimizu said he was "sick and tired of killing enemy soldiers" and said his antiwar sentiments were shared by "many American soldiers fighting in Vietnam."

Shimizu said he went to the United States two years ago as a tourist and decided to extend his stay in Los Angeles to attend college. He said immigration officials told him to register with a U.S. draft board.

But, he said, "I had never thought to be called up because I am a Japanese citizen." He was drafted in September 1967.

Launching Delayed

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE (AP) — High winds in the upper atmosphere again delayed launching of the eighth Essa weather satellite today.

A U.S. Space Agency spokesman said the launching, originally set for Thursday, would be attempted tomorrow if weather conditions improve.

The spacecraft is designed to photograph the earth's cloud cover from a 900-mile-high polar orbit.

Floods Hit Brazil

BELO HORIZONTE, Brazil (UPI) — Local authorities today reported more than 7,000 persons homeless in scores of towns flooded by the Itanhem River. Snakes driven from holes by high water threatened residents of one town.

Health agencies appealed to drug firms for smallpox and typhus vaccine which was collected and rushed to affected areas by air force helicopter.

A week of heavy spring rains caused the flooding over a wide area of Minas Gerais State, destroying crops and causing heavy damage.

Authorities said hundreds of snakes driven to higher ground by floodwaters endangered the 2,000 residents of the town of Machacalis.

Alioto Bows

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mayor Joseph L. Alioto says he would support a sales tax increase to finance completion of the Bay Area Rapid Transit District (BART) — but only "as a last-ditch measure."

The mayor said yesterday he would not support the tax increase if there were any feasible alternatives for raising the estimated $146 million or more BART needs to finish construction.

Alioto added that if a proposed one-half cent sales tax boost does pass the Legislature, "I would lobby to get relief from it as soon as possible."

Quads In Africa

LOURENCO MARQUES, Mozambique (AP) — A 32-year-old African housewife who four years ago had quintuplets gave birth to quadruplets at midnight yesterday in Holy Soul Hospital here.

Doctors said the quads, about one month premature, had a good chance of survival. The mother, Mrs. Clara Felisberto Mutangua, from the small village of Zavala in this Portuguese East African territory, was termed in excellent condition.

The babies, three boys and a girl weighing between four pounds six ounces and four pounds, were placed in an incubator.

On Nov. 14, 1964, Mrs. Mutangua gave birth to quintuplets. Four of them survived and are now healthy children.

Campus Occupied

PANAMA (AP) — In a swift operation before dawn, National Guard troops occupied the campus of the University of Panama today without firing a shot.

The ruling military junta announced the university will remain closed, stopping a campus feud, while a board of regents to be named soon will draft a program of reforms. The board will have up to six months to draft the reforms.

Tijerina Victory

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Reies Lopez Tijerina, militant leader of a land grant claims group, was acquitted yesterday of charges in the shooting and violence at a rural courthouse in Tierra Amarilla.

The 42-year-old Tijerina said he plans now to pursue his land grant claims "more than ever."

Search Continues

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Venezuelan navy and coast guard vessels resumed their search today for the bodies of 21 persons killed when a Pan American jet crashed into the Caribbean sea off Caracas Thursday night.

Thirty bodies were recovered yesterday from the choppy and shark-infested seas. The airline said nine of them had been identified.

A portion of the plane was reported located under 500 feet of water. Officials said efforts will be made to recover bodies that might be still strapped to their seats.

Cat Leaves Fortune To Its Caretaker

CHICAGO (AP) — A rich Chicago cat died yesterday, leaving his owner about $15,000 richer, and much sadder.

It's the cat, Flat Nose, not the money, which dominates William J. Fields' thinking as he prepared a Monday funeral for his departed friend.

Flat Nose, who would have been 20 on Christmas, the equivalent of 140 human years, was one of five cats left to Fields in 1960 by their original owner, Mrs. Margaret Montgomery. She left $15,000 for their care which was to go to Fields when all were dead.

Two of the cats died in 1963 and two in 1966. All were more than 17 years old. They were buried in the yard of the apartment building Mrs. Montgomery had left to Fields for their lodging. Flat Nose, who apparently died of a heart attack in the building hallway, also will be buried in the yard.

Fields said Flat Nose already had received seven Christmas and birthday cards, with others expected daily until Dec. 25. There were people who called Fields regularly about the cat and will need to be told of his death.

A small birthday party had been planned, Fields said, his niece was coming from St. Louis, and dinner was to feature turkey, rather than the pot roast Flat Nose usually ate.

With the last of the cats gone, Fields plans to just stay and take care of the building. At 79, he said, he has few friends alive and sees little need for the money.

The money, which has gone untouched while Fields and the cats lived on the former hotel waiter's Social Security payments and World War I pension, will be transferred from a lawyer to Fields' bank account, where it will stay until he needs it to live on.

"After all, I don't figure on dying soon," Fields said.

Mrs. Montgomery, a seamstress, at one time had 14 cats. She was a semi-invalid. Fields helped care for her for 18 years before she died.

opportunity to dispose "once and for all" of the problems facing the college. Hayakawa said Gov. Ronald Reagen also had supported the move.

Obscenities were shouted as Hayakawa announced the closing. But there were cheers when in listing reasons for his decision, he said a fire Thursday night in the administration building had destroyed class assignment records for the spring term.

Attendance yesterday appeared about normal in the morning and was reported 70 per cent of normal in the afternoon by school officials. About 800 Negro students and 1,200 of other minorities attend that school.

Police again stayed in the background. Three demonstrators were arrested, bringing the total to 130 arrests for the two weeks since Hayakawa ordered classes resumed.

Violence also flared on another Bay Area college campus yesterday, and in Los Angeles demonstrators burned U.S. flags at two predominantly Negro high schools.

At Diablo Valley College near Concord — like San Mateo a junior college — a coffee room was the scene of a cup-throwing, table-tossing rumpus in which one student's head was gashed.

A school spokesman said the trouble started with an argument among six Negro students.

The Los Angeles flag-burnings involved about 300 pupils at Crenshaw High School and a group police described as non-students at Fremont High a few miles east.

At San Francisco State, police stationed on rooftops, in a hovering helicopter and in various buildings did not interfere as they watched the noisy rally fizzle out.

The two weeks of turmoil cost $30,000 in damage from five fires and 50 broken doors and windows, $200,000 in police reinforcements, and 40 injuries, mostly minor.

"We will come back 10 times stronger," said Hari Dillon, a student of American Indian descent who is with both the SDS and Third World.

"Hayakawa and the rest of the pigs are running scared," said Bridges Randall of the BSU. Randall and Dillon are among more than 40 facing suspension.

"Oink, oink, we've got 'em against the wall," said Nathan Hare, Negro coordinator of black studies.

Cotati Police Nab Eight Boys

Cotati police picked up eight minors on suspicion of possession of alcohol last night and early today.

Police said a car driven by Ronald Dean Carli, 19, of 9449 Redwood Highway, Cotati, was stopped on a traffic violation at 10:05 p.m. yesterday on Valparaiso Avenue.

He and three companions were booked into Sonoma County Jail on suspicion of possession of alcohol. Carli was also booked on suspicion of carrying a concealed weapon after officers discovered a revolver in the car.

At 3:05 a.m. today, police stopped another car on a traffic violation and found four more youths with liquor, officers said.

Can Harbor Aid Bolinas Wildlife?

Harbor development in Bolinas Lagoon might even enhance wildlife production, in the opinion of Dr. Joel F. Gustafson of Mill Valley, who is conducting an ecological study of the lagoon.

"We are inclined toward the view that with proper planning and zoning, a harbor development could produce an enhancement of the wildlife production and potential within the lagoon," Dr. Gustafson reports in his phase two report of a three-phase study.

The $6,000 study is financed one-third by the county, one-third by the Bolinas Harbor District, and one-third by the Audubon Canyon ranch and Marin Conservation League.

Gustafson emphasizes that a firm conclusion will have to await his third and final report, due next May.

"This optimistic thought presupposes that any development will employ and conform to the best planning and zoning concepts," he declares.

"Data clearly indicate an enormous number of juvenile fish (one-half of adult size or less) utilize the lagoon," says his report.

Bolinas Lagoon comprises 840 acres of water, bordered by 600 acres of saltmarsh and the Stinson Beach sandspit. It is primarily less than six feet deep.

Dr. Gustafson found the extreme southeast and north ends of the lagoon the highest in organic matter.

No Rec Meeting

The Cotati Parks and Recreation Commission did not hold its scheduled meeting last night because nothing was on the agenda, according to chairman Marguerite Hahn.

The first U.S. patent issued to a woman was in 1809 to Mrs. Mary Kies of Connecticut for a weaving device.

she dragged the petite Dr. Leicester from the driver's seat and placed her next to the right hand door and started driving to Albany.

The girls said they lived in Fremont and were escapees from a juvenile facility, Dr. Leicester said. Police said that a check showed no one fitting their description had escaped recently.

The girls repeatedly warned Dr. Leicester to be quiet but told her she'd be all right if she cooperated. One girl said she would be able to drive her own car home after a few hours, Dr. Leicester said.

While crossing the bridge, the girl driving ordered Dr. Leicester to remove her watch. When she said that it was the last gift from her husband, who died six months ago, the girl said, "That doesn't mean anything to me." The girls also took her purse containing travelers checks and several credit cards, she said.

Dr. Leicester said she made no attempt to call for help at the Richmond-San Rafael bridge toll gate because the girl driving still had the gun.

When they arrived in Albany, the girls said they were thirsty and wanted Dr. Leicester to buy them some colas. They stopped at a small neighborhood grocery store and sent Dr. Leicester into the store with 35 cents to buy the soft drinks.

Once in the store, she told the manager that she was being held up and asked him to call police. "He seemed doubtful but agreed to make the call," she said.

She then took the cola drinks back outside, hoping to stall the girls until police arrived. But the car was gone.

Marin Milk Prices Down Before Yule

The price of milk in Marin County will go down one cent a quart Dec. 22, the state agricultural department announced today.

New milk prices at retail stores, milk depots and dairy farms in Marin County will be 26 cents a quart and 50.5 cents a half gallon.

Sonoma County will also have a cut in milk prices, but only a half cent per quart. Milk in Sonoma will be 51.5 cents a half gallon and 26.5 cents a quart.

The department also said that effective tomorrow, dealers in Marin, Sonoma, Napa and part of Solano County will be permitted to establish a new quantity discount plan for home delivery customers.

Agriculture Director Richard Lyng said: "Effective milk distributors and large retail chains have been able to realize considerable savings in distribution costs. The milk consumers should receive part of these savings."

U.S. Orders GI Curfew In Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command imposed a nighttime curfew on American servicemen in Saigon today following warnings that the enemy was preparing to launch a winter offensive.

The curfew bars U.S. troops from Saigon streets between 7 p.m. and 6 a.m., a comand spokesman said. It will remain in force for the 25,000 American troops in the capital through Monday morning.

U.S. military billets and clubs were sealed up at 7 p.m. Visitors were advised to return to their own quarters immediately.

Despite the curfew, the alert status remains on "condition white" for most U.S. troops. This is a low-grade alert and indicated the command did not believe an attack was imminent.

One U.S. source said the curfew was ordered "to keep harmony with and show our support of the Vietnamese government."

There was no change, however, in the midnight to 6 a.m. curfew for Vietnamese and foreign civilians.

Vietnamese military staffs and police in Saigon have been on 100 per cent alert for several days in response to reports that the Viet Cong was making major efforts to infiltrate terrorists and political agents into the capital.

The U.S. Command earlier today ordered top priority for high altitude B52 bombing strikes along the invasion routes leading toward Saigon in response to reports that North Vietnamese troops are massing to the north for a possible strike south against the capital.

Meanwhile, the Viet Cong have captured a pretty, 18-year-old girl who defected from a guerrilla mortar squad, government officials said today.

The long-haired and lissome girl, Tran Thi Ho Le, had been working with the government open-arms program since her defection five months ago. She was mentioned as a possible member of an ex-guerrilla group Saigon wants to send to Paris to counter enemy propaganda efforts at the peace talks.

Miss Le was captured Thursday or yesterday during a visit to her home in Long An province to get papers for her marriage to another defector, the officials said.

when the operation proved lucrative.

They told of once dumping two mink coats and some jewelry in a paper bag in a San Francisco alley, Teague said. When they came back later, it was gone, they related.

Burglaries solved by yesterday's tour through Southern Marin were on Homestead Avenue, Midway Avenue, Shoreline Highway, Laverne Avenue in Homestead and Tamalpais Valleys and on Cloudview and Spencer Avenue in Sausalito, according to Teague.

SONOMA

Brennan of San Francisco State said all the problems faced by San Francisco State apply equally to Sonoma State. Brennan predicted the trustees would use the planned ethnic studies program as a wedge to keep the campus quiet.

"Who in the hell are the trustees to tell us if we can have a black studies program?" he asked. "We must take this great power out of their hands."

A student who described himself as a "middle of the roader" followed Brennan's talk by telling the students they were showing "unrelenting ignorance" norance" by trying to destroy the system with violence.

Calling for students to use the democratic process to change the system, he said, "Your goals are beautiful, but your methods will kill you."

Shouting him down, striking students regained the microphone and continued the tirade against the trustees.

Several faculty members joined in denouncing the system.

The American Federation of Teachers local will meet Monday to vote on whether to supcolleagues with a sympathy port San Francisco State strike.

symbols quarrel seriously because it reflects the real issue of the war—who is to control South Vietnam.

The U.S. optimism over compromise possibilities was tempered, however, by the record of past slips in the timetable for the four-way conference originally scheduled to open Nov. 6 under President Johnson's bomb-halt package.

Still to be threshed out are other disputed procedural items such as who will speak first and whether the front will be allowed to display flags in the conference room.

The Americans themselves are less inclined to argue over prestige symbols than the Vietnamese. But they cannot submit an allied proposal without agreement from the Saigon delegation.

rally. At about 1 p.m., they started drifting back to class.

A sullen march began around the campus, led by a group of young Negroes who shouted "Stop the talking. Let's get on with it." The procession picked up speed.

They entered building after building, shattering windows and attacking students. The weapons were described as water pipes the militants pulled out of the soft soil of the campus mall.

After assaulting Knudson, the militants smashed into the electronics building and broke more windows. None of the delicate electronic equipment appeared harmed.

College president Robert Ewigleben said after the outbreak he had agreed to keep police off the campus "to keep calm and prevent violence."

WILLIAM DONALD FRASER
Auto crash victim

OBITUARIES

Crash Kills William D. Fraser

Funeral for William Donald (Don) Fraser of Mill Valley, longtime Marin automobile salesman who was killed in an East Bay auto accident Wednesday, will be at 2 p.m. Monday at Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel, Mill Valley.

Fraser's car rammed into the back of a large truck on Highway 680 near Livermore at about 9:10 p.m., according to the California Highway Patrol. He was dead on arrival at Valley Memorial Hospital, Livermore.

Driver of the truck, Philbert Goldsberry of Martinez, was not injured.

Fraser, whose home was at 283 East Strawberry Drive, was born in Texas. For many years he was general manager for Ames Ford in San Rafael, and last year he started a car leasing business which he operated from his home.

He was an avid yachtsman.

He is survived by his wife, Mildred, and three sons, William Donald Fraser III, James Alexander Fraser and Cameron Ridge Fraser, all of the family home.

Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

MRS. MARGARET S. COSTIGAN

Margaret S. Costigan, 58, of San Rafael, a retired legal secretary, died yesterday at a local hospital after a long illness.

Mrs. Costigan, whose home was at 27 Sulgrave Lane, was born in Kentucky. She had lived in Marin County for about 10 years.

During World War II Mrs. Costigan worked for the Office of Price Administration and more recently she had been a secretary for San Rafael attorney Herbert K. Walton Jr.

She was a member of St. Sylvester's Church, San Rafael, and had been active in the Democratic party.

Mrs. Costigan is survived by a son, Richard J. Adamson of Arcata; two sisters, Mrs. Kathryn Scoville of La Jolla and Mrs. Phyllis Warnick of San Francisco; a brother, R. S. Shannon of Denver; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Shannon of La Jolla, and two grandchildren.

Requiem Mass will be at 10 a.m. Monday at St. Sylvester's Church. Burial will be in Fairmont Cemetery, Denver, Colo. The Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Keaton's Chapel, San Rafael.

MRS. ANGELKA DOMACHIN

Requiem Mass for Angelka Domachin, mother of Mrs. Nella Johnsen of Fairfax, will be at 9:30 a.m. Monday at St. Thomas Apostle Church, Balboa Street and 40th Avenue, San Francisco.

Burial will be in Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma. The Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Carew and English, San Francisco.

Mrs. Domachin, a widow, died at her home in San Francisco Thursday. She was a retired seamstress.

A native of Yugoslavia, she came to California in 1946.

In addition to her daughter in Fairfax, he is survived by another daughter, Mrs. Mary Geary of Dallas, Tex.; her mother, Ane Milovich of Yugoslavia, and eight grandchildren.

DAVID G. STURGES

Private funeral was offered today for David G. Sturges of 1 Marin Road, Fairfax, at Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

Sturges, 66, died Thursday in his home following a long illness.

Born in Connecticut, he was a retired clerk for United Markets, San Rafael. He lived in Marin County 40 years.

Surviving are a son, David G. Sturges Jr. of Fairfax; two daughters, Lois Williams of Fairfax and Sally Calico of Reno, Nev., and nine grandchildren.

DEMANDS

hired to replace Dr. Helen Bedesem as financial aid officer and the "Third World people" determine how financial aid is administered.

8. That no disciplinary action be taken against anyone for participation in the campus strike.

9. That the California State Colleges Board of Trustees not be allowed to dissolve any black studies program on or off the San Francisco campus.

10. That George Murray be retained as a teacher.

The Third World Liberation Front's five demands matched several of those already made by the BSU, but called for an ethnic studies department rather than merely a black studies department, and for admission of unlimited numbers of "Third World" students, regardless of qualifications.

Part of the demands were granted by acting president S. I. Hayakawa a week ago, but the strike leaders held this was not satisfactory.

The largest gold nugget ever found, weighing 28 pounds and worth $8,000 in 1803, was located in Cabarrus County, N.C.

Health Officials Draft Tougher Antismog Rules

BERKELEY (AP) — The California Board of Public Health has approved a new set of tougher statewise air pollution control standards.

The rules, to be forwarded to the State Air Resources Board for adoption call for tightening the restriction of carbon monoxide — which comes mainly from automobile engines — by 40 per cent.

Other crackdowns in the standards approved yesterday would be made on allowable amounts of oxides, also from cars, and particles of soot or dust.

Dr. John R. Goldsmith, head of the health board research team which drafted the new standards, said most metropolitan areas in California have pollutant levels that now exceed the proposed restrictions.

MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED

Robert Ammirata, 19, of Mill Valley, and Sallyan Sones, 19, of Santa Rosa.

By MOLLY MARIN

Bridal showers have been held to honor Betty Jo Burk of Menlo Park, who became the bride of Gerald Cahill of Kentfield today at St. Ann's Chapel in Palo Alto. A shower and dinner was given by Carolee Nance and Gayle Fones of Menlo Park, and Mary Kay Strouf and Karen Gunlock of Mountain View were also hostesses at a bridal shower. Mr. and Richard F. Cahill of San Francisco, formerly of Belvedere, hosted a wine shower for the couple at their home.

PRESIDENT AND Mrs. John W. Atherton of Pitzer College in Claremont will be honored at a cocktail reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dollar of Kent Woodlands on Monday from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. at Trader Vic's, San Francisco.

HAPPY HOLIDAY plans are for the Burton Stitts of Belvedere who will stay on the island of Kauai. Their older son, Jeff, stationed at the Naval Air Training Station in Jacksonville, Fla., will have leave and go with the family group, including Gordon, a senior at Redwood High School, and Carole, a sophomore at San Domenico.

A HOLIDAY LINCHEON for members of Belvedere Guild 2 of Sunny Hills was given by Mrs. Wallace Scott and her sister Mrs. Girvin Wait at the Wait home on the Belvedere Lagoon Tuesday. There were 40 guests. Mrs. Harris Carrigan, who has just returned to Belvedere after an extended tour of South America, was greeted by friends and enjoyed comparing notes with Mrs. Robert A. Davies, who has also been traveling in Latin America recently. New guild members, Mesdames James Wilhite, H. C. Jordan and Charles L. Banks were welcomed at the luncheon.

THE FRED DREXLERS, of Mill Valley will host an open house Sunday from 5-7 p.m. for neighbors and family members home for the holidays.

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH CUTLER Diedrich have invited some 40 guests to a cocktail party to be held at their home in Sausalito Tuesday evening.

A NUMBER of long-time friends in Marin County of Peggy and Bill Pomeroy have been invited to a cocktail party tomorrow to be given for their friends by the Pomeroys' daughter Pinky and her husband, Herbert Hoover, at their San Francisco home.

The Pomeroys, who still own their home in Sausalito, have been living in their house in the Seychelles Islands for several months. They have come to San Francisco just for the holidays and will be staying with the Hoovers until after the first of the year.

Big Brother Brings Applause For The Good He Represents

DEAR HELEN:

Here's our tribute to a great guy who deserves a lot more than written words can ever say:

WHAT IS A BIG BROTHER?

A big brother is someone who is always willing to double date with you and the guy you are not quite sure of yet.

He's the fellow who wakes you up at 4 a.m. just so you'll have the privilege of going fishing with him. And he'll let you mow the lawn for him, if you'll pay him 50 cents. He can raise his eyebrows, wiggle his nose and his ears all at the same time. He'll wake you up at midnight just to wish you a happy birthday along with a few hard-earned birthday swats. Who else would dangle a spider in front of a high strung girl in the church choir, and who would pay you to bring the spider 'cause Mom already said she'd kill him if he left the house with it?

A big brother lets you drive his car and doesn't pass out cold when you back into a parked car. Even if he does yell a lot, he still lets you drive it.

He's the guy who can wear two different colored socks and get away with it. Once he also wore to church a bright colored stocking cap that hung below his waist — and he got away with that too.

A big brother is someone who can always tell if you're lying but never tells Mom and Dad. Instead he waits until later and bawls you out.

He doesn't care if you wear one of his shirts so long as you iron him another.

Who else takes pictures of you with your hair in curlers, cream all over your face, while making an awful face, and shows it to all his friends? He's the one who wonders how that lipstick and false eyelashes got in his pocket. He still blushes at the mention of a girl. Yet he's the guy who hangs mistletoe in his car and then volunteers to haul 15 different girls to school.

When his special girl dumps him for someone else, he may take it out on you just because you're there; but then what are sisters for?

A big brother is the guy who gives you all his old Mad magazines, and the answers to your algebra problems. He's crazy about the a-hooga horn on his car, and the moustache you can't even see.

He's suspicious of all your boy friends, but they'd rather talk to him than you. If he brings you a rose, watch out — it's probably got a tiny hop-frog in it.

He is someone that maybe once in a while when you're mad you wish you didn't have, but when he's gone, gosh, how you miss that crazy, teasing, infuriating, endearing guy.

A big brother is the fella who gives you his records when he goes in the Army, and then kids you out of your tears.

He is the guy you always remember to ask God to bless, for he is now fighting for his country, without protest. You see, he thinks freedom is worth fighting for.

What is a big brother? He's only the greatest guy in the whole world. — LITTLE SISTERS

Half Of Americans Are Now Overweight

Current interest in weight-watching cannot be dismissed as merely a temporary fad. Sound medical principles lie behind it. Overweight is thought to play a role in the chief health problem, heart disease, which today causes three times as many deaths as all forms of cancer combined, reports the California Medical Association. It is also involved in high blood pressure, gall bladder disease, some forms of arthritis and many other causes of suffering.

Some interesting progress has been made in determining who is overweight. Doctors have become suspicious of height-weight tables. These charts represent nothing more than the average weights of thousands of people in various age groups who showed no visible signs of illness on examination. Newer methods which show the amount of excess fat on our bodies seem to be more trustworthy.

Estimates based on these tenets suggests that about half the adult population is overweight, including many who fall within the normal ranges on height-weight tables.

This unfortunate situation has resulted from earlier interest in the problems of malnutrition. Rickets, a weakness of bones due to lack of calcium, was common in the United States 50-60 years ago. Other development defects in children were shown to be due to lack of certain proteins. As these problems came to light it was natural for dietitians to beat the drum for greater use of dairy and meat products. Most Americans became the best fed people in history and seemed to be thriving on it. Then research groups, such as the American Heart Assocation, began pointing with alarm to a sky-rocketing increase in heart and blood vessel disease. They reminded us that along with calcium and protein, our rich milk, marbled meat and grade AA eggs were providing immense quantities of fat.

Hand Made Christmas Gifts Fun For Family And Friends

By EUNICE FARMER

DEAR READERS:

The most precious thing any of us has to give is our time; so even though it's getting late, I will devote today's column to some quicky Christmas gifts that are sure to make a hit. I always find that when the spirit of Christmas is breathing down my neck, I am much more enthusiastic about handmade projects; hope the same holds true for you.

CARD TABLE COVERS: This is a quickie and can be very effective and useful. Purchase the new vinyl imitation leather in a lovely pastel shade; you'll need 1⅛ yards if it's 50 inches wide. Cut this vinyl so it is a perfect square 40½ inches on every side. This will allow at least four inches drop on most tables. Purchase one of the lovely striped or solid colored grosgrain ribbons to contrast the leather; you'll need four yards of this. Place it about ½ inch above the cut edge of your cover and glue it in place (using the milky household type glue), without stretching the ribbon. When you come to the corners, miter them perfectly. These can be very attractive, add a touch of color to your room and are marvelous for playing cards or serving light snacks or suppers in your family room. Washable too!

For your children's room, you might wish to make their cover out of fake vinyl in a reptile pattern.

BOOK MARKS: You'll have a strip of vinyl left if you've made the card table covers. If not, you may purchase a narrow strip. This makes a perfect backing for a strip of embroidered or striped ribbon to be used for your book marks. Again, use the milky type glue, but don't use it too heavily. These make marvelous little gifts for your children to make for their friends or teachers.

I have also found in working with this vinyl that it makes a perfect backing for grosgrain belts that have become so popular. It is by far the easiest way to apply a backing and is just the right amount of firmness. These, too, make great gifts for any member of the family and can make any dress look new.

STADIUM BLANKETS: These are marvelous for almost any part of the country and certainly not used exclusively for football games. In California, they would sure come in handy for the New Year's Day parade; they're perfect for parts of the ski-country and make a perfect gift for anyone who likes outdoorsy sports.

The easiest type to make is to purchase 1½ yards of wool that is 54 inches wide. This will make a perfect square. Be sure to purchase a pattern that isn't too feminine; plaids are perfect: Fringe the two cut edges about 1½ inches and you're finished. (The greatest part of the whole thing is that wool is usually marked down at this time of the year and your gift won't be too expensive.)

For an extra luxurious throw, use fake fur for one side and solid color wool for the other. Then bind all the edges with wool braid or leather strips. This type sells for almost $100 in top sporting goods departments.

For that extra special gift for mother or grandmother, make a lovely boudoir throw out of soft, pastel wool. Again, you will want it to be at least 1½ yards long. This should be lightweight wool; fringe the two cut ends about 1 inch. Make her monogram in one corner out of ½ inch velvet ribbon in a contrasting color. The monogram shouldn't be too difficult to plan, since you can use block letters; simply hand whip the velvet ribbon down. This is a truly luxurious gift and has the look of the finest boutique.

CHRISTMAS TREE ORNAMENTS: Begin with styrofoam balls or the satin covered ones and get all your "bits and scraps" of ribbon, fancy fabrics, laces, beadings and sequins that you have kept through the years because you just couldn't bear to throw them out.

If you intend to cover the ball with fabric, you must cut the fabric into long oval sections, usually not more than 1 inch wide at the center and tapering to nothing at each end; the size will vary according to the size of the balls. For a medium size ball, I found it took about 10 oval strips of fabric. These are spread with household milky glue and put on individually, smoothing out each one as you go along until the entire ball is covered. Then trim them accordingly. They're fun, and can be a family project.

North Pole Transplanted Into Sausalito For Women's Social

"Reindeer Romp," a feature of the North Pole social season, will be transplanted to the Sausalito Woman's Club Sunday. Santa Claus, his helper and a team of reindeer girls will be hosts for cocktails, music, dancing and a chafing dish buffet.

Members and guests are being invited for 4 p.m., and supper will be served at 6:30 p.m. Some club members will bring their own gourmet specialties.

Chairman for the club's salute to the holiday season is Mrs. Harold Thomas Rogers. Committee chairmen include Mesdames Edward Bronson, entertainment; Robert Knutson and Earl Gates, decorations and reservations; Roger L. Dinelli, food service; John Weber, cocktail service; Walter V. Guthrie, invitations; and Joseph C. Diedrich and Mrs. Bronson, reindeer girls.

A special feature will be an opportunity for everyone to be photographed with Santa and the reindeer girls in a memorable setting — a replica of their snowy northern home. Entertainment will include music for listening and dancing.

MEMBERS OF Tamelpa Parlor 231, Native Daughters of the Golden West will have their annual Christmas party Monday at 8 p.m. in the Odd Fellows Hall, Mill Valley. Christmas gifts will be exchanged.

Chairmen are Mesdames George Martensen, Henry Alfonso and Miss Betty Crawley.

BETHEL 48, International Order of Job's Daughters will hold a past guardian, past associate guardian and past honored queen night Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Masonic Temple on Fourth Street and Looten Place in San Rafael. Girls will also take the majority.

Jonna Peden will preside and Barbara Galt and Pat Dodge will provide refreshments and entertainment, assisted by their committee.

THE CHRISTMAS tea of the Marin Circle of the Florence Crittenton Home will be held tomorrow at the home of Mrs. Paul Steward in Tiburon. Hours will be 2 to 4 p.m. A special invitation has been extended to the circle's sustaining members and new members.

New circle members include Mesdames Phillip Lamoreaux and Lex J. Byers of Mill Valley, Charles Pittee of Terra Linda, John T. Gauss of Tiburon and Paul Marincich of Belvedere.

Heading the receiving line will be Mrs. Peter Knowles, president of the Marin Circle and Mrs. Barry Neuman, vice president.

Miss Jean Bolton, executive director of the Crittenton Home in San Francisco along with past presidents Mesdames Arthur Collbran, Gerald Elbert, Roger Jobson, William Keplinger and Mrs. Mildred Montgomery will be on hand to welcome the new members.

A LUNCHEON for members of the Petaluma Woman's Club, their daughters and daughters-in-law will be held Tuesday at the clubhouse in Petaluma at 1 p.m. Mothers and mothers-in-law of members will also be guests.

Designer Leonardo will present his winter fashion collection with professional models showing the clothes.

Virginia Nelson And Bob Bjostad Set Date

VIRGINIA NELSON

March 15 is the wedding date set by Virginia Pauline Nelson and Gary Robert Bjostad, both of Larkspur. The bride-elect's mother is Mrs. Hazel I. Nelson of Larkspur and Rudy A. Nelson of San Rafael is her father.

Virginia is a graduate of Redwood High School and the sister of Ronald Nelson of Larkspur, Rudy Nelson of Belvedere and Mrs. Richard E. Kohler of San Anselmo.

Gary's parents are Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Bjostad of Napa. He was graduated from Napa High School and is employed with Jenkel-Davidson Optical Company in San Rafael. Mrs. Arthur Stowell of Napa and Mrs. Robert Perchaluk of Menlo Park are his sisters.

The couple plan to live in Larkspur following their wedding at Redwoods Presbyterian Church.

GUNILLA DANIELSSON, 17-year-old exchange student from Sweden, observes Lucia Day, Queen of Light Festival, as she serves her American brother, Darcy Swanson, cookies and a hot drink. The traditional Swedish holiday is observed on Dec. 13 as the oldest daughter awakens the family wearing a costume of white and a crown of greens and lighted candles.

Host Family Given Taste Of Sweden

"It's really great."

This was the exclamation made by Gunilla Danielsson as she gave her impressions of her American family, her life here and the schools and teachers.

Gunilla, a 17-year-old foreign exchange student from Sweden staying with the Fielder Nordstrom family in Novato, was enthusiastic about her entire life here.

She compared her life here to that in Sweden.

In Sweden, she lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bengt Danielsson and two brothers, Gunnar, 2 years old, whom she says is a sort of special person and Ake, 15, and a sister, Inger 15, in a flat in the suburbs of Stockholm, where traffic is continually passing their home.

In Novato, she lives out in the country, where it is very quiet.

Gunilla's father is a teacher of pharmacy, at a special school in Stockholm.

Since arriving, her adopted brothers and sister, Darcy, 12, Robin, 15, Randy, 20, and Brian Swanson, 24, and Linda Nordstrom, 21, presented her with a tiny black rabbit which she fed with a bottle until it was able to eat regular rabbit food. She adores animals and is unable to keep them in the flat in Stockholm. She said she named the rabbit after her brother, Gunnar. Gunilla also has a pet chameleon.

In explaining her feeling about the school she said in her soft spoken voice, "School is a joy here. The pupils and teachers are as friends. And there is a personal feeling between them here."

She is working as a junior volunteer at Novato General Hospital which again she says, "is really great." She is also a member of the Young Ambassadors, a part of the Community Ambassadors, the sponsoring group of the Student Foreign Exchange Program, and she has just recently joined the Drama Club at Novato High School.

Gunilla shared the traditional Lucia Day yesterday with her American family and, wearing a crown of lighted candles and singing Santa Lucia, served coffee, cookies and saffron buns to the family before they arose. "She then apologized for her voice," Mrs. Nordstrom said.

Day of Santa Lucia, the Queen of Light, is traditionally celebrated by all Swedish families on Dec. 13, the shortest day of the year by the old Julian calendar.

In Sweden, Gunilla said, the Lucia's, usually the oldest daughter in the family, also visit their favorite teachers, and she explained the subways of Sweden are filled with young people singing and carrying the lights and pastries.

A number of Scandinavian students in Novato, including Gunilla's friend, Marie Malmstrom, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lars Malmstrom, visited their favorite teachers this morning. Gunilla was Lucia. Marie's father is information officer for the Swedish Consulate in San Francisco.

Asked if she were homesick, the tall, slender blonde said "I don't think of being homesick. I want to enjoy my time here. You can not be two places at once, so we must enjoy each one at a time," she said philosophically.

Gunilla asked that she might add something as we ended our interview. She said, "I want to thank my family (American) for everything. I love them like my own."

Careless Americans Lose Through Theft

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Today's Americans seem as affluent with carelessness as with their supply of cash.

POCKETS JINGLE, to be sure, the economists tell us. But a current study shows that they also in one way or another drop into the "lost" column an estimated $2 billion per year. An estimated seven million adult Americans experience some loss of currency and coin annually. Losses range from under $10 (11 per cent) up to $200 and over (21 per cent).

The study shows also that women are more prone to loss of money than men. Youth is more prone to loss than its elders. And even education is a criterion. College-educated persons are more apt to lose than those with high school education or less.

LOSSES OCCUR during travel, in and around the house, in retail stores, on public transportation, at sports events. You name it. Loss is due to theft, in every way from purse-snatching to household robbery, and most of all to carelessness.

The study was made by Opinion Research Corp., Princeton, N. J., at the request of the American Express Co. An earlier study found the amount lost in 1965 was around $1 billion per year. And that sum was up from $700 million in 1961-62.

Why such an increase, when it is assumed that as a rule people incline to "hang on" to money? Opinion researchers said their findings "suggest the assumption needs to be considerably qualified."

Especially since the season to be jolly is also the season to be vulnerable, some of these changing attitudes are worth a pre-Christmas look. Researchers suggest that cash is "losing status" in a time when credit cards are rising in popularity, when ours is the so-called "cashless society."

IT IS ALSO possible that inflation, "debasement" of coinage and elimination of government orders for backing paper currency with precious metal have contributed, "if only psychologically, to some as yet undefined changing concept of money," the report says.

Consider the safeguarding of cash. The researchers conclude that "when an individual has an unusually large sum of it in his or her possession ... as many as two out of 10 adults take no precautions ... another three out of 10, as their form of precaution, hide it around the house or on their person."

Four of 10 bank their cash or convert it to travelers checks, the survey adds.

SO APPARENTLY, a large part of the population still has the "mattress and money belt" psychology.

The general assumption that the loss hazard is greatest while traveling doesn't prove true either. Travel losses account for one of seven, the report says. Stay-at-homes have even greater loss frequency, one out of every four losing cash around the house. Other major hazards are shops and stores in the home town, places of work or entertainment.

Bob Hope On Annual Journey To Visit GIs

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Dusting off the gags that have convulsed American fighting men for three wars, Bob Hope jets to the Orient today for his 18th consecutive Christmas tour.

He's 65, and he had serious eye surgery earlier this year. But the veteran comedian showed up, golf club in hand, to lead a troupe of 19 beautiful girls aboard a special plane.

Hope's party will visit South Vietnam, Japan, Korea, Okinawa, Guam and Thailand, under sponsorship of the USO and the Department of Defense.

Heading the flock of girls will be actress singer Ann Margret and Australia's Penelope Plummer, who's this year's Miss World.

Hope is due back in time to be Grand Marshal of the Tournament of Roses parade in Pasadena, on New Year's day before the Rose Bowl football game.

On his return, the comedian will edit thousands of feet of film taken during the tour for his annual special television show, which will be aired next Jan. 16.

CONCERT REVIEW

Christmas Sound Hit By Flu Bug Inroads

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

The College of Marin's collegiate chorale, directed by Dr. S. Drummond Wolff, presented a very enjoyable Christmas concert last night in the college's fine arts theater despite some handicaps.

These were caused largely by the absence of 17 singers out of 100 due to the current flu epidemic. We were noting the surprising lack of balance occasioned by a very strong bass section and weak tenor section and a comparable situation in the madrigal group until Dr. Wolff explained that eight of the missing singers were tenors.

So serious was the problem that Wolff's own composition, "Journey to Bethlehem," had to be omitted entirely.

With Dr. Wolff accompanying and directing at the organ, the first three selections were "Fanfare for Christmas Day" by Martin Shaw, Pergolesi's "Glory to God in the Highest," and the very beautiful "Salve Montserratina" by Pablo Casals, in which the maximum effect could not be achieved because of absence of three of the 11 singers in the madrigal group.

Completing the first half of the program was a group of carols from Europe sung a cappella, which were notable for careful attention to rhythm and expressive nuances and excellent diction.

Heard in several places in this half of the program was the marvelous pianissimo drawn to a fine thread of long sustained sound that is always a delight in Wolff's concerts. The opposite, or great climaxes of sound for which his concerts are equally noteworthy, was not heard until the last half of the program. This was in "Alleluia, Let Praises Ring!", and in the finale, "Festival Te Deum Laudamus," both written by Wolff.

Baritone Gary Walker, soloist in the second anthem, seemed to lack assurance at times, though his voice had a nice quality.

The "Ceremony of Carols" (for women's voices) by Benjamin Britten, which opened the second half of the program, was beautifully sung by the 45 young women of the chorus. The lyric soprano of soloist Sylvia Hyde was pure and clear and had a quality almost like that of a boy soprano.

Phyllis Murphy demonstrated her usual superlative skill at the piano for the Britten work.

Pianist To Perform

Mill Valley pianist James Odette will present works by Chopin and Liszt at the meeting of the Marin Branch of the California Music Teachers Association at 8:15 p.m. Monday in the home of Mrs. Sibyl Schneller, 312 W. Blithedale Avenue, Mill Valley.

Library Offers Children's Hours

The Marin County Library will offer children's Christmas programs at its seven branches. Children's librarian Barbara Rauhala will be storyteller.

The schedule:

Dec. 23 — Fairfax at 10 a.m., Ross Valley at 11 a.m., Belvedere-Tiburon at 2 p.m. and Marin City at 3:30 p.m.

Dec. 24 — Civic Center at 10 a.m. and Novato at 11:15 a.m.

Dec. 27 — Corte Madera at 10:30 a.m.

Irate Taxpayers Elect, Condemn College Turmoil

William Henderscheid of Mill Valley has been elected president of the Irate of Taxpayers of Marin, succeeding Philip Maley of San Rafael.

Also elected Thursday night at the group's annual meeting in the county courthouse were:

Charles Enyart of Forest Knolls, first vice president; Leonard Turner of Marin City, second vice president; Maley, recording secretary; Mrs. Louis Emis of San Anselmo, corresponding secretary; Bernard Haag of Mill Valley, treasurer, and Louis Emis of San Anselmo, membership secretary.

Elected directors were: David Bacigalupi of San Anselmo; Grant Halsing of San Anselmo; Mrs. Roger Weiss of Mill Valley; Frank Sloan of Fairfax; Eric Lane of Corte Madera; Mrs. Helen L. Gardner of Woodacre, and Roy Rhodes of San Rafael.

Mrs. Winifred S. Frederick of Lagunitas was reappointed publicity and supervisorial action committee chairman.

The Irate Taxpayers adopted resolutions commending and supporting S. I. Hayakawa, acting president of San Francisco State College, condemning the destruction and damage of public property and the disruption of education at the college, and censuring the majority of both the University of California Board of Regents and the State College Board of Trustees for "permitting the anarchistic activities of student groups and their supporters and the destruction of taxpayers' property on public campuses in California."

The group will hold its next regular meeting Jan. 16.

Novato Market Plans Get Nod

The Novato Plan Review Committee yesterday approved plans by Embarcadero Properties Inc. for a Seven-Eleven Market on Olive Avenue between Highway 101 and the Northwestern Pacific Railroad.

The approval stipulated that Olive Avenue be improved with curbs, gutters and sidewalks.

Greenbrae Christmas Light Judging Set

Judging for the Greenbrae Property Owners Association Christmas decorations contest will begin at 8 p.m. Thursday.

Residents who wish to have their decorations judged for one of the eight prizes to be awarded should turn on their lights from 7:45 to 10:15 p.m., association officials said.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Seat Belt, Shoulder Harness Credited With Saving Many

VAN DELLEN

Seat belts and shoulder harnesses minimize injuries and save many lives. There are, however, exceptions. Among pregnant women, abdominal restraints have injured the fetus, and encouraged miscarriages, and maternal shock. But despite an occasional adverse report, these women fare worse when not wearing lap or shoulder belts.

Among 130 mothers-to-be, there were 11 deaths and 33 fetal deaths. Most of the fatalities and injuries occurred because the women were tossed about the car's interior. Fractures, especially of the bones of the pelvic girdle, were common. Restraints might have prevented these injuries.

IN A BITTER letter, one reader raked me over the coals for my stand on seat belts. The man was the sole survivor of an accident in which several were killed. Only he had been wearing a seat belt. The impact ruptured his spleen, and he almost died from abdominal hemorrhage. An operation was required, and he continues to have pain because adhesions formed.

"If it wasn't for that lousy seat belt, I would have my spleen and old sense of well-being," he wrote. Apparently he is forgetting that his life was spared.

Others have had similar injuries. Damage to the intestines, liver, pancreas, spine, and aorta have been reported, but these are rare. It is a small price to pay for being alive. Evidence that lap and shoulder belts save lives is indeed impressive. Without protection, the occupants may be thrown from the car. Ejection injuries are serious and carry a high mortality rate.

THE ONLY TYPE of accident in which restraints are of no value is one in which the vehicle is crushed. Furthermore, 4 of 10 crashes are so severe that nothing would help. Research now indicated that seat belts could save 14,000 lives a year.

Buckle up, even the courts recognize the great safety potential of seat belts.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

TREATING CROUP

Mrs. K. writes: What relieves an attack of croup? Our 2-year-old son almost chokes to death whenever he gets an attack.

REPLY

Vaporizers work well. The cause of croup is not known but is related to the lowered temperature of the room and the child's emotional make-up. The tendency seems to be inherited.

EMPHYSEMA ASTHMA

S. K. writes: Can a person with a mild case of emphysema and asthma do any kind of work or exercise?

REPLY

Yes, except to raise a cigarette to the lips. Activity may be limited because these conditions cause shortness of breath. But exercise does not aggravate or cause asthma or emphysema.

THYROID, METABOLISM

E. T. writes: Could taking thyroid extract cause the heart to beat fast?

REPLY

Yes. Thyroid increases metabolism in general and also steps up the heart beat. Too much thyroid may also lead to cardiac irregularities.

HEMOGLOBIN LEVELS

G. M. writes: Is a hemoglobin of 98 in a man considered normal or high?

REPLY

It is perfect, if you refer to 98 per cent.

COFFEE TWITCHES

S. I. writes: Will drinking 10 cups of coffee daily cause twitching of the eyelids?

REPLY

Yes, and of many other muscles of the body.

Meetings Seek To Avert Kaiser Hospital Strikes

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Hospital workers today laid plans for a strike next week at Kaiser Foundation and Permanente Medical Group hospitals in 15 Northern California cities, including San Rafael.

Negotiators also worked to set up weekend meetings that might avert a walkout by 3,000 nonprofessional workers at the 25 hospitals and clinics Monday morning.

A strike would greatly curtail medical service, but Kaiser was developing plans to maintain emergency care and to keep the hospitals open, in part with the help of its 4,000 non-union employes.

The Hospital Workers Union, which announced the strike threat yesterday after its members rejected a new contract offer, represents kitchen helpers, porters, maids, orderlies, licensed vocational nurses, clerical workers, and X-ray and laboratory technicians.

The contract dispute was over wages and fringe benefits. The union was offered a two-year contract that would raise most wages by 30 cents an hour and liberalize fringe benefits.

However, the union members, who rejected the contract offer by a three-to-one margin, were demanding a one-year contract and generally higher pay for most workers, in large part because they claim Kaiser demands more work of its employes than other hospitals.

Kaiser officials declined comment on the union's assertion, but said their employes are paid as well or better than those in other area hospitals.

The hospitals and clinics involved are in San Francisco, South San Francisco, Oakland, Hayward, Martinez, Richmond, Redwood City, San Rafael, Walnut Creek, Vallejo, Antioch, Napa, Santa Clara, Sunnyvale and Sacramento.

Retired Employees Will Install Monday

Homer F. Crowell of San Anselmo will be installed as president of the Marin Chapter of the Retired State Government Employees' Association at a dinner at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Pepperwood Restaurant in San Anselmo.

Other officers to be installed are Charles Clemmer of Novato, vice president, and Lillian Callas of San Rafael, secretary-treasurer. Don Woods is chairman for the installation program.

Probation Imposed For Drunken Driving

Joe Ralph Marion of 2 Rebecca Way, Novato, was sentenced to two days in jail and placed on six months probation in Marin Municipal Court yesterday for drunken driving May 16 on East Blithedale Avenue, Mill Valley.

Bennie B. Brown, 56, of 3 Gregory Lane, Novato, was given a suspended $302 fine and placed on a year of probation in the same court for the same offense Oct. 30 on DeLong Avenue, Novato.

Three Convicted In Club Burglary

Three Marin City men were convicted by a Marin Superior Court jury yesterday of burglary of the San Geronimo Valley Golf Club June 13.

Frederick Washington, 22, Donald Ray Turner, 19, and Morson Smith, 19, were captured after a chase down a golf course fairway.

Turner and Smith were ordered to return to court Jan. 6 for sentencing. Washington was ordered to return Jan. 13.

State Will Call Bids On Angel Island Job

More than $80 million in construction projects, including one at Angel Island, are to be advertise for bids next year by the state Department of General Services, office of architecture and construction.

Bids for dredging boating facilities in Ayala Cove at Angel Island will be advertised in May. Estimated cost of the project is $224,000.

Teen Couple In Custody On Narcotics

A 17-year-old San Francisco youth and his 18-year-old female companion were arrested yesterday on suspicion of various narcotics charges after California Highway Patrol officers noticed their car weaving down Highway 101 near Novato.

Michael Terrance King was cited to Juvenile Hall on suspicion of driving while under the influence of narcotics, possession of dangerous drugs, possession of marijuana and having no driver's license.

Barbara Ann Carigliano, who told officers she recently came to the Haight-Ashbury District from New York City, was arrested on suspicion of possession of dangerous drugs and narcotics devices, contributing to the delinquency of a minor, and having a concealed knife.

Officers said they followed King's car at about 2:45 a.m. as it headed south toward Novato, and that he finally stopped on the highway about two miles north of that city.

King dropped a plastic bag containing what looked like marijuana and a plastic vial containing two tablets on the highway shoulder, officers said. The girl had a box in which there were needles, pills and an eye dropper, and a knife in her pocket, they said.

Reagan Plans Second Drunk Law Attempt

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The governor's Traffic Safety Conference has joined Gov. Ronald Reagan in urging the legislature to pass a "presumptive limits" law to ease prosecution of the drunken driver.

The conference's request was among traffic safety recommendations it adopted Friday at the conclusion of its two-day meeting. About 1,200 adults and teenagers studied traffic problems at the conference, sponsored by the governor.

Reagan told the conference Thursday he will try again next year to get legislative approval of a measure to set a .10 per cent alcohol blood limit for determining if a driver is drunk.

Similar legislation, backed by Reagan, was defeated this year on the Assembly floor.

AID TO COURTS

The governor said a .10 per cent limit would "relieve our judiciary of burdensome and expensive trials and would be of immeasurable aid to enforcement agencies."

Current law does not set a level of intoxication. A court determines whether a person who has taken a chemical test was drunk when arrested.

The conference recommendation noted the "presumptive limit" test has the endorsement of the American Bar Association, the National Safety Council and the American Medical Association.

OTHER GOALS

In other recommendations made to Reagan, the conference called for:

Expansion of the present driver education system to include training in vehicle operation under emergency situations such as tire blow-outs at high speed, loss of brakes and stuck accelerators.

Enlargement of the research programs in accident prevention being conducted by the Highway Patrol and UCLA.

Extension to professional accident research investigators the authority now possessed by investigators of the Federal Aviation Assciation to eliminate legal restrictions on studying accidents.

Enactment of legislation permitting traffic courts to handle juvenile traffic violations.

Increase of the driver's license fee to provide more funds for improving driver licensing procedures.

Victim Improves

William Relahan, 26, of 26 Suffield Avenue, San Anselmo, was reported improved and in fair condition at Marin General Hospital today with head injuries suffered in a car accident Wednesday night on Highway 101 at the Alto Hill.

Udall Promotes Two Marinites In Park Service

Appointment of John A. Rutter of Terra Linda as director of the northwest district of the National Park Service was announced today by Secy. of Interior Stewart L. Udall.

Rutter has been regional director in the park service's western regional office in San Francisco. In his new position he will make his headquarters in Seattle. National Park Service areas Alaska, Washington, Oregon and Idaho and the Lava Beds National Monument in Northern California will be under his jurisdiction.

William L. Bowen of Novato will succeed Rutter as regional director in San Francisco, Secretary Udall announced. Bowen has been chief of the office of design and construction in the regional planning and service center of the park service.

Rutter resides at 118 Forrest Lane, Terra Linda; Bowen, at 2067 Feliz Road, Novato.

New Italian Cabinet Busy On Problems

ROME (UPI)—Italy's new coalition government today buckled down to its first full day's work but the nation's long-awaited social and economic reforms will likely have to wait for next year.

Premier Mariano Rumor's cabinet, sworn in yesterday, was busy appointing its undersecretaries. A cabinet meeting was also expected to discuss Rumor's speech outlining the government's policies to parliament Monday.

The government must obtain a parliamentary vote of confidence, a procedure not expected to be completed before Dec. 23, the day parliament adjourns for the Christmas holidays.

Since the coalition of Christian Democrats, Socialists and Republicans hold a comfortable parliamentary majority, the new government should face no difficulties when the vote is taken.

Meanwhile, there was some progress made in the problems to which Rumor referred—a series of regional strikes which entered their sixth day today, and continuing student protests against the nation's antiquated higher education system.

An agreement to take effect Jan. 1 was reached on farm laborers' salaries in Sicily, where the death of two laborers in a clash with police set off demonstrations and rioting.

Peninsula Woman Hurt Near Fairfax

A 27-year-old Daly City woman suffered only minor injuries when her car slid off Bolinas Road near Mora Avenue in Fairfax about 9:40 p.m. yesterday and hit an embankment, reported the California Highway Patrol.

Nadine M. Shute was treated at Marin General Hospital for bruises and scrapes.

Commonwealth Club Spot To Busterud

John A. Busterud, San Rafael attorney, was elected vice president of the Commonwealth Club of San Francisco yesterday.

Judge Wakefield Taylor of Martinez was elected president, succeeding Elmer G. Johnson of San Francisco.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Dec. 14, the 349th day of 1968 with 17 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

On this date in history:

In 1799, George Washington, the first President of the United States, died at Mount Vernon, N.Y.

In 1902, the cableship Silverton set out from San Francisco to lay the first cable to Honolulu. It was completed by Jan. 1, 1903.

In 1911, a gift of $10 million from Andrew Carnegie set up the Carnegie endowment for international peace.

In 1964, the Electoral College officially confirmed Lyndon Johnson's victory over Barry Goldwater in the presidential election.

A thought for the day: American author Washington Irving said, "Whenever a man's friends begin to compliment him about looking young, he may be sure that they think he is growing old."

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

The column of heights gives the elevation in feet of each tide above or below the plane of Coast Survey chart soundings. The depths are always additive to the chart depths unless preceded by a minus (-), when the numbers are subtracted from the depth given in the chart. Light-face type indicates a.m. times; bold-face type indicates p.m. times.

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Success In Bridge Also Includes Listening To What Is Not Bid

If you listen attentively at the bridge table you will hear all the bids, but that is not enough. You must listen even harder — to hear what is not bid. As a famous poet once wrote: "Heard bids are sweet, but those unheard are sweeter."

Opening lead — ◇ 10

LOW TO DUMMY

West opened the ten of diamonds, covered by the jack, queen and ace. South led a low spade to dummy's jack and returned a spade, losing to West's ace.

West sat back to think about the hand and came up with the killing defense. It was apparent that South held a five-card spade suit headed by the K-Q-10, with the ace of diamonds on the side. West also remembered that he hadn't heard an opening bid from South.

CLEAR COURSE

Obviously South could not have the ace of clubs, because with that card and his known strength South would have opened the bidding with one spade. Since the ace of clubs was sure to be in the East hand, West's course was clear.

GETS RUFF

West shifted to the king of clubs and continued with a club to the ace. East returned a club, and West's ruff defeated the contract.

Give West a medal for working out the best defense, but don't polish any trophies for South. He played the hand far too obviously.

To hide his spade strength South should win the first trick in dummy with the king of diamonds and led the jack of spades as though planning a finesse.

PLAY KING

When East plays low, South should put up the king of spades without the slightest hesitation. (It would be improper to stage a dramatic pause before playing the king.)

West would take the ace of spades but would be uncertain of the trump position and would therefore be unlikely to work out the location of the ace of clubs.

♠—K Q 10 9 8
♥—Q 7
♦—A 4
♣—9 8 4 3

What do you say?

Answer: Pass. In general, stay out of the bidding when an opponent bids your longest and strongest suit. Let the opponents get into trouble when you are warned that your best suit is going to break very badly.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

The Editor's Notebook

Lack Of Responsibility Imperils School System

Public education in California is in real trouble.

It has been increasingly difficult in the past couple of years to get approval of bonds to finance much-needed expansion of facilities at all educational levels.

Last month Marin voters turned down, for the third time, a bond proposal to provide much needed expansion in the Tamalpais High School District. Marin's high school population is still mushrooming. Redwood and Drake High Schools, especially, are bursting at the seams. Each term sees the crush become more acute.

Long lead times are required to design and build schools.

The crush in the Tam District will inevitably get much worse before it can get better.

SAME IS TRUE of California's state college system.

The full impact of the post-war baby boom is now reaching the college level. At the same time, society's attitude toward education is such that we expect many to attend college who in former generations would have fallen by the wayside, educationally.

At the instant when California faces its most pressing need for state college expansion, voters last month turned down a statewide bond issue which would have provided the necessary funds.

What's worse, the climate today is less likely to see education bond approval today than it was Nov. 5.

Troubles on campus have multiplied.

There has been irresponsible behavior by students, by faculty and by administrators.

IF YOU DON'T THINK that vast numbers of citizens have lost patience with such goings-on, you need only to look at the volume and nature of the mail which has deluged Dr. S. I. Hayakawa since he instituted his "get tough" policies at San Francisco State. Those policies, incidentally, are too mild and not tough enough to suit many.

Right here in Marin, our own College of Marin is headed toward crises.

On the one hand, its enrollment is fast outstripping its capacity at Kentfield. It desperately needs to get going on construction of its proposed North Marin campus.

On the other hand, student and faculty unrest — coupled with some goofs by administrators — undermine public confidence in the college's ability to conduct its affairs sensibly.

WHEN PUBLIC confidence waivers, the last slim chance of getting a two-thirds majority to vote for bond financing is lost.

College of Marin is but one more example of the trouble which public education has got itself into in California.

There was a time not many years ago when some of the most effective campaigning for school finance measures was carried on by students and teachers.

The misbehavior and irresponsible public statements of a handful of revolutionary students and faculty now is even more effective in insuring defeat at the polls for public education finance measures.

WHERE ARE WE HEADED? Where will it end?

If the handful of revolutionists and anarchists triumph, we will wind up having no schools — which seems to be what some of them would like.

If anarchists and revolutionaries are not to succeed in destroying our public education system, administrators and trustees are going to have to get tougher. With no expansion in sight, stern disciplinary measures will have to be instituted to eliminate those who commit even minor infractions.

There will be no other way to trim the size of the student body to fit the compact size of the facilities.

When the troublemakers are eliminated, perhaps one day public confidence will return and expansion can be resumed.

War On The Red Fox

Since the end of World War II in Europe, the bottom has fallen out of the market for red fox furs and trapping of the little animals has declined sharply. The red fox population has been on the rise.

Since the red fox is the most susceptible animal to rabies yet studied, and since the incidence of rabies has risen sharply in the past two years, public health officials in 21 European countries recently recommended to their governments that the fox population be cut up to 80 per cent as the only way to control the disease.

Germany has been the center of the rabies virus pool. More than 100 cases of rabies, mostly foxes, were recorded in Switzerland during a recent 18-month period.

The program of reducing the fox population has already been tried in Denmark, where it quickly brought the rabies count to almost zero.

Although Marin does have a few wild foxes, our more prevalent skunks seem to be the most common source of what little rabies we have.

Bouquets And Brickbat

BOUQUETS to the Fairfax Congress for Community Action for laying out goals which may help guide city officials and others in improving the community.

BRICKBATS to the Bolinas-Stinson Beach School District Board for going behind closed doors to discuss "personnel matters" and refusing explanation of whether their action was legal under bans on closed meetings in both Government Code and Education Code. Neither public officials nor the schools are benefitted by such refusal to trust the public.

BOUQUETS to Marin City leaders who agreed that the Marin City Council will hereafter be that community's planning body. This puts planning for Marin City in the hands of its own citizens, which we think is where it belongs.

BOUQUETS to Charles A. Brown, former Sausalito city manager, on his appointment as city manager of Novato. He has "a hard act to follow" in J. Julien Baget, the former chief administrative officer in Novato, but his previous Marin experience should prove helpful — though Novato and Sausalito are quite different, as he will speedily discover if he hasn't already.

Photos Of Violence "Yellow Journalism"

We the undersigned students of Drake High, in response to the editor's note (Dec. 7 issue) about our criticism of violence in the newspapers would like to say that although it is not the issue at hand, we are opposed to any violence whatsoever, whether it be caused by soldiers in Vietnam "preserving democracy," unhappy student demonstrators, or policemen with animal-like tendencies.

The real issue, and we feel you missed the point, is not the actual violence pictured, but how and with what ulterior motives it was pictured. We feel that your pictures and others like them are not printed honestly and in the public interest, but as a selling gimmick, propagandizing your own biased beliefs. We will go still farther and compare your tactics to those of yellow journalism, which was the primary cause for the Spanish-American war.

Please print this letter as we feel it is vital to help give a better understanding of the tense situations of today's life. It also voices the opinions of tomorrow's Americans!

(Editor's note: It is probably useless to assure these young people that photographs of violence are published in the public interest, so the readers may see for themselves what is going on. Such, however, is the case. We welcome their opinions, nevertheless. And we do not regard them as "tomorrow's Americans." They are today's Americans. One does not have to reach some advanced age to be an American.)

LINES ON LIVING

Friendship Precious, Easy, But Too Lacking Today

By Rabbi HAIM KEMELMAN

If our prosperity gives us many luxuries, it is not conducive to the making of friends and enduring friendships.

Friendships should be an easy exercise, a contagious experience, a light undertaking. But since it involves, in a meaningful sense, the deeper meanings and secrets of life, most of us are suspicious toward new friendships and take the attitude of Claude Mermet: "Friends are like melons. . . To find one good, you must a hundred try."

Yet in spite of our mass-communications system, there is a certain disconnectedness in our society. So many today are the friendless who can give in friendship as much as they can take, but they are scattered and drained of the fortifying riches of many friendships.

FRIENDSHIP requires cultivation, time, life-investment. It asks not merely for lip service and verbal smpathy but for the kind of personal commitment that inspires loyalty, confidence and trust. Friendship is an extension of personality, an increase in the sharing of happiness, a halving of sorrow.

With a true friend, you can be yourself; you can impart your most secret thoughts, without counting your words; you can share your joys freely, without measuring your emotions; you can unburden your affliction and shame, without sifting your expression to refine its meaning. With a true friend, you feel comfortable, safe, heartened, secure, enthralled — you can reveal your soul. A true friend will laugh with you, not at you; cheer you, not mock you; correct you in private, never in public.

Friends are not bought but earned and their handling requires the care given to precious vessels. They will not suffer neglect. The great blessing of life is our ability to make friends; to be a friend to man.

WHAT IS friendship? Perhaps it is a total encounter with life which involved our peculiar powers of extending outside of our person, in appreciating and in embracing whatever is noble and loving in others. It is, in a word, human comprehension at its best: coming alive in total response to life around us. We can enjoy things by ourselves. But we must share experiences with others for this is the whole meaning of human life. In our human vocabulary, life is not an isolated experience in the singular person.

As for those who shun away from friendship because of its imperfections or past hurts, it should be recalled that as we learn to forgive ourselves for our own shortcomings, we can become more tolerant of the faults of others and not recoil easily in self-withdrawal.

If we feel secure in our personality and conduct, we need not fret; the mighty stream of human friendship can be enhancing and instructive. If we muster enough courage and wisdom and fortitude. Me may even see eye to eye with Ivan Panin and derive some usefulness from our lesser friends: "Three men are my friends — he that loves me, he that hates me, he that is indifferent to me. Who loves me, teaches me tenderness. Who hates me, teaches me caution. Who is indifferent to me, teaches me self-reliance."

Tiny Hope Remains For LBJ's Peace Mission To Kremlin

PARIS — The report that President Johnson is thinking of a summit meeting with Soviet Premier Kosygin at the conclusion of a grand tour of Europe is received on this side of the Atlantic with decidedly mixed emotions. Well-meaning, yes. But what can be accomplished by a President whose term in office has only six weeks more to run?

If the power of decision in Washington is dubious with a new administration so soon to take over, the uncertainties of decision in Moscow are almost as great. This reporter, talking with Kremlinologists in four western capitals, has arrived at a picture deeply disturbing in the division of authority suggested.

THERE ARE THREE principal areas of doubt. First, the top men in the Kremlin — Kosygin, Leonid Brezhnev, secretary of the Communist party, and the others — are themselves at odds over the course to be followed in policy toward the outside world.

This division gives the military an opportunity to move in with a hard-line response. Contingency plans are ready for any given situation when civilian authority falters. That was what happened when Russian tanks moved into Prague in August after days of indecision in the Kremlin over what to do about the Czech revisionists and their democratized version of communism.

The American argument for negotiating from superior strength can undoubtedly be matched by that kind of argument from the Russian military.

THE SECOND area of doubt concerns the Middle East and the Russian thrust into that region vital to western interests for its oil and its strategic importance. Here, many analysts agree, is the greatest danger to peace today.

The Russians put the highest priority on the reopening of the Suez Canal. That it remains closed 18 months after the end of the lightning Egyptian-Israeli war of 1967 exacts a heavy penalty on Russian shipping to the Far East. More important, it puts a crimp in the Soviet plan for a massive naval presence in the Indian Ocean.

Stories circulate of the length to which Moscow means to go if the canal cannot be reopened by peaceful negotiation. One report is that Russian heavy artillery is being installed on the Egyptian side of the canal.

In any confrontation with Johnson, the Soviet premier would almost certainly raise the Middle East issue. And in light of the deepening hostility between Israel and the Arab powers, with the United States committed to Israel, the President's maneuverability would be, to say the least, limited.

IN THE THIRD area the doubts are greatest and the facts hardest to come by. This concerns conditions within the Soviet Union and the reports of widespread discontent and even overt unrest.

The public protests of a handful of intellectuals, courageous men and women like Pavel Litvinov and Larissa Daniel, are dramatic but in a sense irrelevant. The phenomenon that must give the Kremlin nightmares is the reported disillusions of the middle level of scientists, technicians, professional men and women. According to reports of observers recently in Russia with an opportunity to make firsthand contacts, they no longer believe in the system. They have transistor radios, they listen to foreign broadcasts, and they eagerly question foreigners meet about conditions in the outside world.

The greatest disillusion, bitterness actually, is over high prices, shoddy goods and workmanship and promises falling so far short of performance. It is here that Johnson confronting Kosygin might find an opening. For the burden of the cost of modern armaments in a country where 50 per cent of the people are still in agriculture is merciless.

BELATEDLY the Kremlin is said to have come to realize what it would mean to put the antiballistic missile on top of this burden. With an added cost of up to $50 billion the hope of more and better consumer goods and a somewhat easier life would fade into the grey, harsh, continuing austerity which is the existence of most Soviet citizens.

Here for the Western European is the crux of the matter.

ART BUCHWALD

Tasty Treat In Wintry Weather— Baked Newspaper a la Buchwald

WASHINGTON — This is the time of year when, because of inclement weather and bad pitches by groggy newsboys, your Sunday newspaper may be arriving in a wet or soggy condition. Most people get angry at this state of affairs, mainly because they don't know how to dry and bake a good Sunday paper. Once you know how to do this, you may never fear getting a wet newspaper again.

My recipe for baking a newspaper was handed down in my family from one generation to the next, and even on the rainiest, snowiest, sleetiest day our family always has had the crispiest, tastiest Sunday newspaper on the block.

As a public service, it is my intention to pass on this family recipe to my loyal and devoted readers.

FIRST, PREHEAT oven to 300 degrees.

While you're doing that, drain off liquid from the paper and put aside.

Now get a sharp knife and start peeling off the sections of paper — the front section, then the society, sports, comics and so forth. Wipe each section lightly with a damp cloth, and roll to even out.

By this time your oven should be hot. If it isn't, you can study the wet football scores or the classified advertisements.

Once your oven is hot enough, arrange the sections of the newspaper on the racks of the oven, but make sure they do not touch each other or get in the way of the oven door.

NOTE: It is always best to put the comics on the lowest shelf so the color does not drip down on the black-and-white pictures of Jackie Onassis.

(If your paper is very, very large, you may have to bake it in two roastings. Therefore, select the sections you want to read first, bake them and then, while you're reading them, stick the other sections in the oven.)

I KNOW THAT the big question on your mind is how long to bake or roast a Sunday newspaper. This depends strictly on the paper. Give 15 minutes for each pound of wet newsprint. But every five minutes turn over the sections on the rack so that they don't get too brown. Some people prefer to cook their newspaper on a rotisserie which keeps going around in a circle, and this is probably a faster way to do it. But the danger is that if the paper touches flame, it will go up in smoke and that won't leave you much to do on Sunday morning.

After you've allowed your newspaper first to simmer, then stew and finally bake, you can test it to see if it's ready to be read. Take out the travel section, or the book review, and hold it in both hands. If the paper seems firm and stays up stiff of its own accord, it's ready. On the other hand, if it sags or falls apart while you're holding it, put the rest of it back in the oven for at least another 10 minutes.

SOMETIMES PEOPLE make a mistake and overcook their paper. You'll know your Sunday paper is too well-done if it gets black around the edges and has a funny smell to it.

Your Sunday paper can either be served hot or cold to your family and can also be sliced very thin or very thick, depending on how they like it.

If you want to read it cold, transfer to a cool, dry place and let stand 15 minutes.

The important thing to remember is that anyone can bake a Sunday newspaper. All you need for the ingredients are newsprint, rain, slush or snow, a hot oven and patience.

One more thing: there may be times when the news is so depressing that you're sorry you took the trouble to bake your paper. If this happens, just pour some cognac on it, light it and make it into a flambe.

Span Board Almost Votes To Pay Cost Of Napa Suit Against Itself

Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors yesterday came within one vote of using district funds to pay the costs of a legal battle against the district.

Napa County last month filed suit against the district and Marin, San Francisco and Sonoma counties, holding that a new law expanding the bridge board was unconstitutional because it gave four additional directorships to these three counties. The other counties in the district are Mendocino and Del Norte. (See also, bridge story on page 1).

Director L. E. Castner's motion to authorize the use of district funds to finance legal costs of joining Napa County in the suit was seconded by E. J. Guidotti. Both are from Sonoma County.

Voting for the motion were Castner, Guidotti, Edwin M. Fraser of Del Norte County, Lowell Edington of Napa County, John E. Nelson of Mendocino County, George H. Ludy of Inverness and William D. Hadeler of San Francisco.

Of these, Guidotti, Hadeler and Ludy are being dumped from the board by the new law. Nelson indicated yesterday he intended to resign soon.

Voting down Castner's motion were directors William C. Blake, John E. Dearman and Stephan C. Leonoudakis of San Francisco, and Joseph E. Sheeks of Belvedere. Abstaining were Daniel F. Del Carlo, Ben K. Lerer and William Moskovitz of San Francisco. Director Dan E. London of San Francisco was absent.

Leonoudakis suggested that directors who want to fight the new law seek help from the Neighborhood Legal Assistance Foundation.

Dearman termed the motion "stupid."

Directors cannot be both defendants and plaintiffs, argued Sheeks.

Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors also:

COMMUTE BOOKS — Deferred to January study of a recommendation by district auditor Gordon E. Dahlgren that selling commutation books by mail be considered. Also deferred was his recommendation for "a systematic and planned program for advertising and favorable publicity."

TAX REBATE — Hired the San Francisco law firm of Howard, Primm, Smith, Rice & Downs to represent the district in a friendly suit over the repayment of $2 million in property taxes to the counties in the district.

CUSHIONS — Received staff report that hydraulic cushion traffic bumpers will be installed on the toll gates next week.

BIKE TRAIL — Learned final plans, specifications and cost estimate for a bicycle trail across the bridge will be completed by March 1.

SUICIDES — Authorized the San Francisco Suicide Prevention Center to train district employees how to detect and handle possible suicides, at a cost of $1,500, and to try a roving truck patrol on the bridge during daylight to detect possible jumpers.

ONE-WAY TOLLS — Were told by Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring that only five written complaints have been received about the one-way toll collection experiment since it started Oct. 19, and that 4.5 million vehicles had crossed since then with only two minor accidents in the toll plaza.

ENGINEERS — Raised the hourly wage of operating engineers by 20 cents to $6.21 an hour in accord with agreements between their union and the Associated Union Contractors.

TELEPHONES — Voted to replace an antiquated telephone switchboard in the district office at a montly cost of $283 and an intallation charge of up to $1,000. The present system costs $163 a month.

TOW TRUCK — Declared Dervin Ford Co. of Novato lowest of three bidders to provide a new tow truck at $19,742.

MEETING — Set the next regular meeting at 10 a.m. next Friday instead of on Dec. 27.

TOLLS — Took no action on a resolution by the Mendocino County Board of Supervisors urging that bridge tolls be cut to 10 cents after 1971 if construction of a second bridge has not begun by then.

Drug Addiction Treatment Ordered

Robert William Scofield Jr., 19, of no fixed address, was placed on three years probation yesterday in Marin Municipal Court and ordered to commit himself for treatment in Napa State Hospital's clinic for drug addition.

He admitted being under the influence of drugs Sunday in San Rafael.

Dinner Canceled

The Marin City Community Services District will hold a business meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Manzanita Community Center, but the annual Christmas dinner scheduled for that time has been canceled until further notice.

Patients Ask Center For Alcoholics

A suggestion by patients at Mendocino State Hospital that a halfway house for alcoholics be established in Marin was presented at a monthly meeting yesterday of the Community Planning Group on Alcohol and Drug Addition Problems in Marin County.

The group unanimously voted to form a subcommittee to study the possibilities.

Acting chairman Rae Taub of the Marin Mental Health Association appointed Thomas Brewster, social worker at the Mendocino hospital; Dr. Clyde G. Miller, county director of community mental health services; Jerry Sappington, director of health education for Marin County Health Department, and Dr. Margaret Grew of the Marin Association for Mental Health to the subcommittee.

The suggestion by four hospital patients, all from Marin County, who attended yesterday's session at Marin General Hospital, was that a house be provided to accommodate persons dismissed after treatment at the hospital but who have no place to live.

The patients, who appeared at the invitation of the planning group, said maximum stay at the house would probably be three months.

Dr. Juhan Liikane of the Community Mental Health Center at Marin General Hospital said the planning group's purpose is to develop a county-wide plan for filling needs of addicts.

He said the plan will be completed in about six months, then presented to the county board of supervisors.

The group has about 40 members, of whom 14 were present yesterday.

Live Carols To Be Heard Over KTIM

The Bank of Marin will present its sixth annual live Christmas carol broadcasts by local groups over KTIM direct from the bank lobbies in San Rafael and Novato beginning Monday.

The programs will begin at 2:30 p.m. with the Campfire Girls of Central Marin, directed by Mrs. Warren Rice, singing in the San Rafael Bank of Marin lobby. Immediately following, at 2:45 p.m., the Hill Junior High School choral group, directed by Vincent Pebbles, will sing in the Novato lobby.

PGA, Players Kiss And Make Up With Agreement

NEW YORK (AP) — The PGA and the APG have put down their war clubs and decided to tee off together again on pro golf's multi-million dollar tour.

The two organizations shook hands last evening on the agreement, ending a drawn out feud that threatened to send the 52-year-old Professional Golfers' Association and the touring pros their separate ways on separate tours.

Under the merger, the touring pros will have a voice in policy-making decisions of the tour, the crux of the problem which caused the break four months ago. However, neither the PGA nor the break-away American Professional Golfers claimed victory in the settlement.

"I wouldn't call it a victory for the APG," said Sam Gates, attorney for the group. "We didn't go into this looking for a victory. We sought agreement by eliminating the sources of the disagreement."

TOUR TO CONTINUE

The settlement returns the touring players to the PGA and ends their plans to establish a separate tour.

The APG, with most of the top pros, including Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper, had signed contracts with 17 tournament sponsors. The combination of top names and a majority of tournaments on the $5.5 million tour would have left the PGA tour out in the cold.

Under the agreement, the tour will continue as a PGA program and those 17 tournaments will be transferred to the PGA, which will honor the commitments.

POLICY BOARD

A tournament players division will be established within the PGA and will be governed by a tournament policy board with full authority over the conduct of the tour.

The board will consist of 10 directors, including four as yet unnamed tournament players; three PGA officials—PGA president Leo Fraser, Warren Orlick and William Clarke—and three distinguished businessmen.

The businessmen are J. Paul Austin of Atlanta, president of Coca Cola Co.; George H. Love of Pittsburgh, chairman of the board of Consolidated Coal Co., and John D. Murchison of Dallas, one of the leading financial figures of the Southwest.

One player director will be elected to the PGA Executive Committee as a vice president and all player directors will become members of the PGA's Rules Committee.

The board will appoint a tournament director who will handle financial matters, discipline players, handle television contracts and supervise over-all directions of the day-to-day operation of the tour, which begins Jan. 9 with the Los Angeles Open.

All pending litigation involving the PGA and APG is being dismissed under the agreement announced by Fraser and Gardner Dickinson Jr., president of the APG.

Novato Makes Finals, Tars Out Of Own Tournament

HERB MICHELSON

Ah, The Icy Brilliance Of Those Hockey Figures

OAKLAND — While the Seals are mired in glacial inconsistency these days (both on the ice and in the front office), I thought it might be wise to keep all of us up to date statistically. Thus, a rummage through several National Hockey League press books.

Those of you who followed my baseball season tirades are familiar with Michelson's love affair with statistics. Sports wouldn't be sports without numbers — batting averages, first downs, free throw percentages, corner kicks and those kind of things.

Until perusing the bilingual tome from the Montreal Canadiens and other such fodder, I didn't realize that hockey was so numbers conscious. (Funny how sexy numbers look in French.)

YOU'D FIGURE that there are goals and assists on the goals and goalie saves and that's that. You'd figure wrong.

Take the Chicago Blackhawk book. It traces Bobby Hull's record-busting goal performance three seasons ago much as baseball lore reveals the 61-homer year of Roger Maris.

In the 1965-66 season, Hull broke hockey's equivalent of 60 homers and the four-minute mile: The 50-goal barrier. So the Hawk book shows us the date, place, opponent and goalie involved in each of Hull's 54 tallies. Many people know off whom Maris banged his 61st homer (think hard now), but few are aware of Hull's 51st goal victim. Ready trivia collectors? It was Cesar Maniago, then with the New York Rangers and now with the Minnesota North Stars.

LUCKILY, the Detroit Red Wing pamphlet lacks the space to record each of Gordie Howe's 700-plus goals. But it has an even more exciting statistical column labeled "Important Goals." Important Goals?

Among the "important" types are winning goal, insurance goal, game's first goal, Detroit's first goal, Detroit's only goal (how important could that possibly be save for 1-0 Wing wins?), tying goal, go-ahead goal. Howe won in this department, a terribly startling fact.

MONTREAL'S BROCHURE includes "Record avec un joueur en moins," which tells us how many times the enemy scored when the Canadiens had a fellow in the penalty box and was shorthanded. From this column, I was thrilled to learn that last season the Canadiens played shorthanded against Oakland on 10 occasions (in four games) and was scored on twice.

Yet, none of these number revelations is as totally satisfying as the fodder provided in the encyclopedic press book published by the Pittsburgh Penguins, who would have been the NHL's worst team a year ago if the Seals weren't around.

Penguin flack Joe Gordon has ensured the world that everything Pittsburgh did on the ice last season is preserved for posterity. Presumably, Joe has buried one of these books in a time capsule deep in a Western Pennsylvania coal mine just in case of atomic holocaust.

UNDER THE HEADING "Individual Scoring Breakdown," we have these numbers for Penguin goals scored in 1967-68:

First period goals, second period goals, third period goals, power play goals, short handed goals, Detroit's familiar winning, tying and first of the game goals, home goals, away goals, first half of the season goals, second half of the season goals.

By creating all these categories for goals, one gets the impression Pittsburgh scored thousands last season. Actually, they managed less than three a game.

Hockey's obvious hope (or, if you will, goal) is to create so many statistics that the game will become popular in areas with little fan interest.

I have a strong feeling their number may be up.

Sierra Proves Nemisis

By KIMO CAMPBELL

With a cast completely composed of outlanders, the third annual College of Marin Invitational basketball tournament will wind up tonight in Kentfield when American River Junior College of Sacramento plays Napa J.C. at nine o'clock. Yuba and Reedley clash for third place at seven, while Sierra and Santa Rosa will go for the consolation championship at five.

American River earned a spot in the finals by crushing Yuba J.C. of Marysville 100-72 last night, while Napa had to go into overtime to edge Reedley College 82-77. Sierra College eliminated host College of Marin 71-68 and Santa Rosa J.C. outran Solano College of Vallejo 90-82.

Marin's play was greatly improved over the previous evening's debacle against Napa, but the Tars fell to their familiar nemesis from Rocklin, mostly on the hot outside shooting of Cliff Swesey and several bad calls by the officials, who were not consistent in their allowance of contact under the backboards.

The key call was at 2:30 of the last half, when Sierra rallied from a 41-34 halftime deficit to tie the score at 63-all. Pat Schafer was called for a ball control foul — i.e., charging — when two Wolverines were all over him and he was not in motion. Tar coach Cal Riemcke called the ruling "ridiculous" which states the case nicely. Schafer, the Tars' leading scorer, then fouled out on another debatable call under the basket.

THE DIFFERENCE

Swesey, however, was the difference. A skinny 6-2 forward with a shock of cornsilk hair, he put in a jumper to give Sierra a three-point lead after the two calls, another jumper after Bill Hoge's basket brought Marin within one, and sank two free throws at 0:36 to give the Wolverines the game. Overall, he hit on seven of ten from the field, mostly 10-15 foot jump shots, and set a new COM Tourney record with 10 of 11

A Pair Of Cable Car Shocks As Santa Clara, USF Win

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Two upset winners—Santa Clara and the University of San Francisco—meet tonight in the final of the Cable Car Classic basketball tournament.

Santa Clara stunned nationally 12th ranked Houston 75-50 last night after San Francisco had dumped Brigham Young 79-75. The Broncos, ranked 16th, are now 4-0 and the Cougars 3-2.

The Santa Clara-Houston game was halted twice by two fights among players—the second of which saw both benches emptied as everyone raced to the floor.

Rebounds told the story as the Broncos collected 55 of 45 by for Houston. Dennis Awtrey led the winners with 20 rebounds—tying a tournament record for a single game.

Houston, which scored more than 100 points 18 times last year, had a very poor shooting night, hitting only 27 per cent from the field and missing 15 of 27 free throws.

Bud Ogden topped Santa Clara with 23 points, while Awtrey had 19. U.S. Olympic star Ken Spain was tops for Houston with 11 points.

San Francisco forged ahead 75-73 with 1:48 left on two free throws by Curtis Hinton and then held BYU to a lone point. Hinton, a 6-6 sophomore, ended up with 23 points while teammate Pete Cross took game honors with 29 points and 20 rebounds.

Paul Ruffner led BYU with 20 points. The Dons out-rebounded their rivals 46-36, but trailed 43-42 in percentage from the field.

Both teams now have 2-2 records.

The Coast took another big intersectional win at Seattle where Washington squeezed out a 46-44 win over previously unbeaten Oklahoma State in a defensive struggle.

George Irvine's jumper with two seconds to go overcame a fine effort by the losers' soph hotshot Amos Thomas. The two teams will clash again tonight.

But another Pacific Eight team tasted defeat as Washington State was upset in a Friday the 13th shocker at Montana, 100-96. At Spokane, Washington State manhandled the same team by a 90-57 count. Dennis Hogge of the losers led scorers with 29 points.

McNeil In Spotlight As 49ers Meet Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — San Francisco 49er split end Clifton McNeil, with one pass reception championship wrapped up, gets his last chance at a second one tomorrow when the 49ers close out their season against the Atlanta Falcons.

McNeil, who came to the 49ers at the beginning of the season from the Cleveland Browns and quickly established himself as one of the top receivers in the National Football League, has 69 receptions for 975 yards.

The reception mark virtually assures him of NFL supremacy in that department. Roy Jefferson of Pittsburgh is second with 52.

JONES GAINS

But Homer Jones of the New York Giants has gained one more yard than McNeil.

In Atlanta, the 49ers face one of the poorest pass-defense teams in the NFL. The Falcons have allowed an average of 221.2 yards per game through the air.

The Giants, on the other hand, face Dallas, which has allowed only 167.2 yards per game passing. So if the statistics hold up, McNeil might have a chance to end up the leader in both departments.

As for the game itself, the 49ers must beat the Falcons if they are not to fall below .500 for the first time in four years. San Francisco now stands at 6-6-1. The Falcons' record is 2-11.

Hornets Meet Lowell In Drake Cage Meet

By GARY TISCHLER

Last night may well have been the Drake Invitational High School Basketball Tournament's longest night. It was certainly its sloppiest and most surprising evening yet.

Consider these developments — Lowell of San Francisco clung to a deliberate, physical game and knocked off unbeaten Petaluma, 53-48, as Petaluma stars Pete Daggett and Larry Riis fouled out in the third quarter in a semifinal game that saw 48 fouls called, 29 on the losers.

Once-beaten Novato obligingly stumbled along with scrappy Drake of San Anselmo and had to grit its teeth to save a 58-51 win that could have gone down the drain by the slip of a toe.

That put the Hornets into the finals against Lowell at 8 o'clock tonight while Drake battles Petaluma for third place at 6:30 p.m.

In consolation play, Terra Linda continued to make this a miserable tournament for Redwood of Larkspur, pulling out a 51-47 upset, and Napa bowled over inept but game Marysville, 59-45.

Terra Linda plays Napa at 5 p.m. for the consolation title while Redwood goes after Marysville for what's left over at 3:30 this afternoon.

DELIBERATE GAME

Defending champion Lowell, with none of the key players from last year's team back, used a pair of swift guards and three behemoths under the boards, plus a more or less deliberate game to bring Petaluma's go-go, run-like-the devil game to an aching and stumbling halt.

The Trojans, who have hit in the 90-point area this season, managed only 10 points in the first three periods, and trailed by 21-20 at the half, wondering if and when they would ignite.

They never did. The third period was strictly a disaster, as first Riis, then Daggett, the superb ballhandler and high-scoring guard, were whistled out of the game.

Daggett, who had scored 29 points against Redwood, finished with 10 points.

Lowell went ahead by as much as 12 points in the final period, but still got a torrid battle from Petaluma's valiant subs, one of whom also fouled out. The subs got to within three points twice, but Bill Leong, a speed whiz who ran the Trojans silly all night, iced it with a pair of free throws.

Lowell also had control of the boards via the hands of bulky 6-5 Glenn Glasgow and Bill Stellings, also 6-5, a pair of slightly unpolished but effective giants.

SHEER GUT

Drake, played a curious style of sheer gut and comedy, throwing the ball away as often as possible but sank free throws like crazy to stay close to the taller, more talented Hornets who obviously felt they had it in the bag a little too soon.

The Hornets, now 5-1 on the season, got 16 points out of free-wheeling center Ed Herrnberger in the first half, but they could never quite shake the Pirates who almost pulled it out in the final seconds.

KEY PLAY

Trailing by three points with 29 seconds left, Pirate Glenn Pfaff got a crack at a one-in-one situation that could have made it a one-point deficit. He sank the first shot but was loudly whistled down for having his toe on the line, nullifying the shot and giving the ball to Novato, which quickly dumped in a pair of layups for the final margin.

Herrnberger wound up with 19 points, tops for Novato, and got big and late help from Steve McNally with 17. Bob Ament played a superb floor game and chipped in with 11 points.

For the second night in a row, Fred Westcott sank 19 points, nine points coming from the free throw line where the Pirates held a 27-16 edge. Dave Alvarado added 11 points and Jeff Meeker had 10 for Drake.

SECOND STRAIGHT

Redwood, which came into the tournament unbeaten, now is 4-2, after its second straight loss.

An icy-cold final period of just six points did the Giants in this time after they led, 15-11, 29-28, and 41-40, going into the final period.

Bob Nadell of Terra Linda led all scorers with 17 points. The Trojans are now 4-1 on the season.

Jim Peters with 11 points and Roger Smith with 10 topped Redwood.

Promotion Gets Out Of Control

BOSTON (AP) — A promotional gimmick got out of hand last night at the Boston Garden basketball game between the San Francisco Warriors and the Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association.

The Garden management, to promote their "Ball Night" scheduled for Wednesday, had the Harlem Globetrotters throw out several basketballs to youthful fans, and a melee resulted in which several youngsters were hurt.

As the Globetrotters threw the free balls into the stands, youngsters poured down from their seats. One was hit over the eye in the scramble.

NFL ROUNDUP

Incredible Bears One Away

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Chicago Bears, still on their feet in the National Football League championship race despite a staggering siege of injuries, try to hurdle Green Bay's fallen Packers tomorrow in one of two key games on the final go-round of the regular season.

For the first time in four years, the Packers will be running out the string. For the first time in five, the Bears will be running to daylight.

Chicago, 7-6, is tied for the Central Division lead with the Minnesota Vikings, who wind up against Philadelphia tomorrow. But the Bears have beaten the Vikings twice, and a victory over Green Bay will send them into next week's Western Conference title playoff against Baltimore . . . regardless of the Vikings-Eagles outcome.

In tomorrow's other season finales, the Coastal Division champion Colts visit Los Angeles, the Capitol Division winning Dallas Cowboys are at New York, Detroit at Washington, Pittsburgh at New Orleans and San Francisco at Atlanta.

Cleveland's Century Division kings, who'll meet Dallas next week for the Eastern Conference title, closed out their regular scheduled today at St. Louis.

100TH MEETING

The Bears and Packers go into their 100th meeting at opposite ends of the NFL picture. The Bears are up, having won three of their last four starts, including a 17-16 thriller over the Rams last Sunday at Los Angeles. The Packers are down . . . and out.

Green Bay, the NFL champion three years running, winner of the first two Super Bowl showdowns, was knocked out of the Central race last week by Baltimore. The Packers' 5-7-1 record is their worst in 10 years.

The Bears have been able to surmount obstacle after obstacle, including the loss of running back Gale Sayers five weeks ago for the remainder of the season. The Packers have been unable to overcome injuries to key men, including quarterback Bart Starr, plagued by bruised ribs for the last month.

PACKER PRIDE

But Packer pride should make tomorrow's scrap at Chicago a typically bruising encounter between the two NFL pioneers, who first met in 1921. The Bears won this year's first meeting 13-10 on Mac Percival's free kick field goal in the final minute for a 54-39-6 series edge.

At Philadelphia, the rugged Vikings put their championship hopes on the line against a young Eagle club which lost its first 11 games, then won two in a row to surrender the No. 1 pick in the college draft.

O. J. Simpson, Friends Get Some More Honors

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Southern California's Heisman Trophy-winning halfback O. J. Simpson and quarterback Steve Sogge each walked off with three awards at the annual Trojan awards banquet.

Simpson was named most valuable player at the festivities yesterday, won honors as the most valuable back and received the UCLA game trophy for finest player in USC's 28-16 victory over the crosstown rival Bruins.

Sogge was named the most inspirational player, the most improved player and was also given the Alumni Club Award for the senior with the highest grade point average. In four years, Sogge has maintained a 3.16 average compared to a perfect 4.0.

Others honored:

Bob Klein, end, the John Dye Memorial Award as the outstanding lineman; Kendall Nungesser, quarterback, the Sam Barry Award for the junior varsity player who had done the most for the varsity; and Gerry Shaw, linebacker, the Elmer C. (Gloomy Gus) Henderson Award to the player with the most minutes of action.

Nino Favored In Title Bout

SAN REMO, Italy (AP) — Italy's Nino Benvenuti has emerged the 3-1 favorite to beat wiry Don Fullmer of Utah tonight and retain the world middleweight boxing crown.

The good-looking, brown-haired Benvenuti became the first Italian ever to wear the crown when he outpointed Emile Griffith in New York in April, 1967.

He lost the title to Emile in a rematch the following September, but regained it in New York last March. All three bouts with Griffith went the full 15 rounds. In fact, Benvenuti has never been knocked out in 80 professional bouts.

If Fullmer wins tonight, he will be the 34th American to hold the 160-pound division title and the second member of his family to do it. Brother Gene, now a mink rancher in Utah, held it twice—in 1957 and again from 1959 to 1962.

Betting was mostly in favor of the 30-year-old Italian. And American sportswriters here for the match generally agreed with the 3-1 odds.

Most observers also were betting there would be some action outside the 2,500-seat Ariston Theater tonight. Leftist high school and university students have denounced the event as a "capitalistic feast" and promised to demonstrate against it.

The students seek to swing television cameras their way to call wide attention to what they call San Remo's "poor and unknown elements."

The bout is to be telecast live throughout virtually all of Western Europe, including Italy, and sent to the United States and Canada via telstar.

Meanwhile, organizers drastically slashed ticket prices in hopes of filling the arena. At 50,000 lire ($80) and 25,000 lire ($40) tickets have sold poorly. The match has drawn only a smattering of the jet set San Remo had hoped to attract.

Less than 24 hours before the fight, the $40 tickets were put on sale at 5,000 lire ($8).

POSSIBLE RALLY

Organizers hoped this would calm down the student protestors. But police called in reinforcements from other cities to brace for a possibly rowdy, egg-heaving rally.

The 29-year-old Fullmer and his manager, Angelo Curley, however, were concerned only with what happens inside the theater, and they were not over-confident of a fair shake.

Promoter Rino Tommasi tried to dispel the Fullmer camp's worries about Italian refereeing by praising Piero Brambilla of Milan, tonight's referee, as a man widely known for impartial justice.

But Tommasi told Fullmer that European Boxing Union rules apply here and so the boxers must wear eight-ounce gloves, not the six-ounce variety U.S. fighters are used to.

Curley said he was afraid the referee might hinder Fullmer's close-in boxing style by calling too many "breaks." Tommasi assured Curley that Brambilla would let the fighters alone as much as he could.

Villanova Aiming For No. 2

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Villanova Wildcats are living up to pre-season expectations that they would be the strongest college basketball team in the East.

Coach Jack Kraft's boys from the Philadelphia Main Line made it four in a row by whipping Boston College 78-68 in a battle of unbeaten teams at Newton, Mass. last night.

Now only Catholic University stands between the nationally eighth-ranked Wildcats and an acid test against the second-ranked North Carolina Tar Heels in the first round of Holiday Festival Tournament in New York on Dec. 27.

Howie Porter, a 6-foot-8 sophomore, was the big gun for the Wildcats with 24 points as they knocked Bob Cousy's Eagles out of the unbeaten ranks. Terry Driscoll of BC was high for the game with 25.

A ROMP

The New Mexico Lobos, No. 5 in The Associated Press poll and the only other team in the top 10 to see action, enjoyed a 100-63 home court romp over Occidental.

Michigan State downed Butler 70-60. Washington edged Oklahoma State 46-44 on George Irvine's jumper in the last two seconds. Alabama similarly edged Miami of Florida 85-82 and Montana nipped Washington State 100-96 in other home court triumphs.

Wyoming and Duquesne won on the road. Wyoming beat Utah State 89-72 and the Dukes defeated American U. 86-56.

LATE HEROICS

Jimmy England hit a 25-foot jumper late in the second half to put Tennessee ahead 48-46 and the Vols went on to defeat Oklahoma 55-49 in the first round of the Volunteer Classic at Knoxville. Southern Illinois crushed Texas 58-37 in the other first round game and plays Tennessee in the final tonight.

Kansas came from behind to beat Creighton 78-65 and Kansas State trounced Syracuse 88-68 in the Sunflower doubleheader at Manhattan, Kan.

In the opening of the Cable Car Classic at San Francisco, the San Francisco Dons defeated Brigham Young 79-75 and Santa Clara walloped Houston 75-50.

free throws for a total of 24 points.

American River had little trouble with Yuba, outrunning, outshooting, and outstealing the 49ers from the opening tap.

Napa led most of the way against Reedley, taking a 72-70 lead at 0:17 on a corner shot by husky Bob Smith, but Reedley's Jim Mitchell hit on a twelve-foot jumper to send the game into overtime with four seconds left.

In the overtime period, two baskets and a free throw by Napa's Ken Clark (who tied Reedley's Wayne Aalto for game-and-tournament-scoring honors with 26 points) put the game out of reach, particularly since Mitchell, Reedley's backcourt leader, was tossed out of the game on a flagrant foul call — which was first called a technical (Mitchell pushed someone while both were off the ball) then a flagrant foul, which carries expulsion with it.

RIEMCKE HAPPY

Riemcke was happy with the improvement in his team's play, unhappy with the officiating, but felt that the game might have helped the team jell, as several reserves filled in for injured starters and did well. "With Andre Horn out, I thought Chris Cupples and Paul Leete both did fine jobs, along with Bill Hoge and Pat Schafer. Tom Seidenberg played well, too — as well as can be expected with that cage over his broken nose." Leete and Cupples had 13 and 12 points respectively while Horn sat out the game with a swollen ankle injured against Napa Thursday night. Marin returns to action Wednesday night against Napa in Napa.

WARRIORS TRYING FOR COMEBACK

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The San Francisco Warriors, fresh from a 108-98 win against the Boston Celtics, go against Philadelphia tonight, hopefully on the comeback trail.

The Warriors were in a five-game loss streak before the Boston match, four games back in the Western Division of the National Basketball Association.

The trouble was that center Nate Thurmond was sidelined with a bad thigh. But he got back into play last night, led with 27 points and saved the day.

The Warriors took an early lead and outscored the Celtics by 18 points at the free throw line.

Redwood Frosh Team Remains Unbeaten

Redwood High School of Larkspur's unbeaten freshman basketball team ran its record to 4-0 by downing Terra Linda 39-30 on Thursday and Drake of San Anselmo 40-25 yesterday.

Jim Thorn had 16 points against Terra Linda and 15 against Drake to pace the scoring in both victories.

Rodgers Turns Offensive Star

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pro football teams are well known for their ability to march downfield against the clock in the final two minutes for winning points, but Guy Rodgers has his own National Basketball Association two-minute drill.

Rodgers ran up and down the court, popping in 11 points in the final two minutes last night, and brought Milwaukee from behind to a 101-96 victory over San Diego.

The Bucks' guard, more famous for his playmaking than his scoring, put on his one-man show with host Milwaukee trailing 94-90. He hit three field goals and five free throws.

Oscar Robertson also came on strong in the final minutes, scoring seven of Cincinnati's 18 overtime points for a 130-123 victory over Phoenix in Cleveland.

In other games, San Francisco surprised host Boston 108-98, the visiting New York Knicks whipped cold-shooting Chicago 94-83 and Atlanta nipped Los Angeles 105-103.

In the American Basketball Association, Oakland downed Minnesota 127-122, Denver trounced New Orleans 127-108, Indiana whipped Kentucky 115-107 and New York turned back Houston 112-107.

San Diego led 54-37 before halftime and still held an 89-75 spread in the fourth quarter before Rodgers hit his stride, dropping 18 of his 20 points in the finale. Elvin Hayes had 27 for San Diego.

Cincinnati, playing without Coach Ed Jucker, Jerry Lucas and Don Smith, all out with the flu, needed a 30-foot shot at the buzzer by Tom Van Arsdale to tie 112-all at the end of regulation time. Robertson, finishing with 34 points, took it from there.

The Knicks, using five technical fouls, pulled to a 64-55 lead in the third quarter when the Bulls managed only five of 19 field goals. Chicago never recovered.

Los Angeles 1-2-3 punch of Wilt Chamberlain, Elgin Baylor and Jerry West had with 70 points, but the Lakers couldn't get a basket during a three-minute span late in the final quarter and Don Ohl and Lou Hudson put in nine straight Hawk points to build a 103-96 lead with 1:05 left.

Raiders Will Know What's At Stake Vs. Chargers

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

One thing the Oakland Raiders won't have to worry about when they play San Diego in tomorrow's key American Football League game is the scoreboard.

The Raiders can concentrate totally on the Chargers because Kansas City—Oakland's rival for the AFL's Western Division crown—is in action today. That means the Raiders will know exactly where they stand when they take the field against San Diego.

An Oakland victory can insure the Raiders a share of the Western title no matter how Kansas City makes out against Denver today. Of course, a Bronco upset over the Chiefs would leave the Raiders with a clear shot at the title.

In other AFL games tomorrow, New York, the Eastern Division champion, plays at Miami and Houston hosts Boston.

If the Chiefs and Raiders come out of the weekend action still tied, they'll play off for the AFL's Western crown at Oakland Dec. 22. A week later, the AFL title game will be played in New York with the Jets hosting.

Oakland and Kansas City both take 11-2 marks into the weekend and both could be in for trouble. The Raiders barely escaped against Denver a week ago, winning 33-27, and the Broncos promise to make things every bit as tough for the Chiefs.

"We'd like to wind up the season by winning a big one," said Lou Saban, coach of the youthful and improving Broncos. "We came close against San Diego and Oakland the last two weeks."

Kansas City eliminated San Diego from the Western race with a 40-3 romp last week and the Chargers would like to wipe out some of the embarrassment against Oakland.

The Raiders will still be without Kent McCloughan, the all-league cornerback who has missed six games with a knee ailment. McCloughan thought he might be able to play Sunday but Raiders' officials decided against it rather than risk an aggravation of the injury.

"The mistake made last year in a similar situation with Tom Keating, will not be repeated," a Raider spokesman said. Keating, an all-league tackle, injured an ankle in the AFL title game last year and then compounded the injury in the Super Bowl and All Star games and has been out all season because of it.

Clean-shaven Joe Namath will lead the Jets against Miami with New York hoping to pay a return visit to the Orange Bowl in about a month for the Super Bowl. Namath shaved his Fu Manchu mustache and beard off for a TV commercial last week—becoming the last of the Jets' beards to surrender.

Houston, last year's Eastern champion, aims for a .500 finish against Boston with the Patriots completing another dismal season.

Indians Capture First

Tamalpais High School of Mill Valley won its first basketball game of the year last night, but had to wait until after the game was over to do it. Bill Secor of the Indians was fouled on a shot at the buzzer with the score tied 33-all and put in the first free throw after time had run out to give Tam a 34-33 victory over Terra Nova. In other games, San Rafael High downed Armijo in Fairfield, 62-53 behind a strong rebounding effort and 31 points by Bruce Nave, while Marin Catholic lost in the St. Elizabeth's Tournament in Oakland, falling to Richmond High 80-60.

Tam and Terra Nova played a slow, defensive ballgame in Mill Valley, with the Injuns taking a 21-13 lead at the half, only to have Terra Nova comeback in the second half to tie it up before Secor's free throw iced the verdict. Mal Sibberson and Ronnie Small had eight points apiece to pace Tamalpais.

Nave, a clever 5-8 junior guard, sank an incredible 17 free throws to lead San Rafael's conquest of Armijo, Bulldog coach Mike Diaz' alma mater. Bill Slezar led the backboard assault for San Rafael with 16 rebounds, followed by Roger Thomas' 14 and Bruce D'Ambra's 12. Jim Grant, one of two front-line giants for Armijo, had 19 points to pace the hosts.

Richmond ran off 30 points in the first quarter to put Marin Catholic in a hole. The big gun was Jim Shelon, a 6-4 forward with strength and moves. He poured in 35 points, 30 in the first half alone, to put the game out of MC's reach. Mike Murray had 23 points to lead the Wildcats. MC plays Miramonte at one o'clock for 7th.

The JV action, San Rafael routed Armijo 68-38, led by Al Rossi's 18 rebounds, and Tamalpais beat Terra Nova 48-40.

His Name Is On Honor Plaque

Novato optometrist Steven S. Bates has had his name placed on a memorial plaque in honor of the late O. C. "Cort" Majors, captain of the 1920 University of California "Wonder Team."

The plaque features a reproduction in brass of the picture of the starting Cal football team of 1920. Also attached are brass plates carrying the names of the 1920 squad members and coaches, and the names of all the Cal football captains since 1920.

Bates, a halfback when he played for the Bears, was 1960 co-captain along with Bill Patton.

Ski Tryouts Set

Tryouts for the Yosemite junior ski racing team will be held Dec. 21 and 28, 11 a.m. each day, for any skiers through age 17. The slalom and downhill running tests will be held at Badger Pass.

ABA ROUNDUP

Hawkins-Barry Scrap Fails To Come Off

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The first regular season meeting between Rick Barry and Connie Hawkins will have to wait another day—actually another 15 days.

Hawkins, the American Basketball Association's most valuable player last season, sat it out with a bruised elbow last night as Barry scored 45 points to lead the Oakland Oaks to a 127-122 victory over Minnesota.

Their next meeting is scheduled for Dec. 29 at Minnesota.

Elsewhere, Denver moved past idle Dallas into second place in the Western Division by trouncing New Orleans 127-108, Indiana topped Kentucky 115-107, and New York held off Houston 112-107.

Despite Hawkins' absence, Minnesota led Oakland 117-109 with 6½ minutes left. But the Oaks went on a 12-2 tear to take the lead and were never headed.

Barry, the league's top scorer, poured in 21 of his points in the third period. Chico Vaughn led the Pipers with 32.

Denver's Larry Jones outshone New Orleans' Jimmy Jones as the Rockets routed the Bucs. Larry Jones pumped in 29 points as the Rockets led from the start, at one point by 32. Wayne Hightower put the clamps on Jimmy Jones, who had been averaging 28 points a game, and held him to 17.

Fred Lewis and Mel Daniels scored 23 points apiece and Bob Netolicky added 21 to pace Indiana to its first two-game winning streak of the season. The Pacers led by as many as 20 points but had to withstand a fourth-period Kentucky rally.

Bob Lloyd scored 10 points in the final 4½ minutes to insure New York's triumph over Houston. The Nets broke away from a 92-92 tie with eight straight points, six by Lloyd, who finished with 20. Walt Simon led the Nets with 32 points, the same as Houston's Willie Somerset. Levern Tart added 21 for the Nets.

The game was delayed 20 minutes at the start when three officials, including Pat Denoy, showed up. Denoy was suspended by ABA Commissioner George Mikan on Thursday but said he had not been notified. He finally stepped aside.

Market Busy At Yuletide But Mostly Goes Sideways

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market churned through another week of heavy volume but made little headway except Friday.

It was not unusual. This is the season to be jolly, and on Wall Street merriment at Christmas time is a thing called switching and selling for income tax purposes, which makes for an irregular market pattern. Thus the sizable volume and the virtually stationary market.

Good news was in abundance, and at another time would have been impelling enough to give the list some punch.

The Commerce Department released a survey showing that manufacturers expected increased sales early next year. The auto industry reported that for the first 10 days this month sales jumped about 20 per cent above the figure for the year ago period.

Commerce also reported a rise in retail sales in November, ending a two-month dip. Christmas sales also were reported at a healthy level, according to Dun & Bradstreet.

The Labor Department noted that unemployment last month eased, further evidence that the income tax surcharge which went into effect at mid-year was having little impact in cooling off the economy.

HOLIDAY MUSIC FESTIVAL

The United Methodist Church of Mill Valley, Camino Alto and Sycamore Avenue, will present a festival of Christmas music at tomorrow's 11 a.m. worship service. There will be no sermon, but three choirs, including one composed of handbell ringers composed of church youth including George Landrock of San Rafael (left) and Scott Gallagher of Mill Valley. Directing the service will be Dale Danley, director of music. A highlight will be presentation of "The Little Drummer Boy," featuring the handbell ringers and Artie Huycke on the snare drum. The service is open to the public.

Two 'Davids' Dueling Over 'Involvement'

NEW YORK (AP) — Two "Davids" have squared off in a face-to-face duel over a Goliath-size struggle which is rumbling throughout American churchdom.

Their particular encounter, in print and on the air, offers a close-up scene out of the wider story.

A sampling:

"The church should adhere strictly to its spiritual mission," says Rev. David C. Head, chairman of a specially organized group, the Clergymen's Committee on China.

THE TRADITION

"The historic tradition of the church is to wage peace and justice," contends Rev. David Poling, president of the evangelical, non-denominational monthly, the Christian Herald. This "means involvement in human affairs."

Counters Rev. Head, a Baptist, of Briarcliff Manor, N.Y.: "You create havoc within the church when you encourage people to take a stand on these (controversial political-economic) issues. You divide the church, and this is what's happening today. Individual members are being pitted against one another."

Replies Reverend Poling, a Presbyterian, of Pleasantville, N.Y.: "Christianity has always faced division over moral issues. Slavery in this country divided the United States for a hundred years—divided the churches in half. Whenever the church takes a stand in social affairs, it's going to get kicked and powder burns and cuts. That's the name of the Christian game, whether in the first century or today."

WRITTEN DEBATE

The debate, commenced in written statements, developed into a confrontation between the two on a "World of Religion" discussion over the Columbia Broadcasting System radio network.

Reverend Head contended: "Respect for the clergy has been decimated fantastically within this country. There should be more of an emphasis for zealously proclaiming the good news of how man can be liberated actually from the bondage of sin and discover true peace and happiness by faith in Christ, Jesus." The church should get "back upon the spiritual road."

Declared Reverend Poling: "The church can't back away from social issues. The church should stick its neck out. It should talk about peace in this military society of ours and take its stand."

Replied Reverend Head: "Unfortunately, this is exactly what the Communists talk about all the time—peace—it's their favorite word."

So it goes, an argument that could be duplicated in innumerable religious conversations across the country. It usually builds up to charges of pro-Communist influences in the churches, with counterblasts of smear and falsehood.

TRADITIONAL FEAST OF LIGHTS

Hanukah, traditionally known as the Feast of Lights, will begin at sundown tomorrow, continuing through next Sunday. For Walter Hotzner of Terra Linda this year's Hanukah season has special meaning since he has just returned from a lengthy stay at Marin General Hospital, recovering from a heart attack. Holding the Hotzner's silver Menorah is daughter Judy while his other daughter, Terri, looks on. Both of Marin's Jewish congregations, Kol Shofar, of which Hotzner is a founder, and Rodef Sholom will have at least one special service during the eight-day feast which is primarily centered in individual members' homes. Hanukah is the annual celebration of the Meccabees' victory over the Greek-Syrian government more than 2,000 years ago. (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean)

Contemporary Service Set At Faith Lutheran Church

Faith Lutheran Church, 355 Los Ranchitos Road, Terra Linda, will present another in a series of contemporary worship services at 9:15 and 11 a.m. tomorrow.

Replacing the traditional sermon will be a reading of "The Man," taken from Ray Bradbury's recent book, "The Illustrated Man."

The story has been adapted for use by Edmond Deam of Novato, a member of the church.

Following the 9:15 a.m. service an adult discussion group will meet at 10 a.m. to examine member response to the use of science-fiction as a means of communication the Christian message.

The 11 a.m. service which makes use of the traditional Lutheran liturgy, will also feature Deam's talk.

Also tomorrow the church will hold its annual church school program, beginning at 6 p.m. under direction of Mrs. David Rixon of Terra Linda.

Choir To Give Holiday Cantata

John Peterson's Christmas cantata, "A Song Unending" will be presented at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow by the choir of the First Baptist Church of San Anselmo.

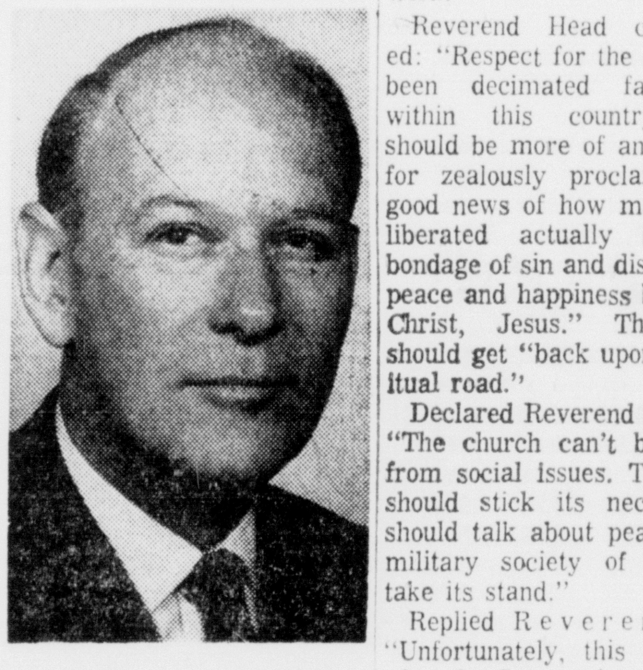
Directed by Elizabeth Roesch, the church's choirmistress, the choir will be accompanied by Mrs Scott Wan at the organ and Mrs. Gordon Chan at the piano.

Soloists will be Donna Galli, soprano; Mrs. Gerald Overzet, mezzo-soprano; Robert Shawhan, tenor, and an alto duet composed of Mrs. Ralph Fortune and Mrs. Edgar Stump.

Churchmen Oppose Drug Law Changes

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UPI)—About 80 per ent of persons responding to a poll conducted by the Assemblies of God were opposed to relaxation of present laws concerning marijuana and similar drugs.

Some 18,000 respondents out of the 22,000 questioned said "no" to any relaxation of the laws.



PULPIT GUEST — Dr. Arnold B. Come, president of San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, will be guest preacher at tomorrow's 9 and 11 a.m. services at the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo. Dr. Come's sermon topic is "Jesus: Prince of Law and Order."

Original Play Tomorrow At Church

"Family Adoration," an original Christmas pageant will be presented at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow by the church school department of the Bethel Baptist Church, 1929 Novato Boulevard.

The play was written by Mrs. Donald Gorney. Mrs. William Olsen will direct. The play centers on a family worship hour on Christmas Eve and features slides depicting various events during the life of Christ.

Mrs. Edwin Grundstrom will play the mother; William Olsen, the father; Kanani Jones and Dennis Blevins, the children. Lorna Smith will act the part of Mary and Robert Beattie will be Joseph. Michael Pater and Danny Hobbs will be shepherds.

There will be carol singing and placing gifts at the manger with the gifts will go to the Scandinavian Seamen's Mission in San Francisco.

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Roman Catholics of the Archdiocese of St. Paul-Minneapolis have been given pevmission to join the local YMCAs and YWCAs.

St. Louis Archbishop Building Jewish Bridge

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—The Most Rev. John Carberry has been Catholic Archbishop of St. Louis for less than a year, but his reputation for harmonius relations with Jews has followed him to his latest assignment.

Archbishop Carberry, who promoted creation of the Church's Secretariat on Catholic-Jewish relations, was guest of honor at a recent dinner sponsored by the St. Louis Jewish Federation and the B'nai B'rith Anti-Defamation League.

When Archbishop Carberry was Bishop of Columbus, Ohio, before his appointment in St. Louis, he was named chairman of the Committee on Ecumenical and Interreligious Affairs of the American Catholic hierarchy.

The committee recommended founding of the Secretariat on Catholic-Jewish Relations, which this year published guidelines for Catholics in the relations with Jews.

The purpose of the guidelines is "to serve notice that injustices directed against the Jewish people at any time from any source can never receive Catholic sanction or support."

Bishop Carberry was the first Catholic bishop in Columbus to speak from the pulpit of one of the city's Jewish synagogues. In May 1967, priests of the Catholic Diocese of Columbus took part in a service at Congregation Tifereth Israel to show concern for Israel in the Middle East crisis.

A pastoral letter distributed by Bishop Carberry to his Columbus priests said: "The roots of anti-Semitism are deep and dark. Therefore, it is vital that all people become informed of the truth about this sin against Christ."

The speaker at the St. Louis dinner honoring Archbishop Carberry was Dr. Joseph Lichten, director of Intercultural Affairs of the Anti-Defamation League.Lichten met Bishop Carberry when both were in Rome for the Second Vatican Council.

Covenant Church Sets Holiday Event

Highlight of the Christmas season at the Marin Convent Church, which holds services at the Marinwood Community Center, will be its first annual Scandinavian Christmas Festival.

The festival will be held at 5:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 22. Activities will include a smorgasbord dinner, Christmas carol singing and a brief focus on Christmas by Rev. Gary R. Copeland, pastor.

Special guests will be Pro Madrigale Musica singers of Marin, who will present special holiday music.

During this month the church is holding worship services on Sundays at 9:30 a.m. nnd church school at 10:45 a.m.

Conscience Payment

HIGH WYCOMBE, England (UPI) — Rev. Eric Hague received a one-pound ($2.40) note and a letter from a man who wanted to clear his conscience. The man explained the pound was repayment for 10 pence he stole from the church 37 years ago.

Priest Updating Role On Campus

NEW YORK (UPI)—Father Joseph McNamara, OMI, assistant chaplain of Manhattan College, has very definite ideas on a priest's role at a college. The result: Midnight Mass on campus, confessons in dormitories, and daily masses in campus buildings.

STUDENTS' NEED HEEDED

Collegian Lends Helping Hand To Terra Linda High Teen-agers

A tutoring program for high school students has been initiated by a College of Marin sophomore who had heard youths say they needed help.

Mario Castaneda, South American-born student attending the college on a work-study program, said he has been talking with Terra Linda teens since he came to Marin three years ago.

"Some of them had problems. Every now and then, someone needed help," said Castaneda, a physics major who plans to transfer to the University of California at Davis next summer.

Castaneda lived with several Terra Linda families before he became a part-time Terra Linda fireman and moved to the station. His discussions with teens have continued at the fire station with high school student volunteers.

Convinced of the need for a tutoring project, Castaneda named the program Ayuda, the Spanish word for help, and began seeking cooperation.

He talked to College of Marin officials for tutoring support and to Terra Linda officials for students. An item in last week's Terra Linda school paper produced about 10 students, he said.

Support also came from Fire Chief George Walser, who agreed to let students use a room at the fire station and from the recreation department which approved use of recreation center rooms.

"I think it will be good — to get to them before they get into trouble," said Walser enthusiastically.

A fellow part-time fireman, Brian Waterbury of Terra Linda, volunteered his services for public relations.

Waterbury, a student at San Mateo Junior College, said he is interested because he needed a tutor in high school but couldn't afford it.

Secretary-treasurer of the new group is Irene Williams, a senior at Terra Linda High School, who will coordinate the students' end of the project.

Castaneda said he believes the service is a vital necessity. "Some people just get left behind," he said.

He added he has noted that, when students who are having problems reach mid-teens, they are tempted to quit studying and get a job.

The tutoring service will not only help them with their school work, but put them in contact with people who like to learn, he said.

"It may provide them with motivation," he said.

Castaneda plans to begin the project in time for help with semester finals and then continue with a regular program next semester.

Eventually, he said, students from other colleges, such as Sonoma State, which has a similar program, will join local tutors to offer the service to all students in the county.

Students who would like to take advantage of the service may contact Castaneda at the Terra Linda firehouse, 650 Del Ganado Road, Terra Linda.

Violence Blamed In Pullout Of Clinic At Marin City

Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, Marin County health officer, said yesterday that a family planning clinic was pulled out of Marin City because of four acts of violence against women attending the clinic.

"When I found out that a woman leaving the clinic had had her purse grabbed and had been hospitalized with a broken nose, I felt we could no longer take the responsibility for the safety of people attending the clinic," Dr. Albrecht said.

The clinic, which was held in St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church once a month on Tuesday nights, has been switched to the health department office in San Rafael, Dr. Albrecht said.

She reported that personnel of the clinic had asked the sheriff's office for more protection but were told that deputies were already "doing all they could."

Not only were four women accosted outside on the clinic, Dr. Albrecht said, but on two occasions automobiles of clinic volunteers were broken into.

Only about 20 per cent of the people using the clinic were Marin City residents, Dr. Albrecht said.

Lolli To Speak

Andrew R. Lolli, director of the state General Services Department, will be the featured speaker at the annual meeting of the Marin Property Owners Association at noon Jan. 23 at Dominic's Restaurant, San Rafael, according to president Robert A. Roumiguiere.

Some Ideas For Gifts To Boaters

For the man or family with a boat, there is a seemingly endless array of Christmas gift ideas that can be put to good use on the water.

Depending on your budget, you can get him, or them, anything from an outboard motor to a ship's bell. A visit to your local marina, boat dealer or sporting goods store will give you a fair idea of what's available.

SMALL OUTBOARD motors from one to three horsepower are offered by all motor companies these days, and all depend on aluminum as a key ingredient for lightweight dependability.

For the skipper who likes to entertain, you may want to consider hand-forged aluminum sandwich and cocktail trays, pitchers and ashtrays. They won't rust nor will they break down from accidental crashing to the deck.

Insulated non-tarnishing aluminum hot and cold mugs and cups are other appropriate gifts. They're also unbreakable and easy to keep clean.

MODERN TECHNOLOGY has developed a special extremely lightweight aluminized space blanket guaranteed to keep the boatman warm, yet folds up to fit in a trouser or jacket pocket — easy for stowing aboard.

The new aluminum boat hooks that extend from less than three feet to eight feet make useful gifts.

A Timely Gift For The Child

This Christmas why not delight your youngster with a unique educational and decorative gift, one he's sure to make use of every day throughout the year?

A whimsically designed clock can be the perfect present for the juvenile set.

For the young child who has just conquered the mystery of time, a clock of his own will encourage the mastery of a new skill. A colorful timepiece with easy to read lettering and an amusing motif becomes an attractive wall accessory to enhance his room and make him proud of his ability to tell time.

Original St. Nick Lived In Asia Minor

The original St. Nicholas lived in Asia Minor during the Fourth Century, and was the patron saint of maidens, children, merchants and sailors, according to Encyclopedia Americana.

Our present-day Santa Claus comes by way of Holland, where he was known as Sant Nikolaas, traveled on a gray horse, and left presents in children's shoes on Christmas Eve.

A Setback For Yule Tradition

To the dismay of many traditionalists, more and more families are going for store-bought permanent or artificial Christmas trees.

There are several reasons for the trend:

FIRST, THE so-called permanent trees can be reused year after year if given reasonable care.

Second, they offer the advantage of greater uniformity in shape.

And, last but by no means least, they provide a greater margin of safety against fire.

The run on aluminum Christmas trees has been heightened by the added variety in color, sizes and styles.

MANUFACTURERS are offering trees in gold, green, blue and red in addition to the natural silvery color. Sizes begin with table-top models and range up to seven feet in height. Styles vary from the basic tree to those where the branches end in a flower-like tassel.

Setting up an aluminum tree is not difficult.

A center pole is set into the stand and tightened. Then the branches are put into the factory-drilled holes. It's best to work from top to bottom. A seven-foot tree can be assembled in about an hour.

A WORD about decorating the tree — it's best not to put electric lights directly on a tree, aluminum or otherwise.

Let Christmas Spirit Show Outside Home

Christmas is a season of sharing. It's a time to share with family, friends, strangers.

Why not also let the warm indoor cheer of your Christmas reflect in your outdoor decorations? Wish all who pass your home a gay "Season's Greetings."

Here are some tips for creating ingenious and joyous effects:

1. Begin with a plan.
2. Keep the plan simple, accenting and decorating a single feature — a tree, chimney, or door.
3. If you want to be more elaborate combine several of these features into an eye-appealing over-all scheme.
4. Use your imagination to camouflage floodlights. Pine boughs, tiny figures, or "snow" banked behind the lights hide them well.
5. Don't overdecorate with lights strung haphazardly from tree to tree, or gate to tree.
6. For lop-sided trees run the lights from the top, to pegs in the ground, teepee-fashion, for a more symmetrical effect.

Some Hints On Planning Festivities

Preparations for Christmas — including gift-giving, decorating and making a big family meal — can often be a problem, even for the most efficient hostess.

Here are some hints which can make the holidays easier and more enjoyable:

Store Christmas candles in the refrigerator for 24 hours before using. They won't drip and will burn more evenly.

HOLIDAY FRUIT cakes will keep indefinitely if they're properly wrapped and stored. A touch of orange juice sprinkled over the cake occasionally keeps it from drying out and adds extra flavor.

Remove cranberry spills from the tablecloth by immediately rubbing with an ice cube and then wash it.

Pine cones will gleam brightly if you place them on a piece of aluminum foil and put them in the oven at a very low temperature for a short while.

Popcorn that is being used to trim the tree should stand in the air for a while so it loses its crispness and won't break during stringing.

ADD COLOR TO homemade candles by melting crayons with the paraffin.

Use bonbons and cream cheese to make decorative roses for holiday eating. Thin cheese slightly with milk and add coloring. Take the tip of a teaspoon and arrange the cheese petals on the candy, smoothing from the top down.

Anyone who grows herbs can make an unusual gift by wrapping small amounts of dried herbs in cheese cloth squares. Each square should provide enough seasoning for one use — like a pot of soup or some salad dressing.

Correct Way To Trim Tree

There is a "correct" way to trim the tree if your eager and impatient children will allow it.

First inspect the lights for frayed cords, exposed wires, and broken sockets. Check all the bulbs. Then begin with the lights at the top working down and around placing them on the boughs nearest trunk first and working outward to the tips of the branches.

After all the lights are in place, hang the other decorations.

A Cookie Hunt

When old friends drop by, you can keep their children happily occupied with a Christmas cookie hunt. Just before they arrive, write each child's name in frosting on a home-made cookie — perhaps angels for girls and Santas for boys. Hide them among the ornaments on your tree and let each child search for his or her own cookie.

A Different Kind Of Folk Dance

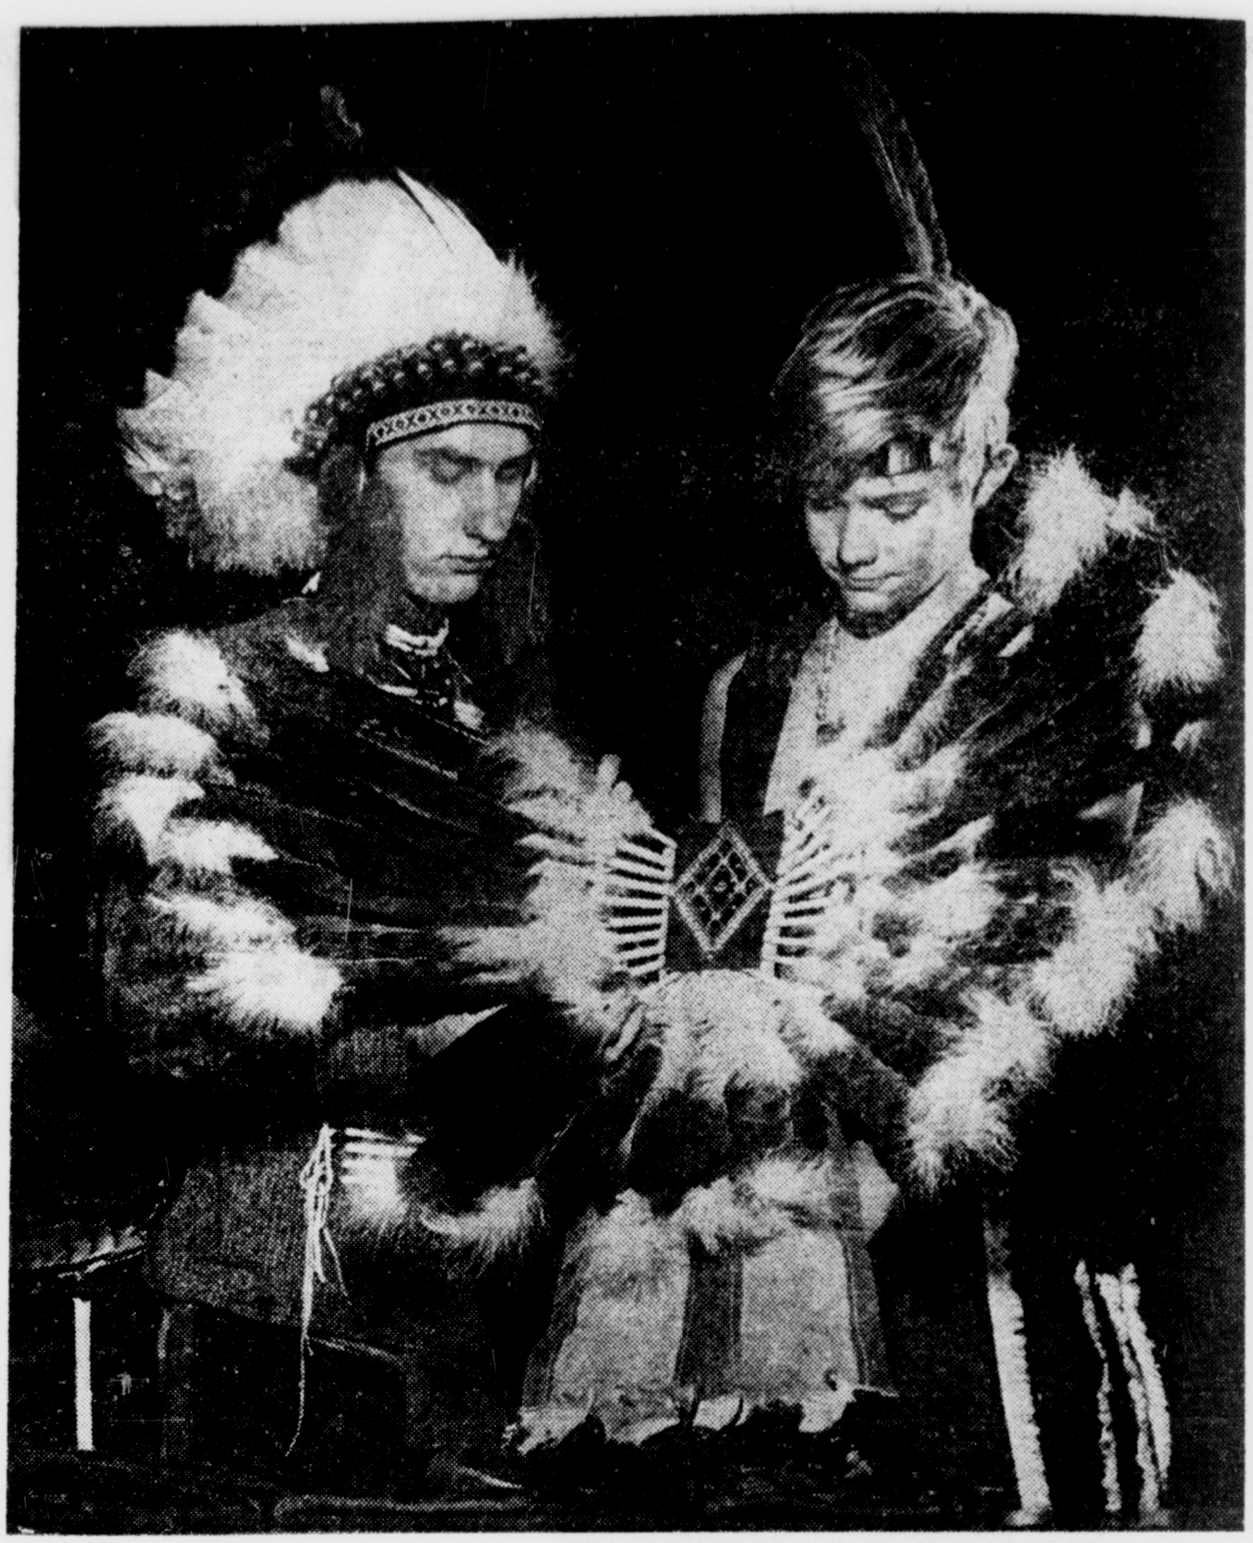
By DON KEOWN



BERNE HOLMAN, left, one of the older members of the Talako Lodge Indian Dance Team of the Marin Boy Scout Council's Order of the Arrow, helps Dave White with the finishing touches to a feathered bustle that goes on the back of the Sioux costume.

At least once a month, a score of Marin youths, ages 12 to 19, go to a dance.

It is by no means the usual "rock" dance popular with today's teen-agers.

For one thing, the only instruments to be heard are drums.

For another, it's an all-male affair. There are no girls present.

YOU MIGHT call it folk dancing. But it is not the kind of folk dancing customarily associated with enthusiasts of ethnic dances. It's a completely, 100 per cent American kind of folk dancing.

The practitioners are the boys who make up the Talako Lodge Indian Dance Team from the Marin Boy Scout Council's honorary Order of the Arrow for outstanding Scouts.

Indian history and lore is a keen interest with the members of the order. And for some 20 of them, the Indian dance is a subject of special serious attention.

THE MARIN Scouts have been studying, mastering and performing the Indian dances since about 1951.

Dave Webb, 17, a Marin Catholic High School senior who is the current leader, says the Marin unit was founded in about 1951 —"I believe by Ted Davis."

Webb joined the group in 1963, making him the senior member of the dance team at present.

THREE OTHER older boys — Berne Holman and Ken and Bob Bode — with Webb make up a leadership nucleus for the group and provide direction for the younger members.

All the boys are first class Scouts or higher. "And all," says Webb, "aspire to become Eagle Scouts."

Indeed, "talako" is a Choctaw Indian word meaning "high eagle."

WEBB SAYS the boys at present have accomplished some 12 dances, and are in the process of adding more to their repertoire. A dance usually lasts from five to 10 minutes.

"They are mostly Sioux dances, or dances from the other Plains Indians," Webb says, "And mostly from the period just before 1900."

By selecting that time period, the boys simplify the problem of outfitting themselves in authentic Indian costumes.

BY THEN, the Plains tribesmen were wearing cloth, rather than leather.

The Scouts make their own costumes including the footgear, some with a bit of sewing assistance from their mothers. Their handiwork includes such skills as dyeing feathers and stringing bones. Webb is especially adept at beadwork.

Webb says the dances are worked out by the youths after extensive research that is made more difficult by the scarcity of resource materials.

"WE ARE always on the lookout for old books or photographs about the Plains Indians," he says.

From those few materials they do discover, they learn not only the dance movements and their meaning, but also the correct costumes.

The costumes, representing Sioux and Crow garb of the 1890-1900 period, are colorful, featuring various colored shirts, with fancy beadwork, dark blue leggings, some headdresses and roaches (hair decorations), and mocassins.

FOR THE accompaniment, the Scouts make their own drums. They also make the tomahawks, lances, pipe bags, rattles and fans they carry in the dances.

Of the dances, Webb says: "Some were for entertainment, some were for religious purposes. We avoid doing the religious dances out of respect for the Indians.

"After all, we wouldn't like to see people imitating a Catholic mass, a Jewish service or a Protestant rite. And the dances have that same sacred meaning to the Indians.

"SO WE concentrate upon the recreational-type dances."

The dances generally, he adds, bear little resemblance to the prancing, foot stomping, warwhooping spectacles seen in the movies and on television.

"Most of the dances of the period were fairly simple, describing the affairs of everyday life," Webb says. "They were more contained, slower, less wild, than the old war dances."

WEBB SAYS the Talako Lodge team holds once a month practice sessions in the San Rafael Boy Scout Hall and also tries to perform at least once a month.

Generally those performances are before Cub Scouts, Girl Scout or Campfire Girl units, but the boys also take part in the annual Scout-o-Rama, in parades and in such special events as the Sonoma Vintage Festival.

There is an annual competition in the late spring with the Indian dance teams from the Order of the Arrow in other Boy Scout councils of the Bay Area.

WEBB SAYS: "We would like to perform before some real Sioux Indian dancers sometime, so that we could have some ex-

"Should I Use Nail Polish Remover On A Fabric Spot?"

If you have spilled nail polish on a fabric, be especially careful not to use nail polish remover on it. The reason is this. Many nail polish removers, used in the home, are made of acetone or ethyl acetate, sometimes mixed with oil. The big danger is that the fabric on which the nail polish has been spilled may be a synthetic which will be damaged by acetone or ethyl acetate.

Modern synthetic fabrics are so difficult to determine, appearing like natural fibers, that you cannot trust yourself to tell them apart. If you should use nail polish remover on the wrong synthetic fabric, the damage cannot be repaired.

However, nail polish can be removed swiftly and easily by your professional drycleaner. Do not attempt to remove the polish yourself. It might work once. It might never work. Why take a chance?

By Robert and Ronald Cassasa, Marin Cleaners, Inc.

Gets to a Major Cause of Hemorrhoids
Now! Most complete 3-way relief!

Important development: unlike every other hemorrhoid product, Counternoid™ works in 3 ways:
1. Lessens pain fast.
2. Coats, soothes and protects injured tissue.
3. Gets to a major cause of hemorrhoids: painful hard constipation.

In hospital X-ray tests, doctors have demonstrated that the exclusive Counternoid formulation with DSS30™ penetrates in minutes to the top of the rectal area to soften the stool and ease the bowel movement, to make natural healing possible.
Remember: Counternoid. For temporary relief of minor hemorrhoid troubles. The most complete 3-way relief you can get without a prescription or without surgery. At all drug counters.

pert criticism." But the opportunity has not yet presented itself.

A big help to the dancers has been their adviser, Col. Mel Jarvis of Hamilton Air Force Base, with an interest in and knowledge of Indian subjects. Before him, another Hamilton officer, Capt. Hal Blakeney, served as adviser.

Soon Webb, who plans to attend Humboldt State College to major in wildlife management, will be leaving the dance team, as will the other older boys.

BUT SOME of the young members now under them will move up to take their places.

And new, yet younger boys will be taken in to fill up the ranks. A "recruiting" drive now under way will up the membership to 35, and interested Scouts are asked to contact the Marin Council office.

Of the Indian dancing, Webb says: "It can be hard work. But it can also be a lot of fun. One of our practice sessions may run for a couple of hours, but we have breaks for games and relaxation."

BUT ALWAYS, he stresses, in learning the dances, the boys strive for authenticity.

They think they owe that to the first Americans whose traditions and heritages have already been too much abused and distorted by the white man.

A BUFFALO DANCE of the Sioux is under way. The Talako Lodge musicians are, foreground, Dave Webb, left, and Steve Crotty, beating drums made by the Scouts themselves. Dancers in background are Bob Bode, Larry French and Bruce Fremd. Teepee in rear was also made by the Scouts and is used on camping trips.

REHEARSING before the unfinished set being built under the direction of Chuck Hoeppner, artist and designer, for next weekend's "The Nutcracker" performances by the Marin Civic Ballet, Becky Jones as the Sugar Plum Fairy welcomes Carol Brannan to her fantasy palace of pink and lavender candies. The holiday story will come to life next Saturday and Sunday in the Fine Arts Building at College of Marin in Kentfield. (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean)

Chuck Hoeppner's Sets And Drawings Reflect Creativity

What similarity is there between the very real and very much alive metropolis of Hong Kong, and a fantasy Snow Forest?

More than one might at first suspect, says Chuck Hoeppner, Marin artist and designer. For both have a magical quality that stimulates the creative juices and challenges the artist.

Hoeppner has met the challenges — from both.

He is at present putting the finishing touches upon the sets that will turn the stage of the College Theater in the Fine Arts Building, College of Marin, Kentfield, into a Snow Forest and a Sugar Plum Palace for next weekend's traditional holiday season performances of "The Nutcracker" by the Marin Civic Ballet.

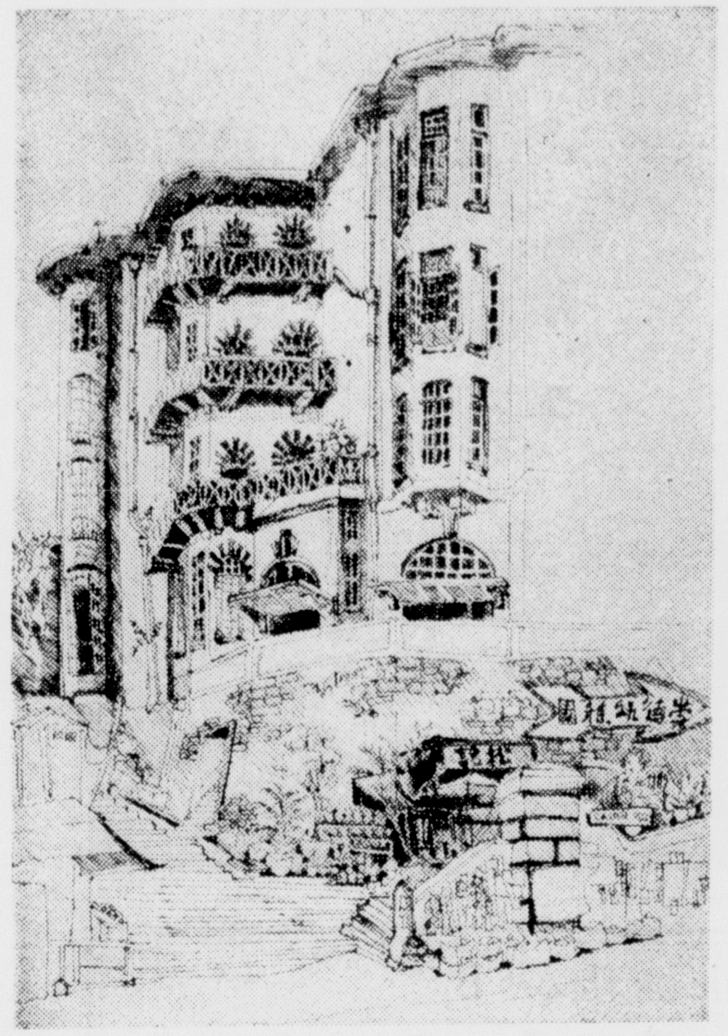
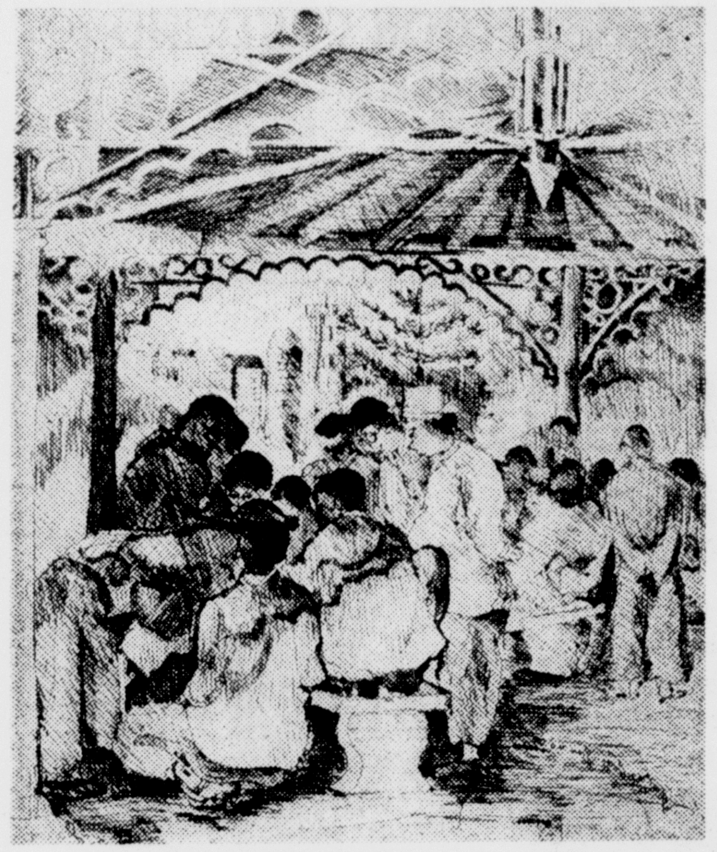
From Teeming Hong Kong To A Sugar Plum Palace





LEONA NORMAN, director of Marin Civic Ballet and its "The Nutcracker," gives her approval to Chuck Hoeppner's set design plans for the 10th annual production of the holiday show. Drawings bordering these pages are sketches of Hong Kong, also the work of Chuck Hoeppner.

2:30 and 8 p.m. and Sunday at 2:30 p.m. will find themselves reminded of the Hoeppner designer touch that contributed so much to the success of the 1964 — "In the Medieval Manor" — and 1965—"Summertime, 1900" —Marin Art and Garden Fairs in the Marin Art and Garden Center, Ross.

Where has Hoeppner been since 1965?

For a good part of that time, he has been living in Hong Kong, designing artificial flowers for Rico Ltd., a subsidiary of Revlon.

AND WHILE in Hong Kong, Hoeppner did 150 pen and ink sketches of Hong Kong scenes.

"On the days I sketched," he says, "I would go out into the streets from 6 a.m. and work until 7 p.m."

His effort was to capture in the most delicate detail the extremes in life of Hong Kong, from the bustling markets to the tranquil architectural gems.

IT IS THIS same feeling for exquisite detail, says Leona Norman, director for Marin Civic Ballet, that has shone through in Hoeppner's imaginative work on "The Nutcracker" sets.

It also caught the eye of a passer-by who stopped one day in Hong Kong to admire his work. It developed that he was a publisher. And he asked permission to publish the sketches.

Thus Chuck Hoeppner's 150 drawings of Hong Kong and its life will be published this spring in Europe by Surasia.

BYRON BRACK, who did the pictures for Life magazine's Egyptian series, is handling the layout and design of the book. And after publication, the original sketches will go to the Hong Kong Museum which has purchased them for display there.

Hoeppner remembers with a smile the attention his southpaw approach to his work attracted in Hong Kong.

"It seems," he says, "that there are no left-handed Chinese. Since I am left-handed, everytime I worked, I drew a crowd of Chinese who stood around me exclaiming 'jaw sow' meaning 'left-handed.' I was very much an oddity."

HOEPPNER USED a pen normally utilized for mechanical drawing. When it ran dry, he would lift it into the air, shake it, and proceed to sketch again. This, too, caused amazement among the onlooking Hong Kong citizenry.

Chuck Hoeppner was born and reared on an Indiana farm. From his early years he cherished an ambition to be a sculptor. The schools offered, not art classes, but horticulture. Even at Purdue University the curriculum featured plants instead of paintings. So for three years at Purdue Hoeppner studied horticulture and worked part-time in a florist shop doing design work.

In 1953 he volunteered for service during the Korean conflict. Discharged after 18 months, he returned to Purdue to finish his education. But soon thereafter he contracted tuberculosis, and two years of hospitalization followed.

IT WAS, Hoeppner says, during those two years that he gave some serious thought to life and its opportunities.

His decision: "Life is too short not to spend it in the field you really care about, trying to do what you really want to do."

After another year of recuperation at home, he enrolled in a school of art at Coronado near San Diego. The school required no prerequisites, so Hoeppner plunged into the basic art classes of life sketching, drawing, art history and oils.

HE BECAME a follower of the school that holds — "You first must know how to draw before you can abstract."

He moved to San Francisco, seeking a better art school after a year at Coronado, and settled in Mill Valley.

From 1959 to 1965 he worked as a decorator for the nationally known San Francisco florists, Podesta Baldocchi. In his free time he designed sets for Marian Hayes Cain's Magic Circle productions, and for earlier performances of "The Nutcracker" by Marin Civic Ballet.

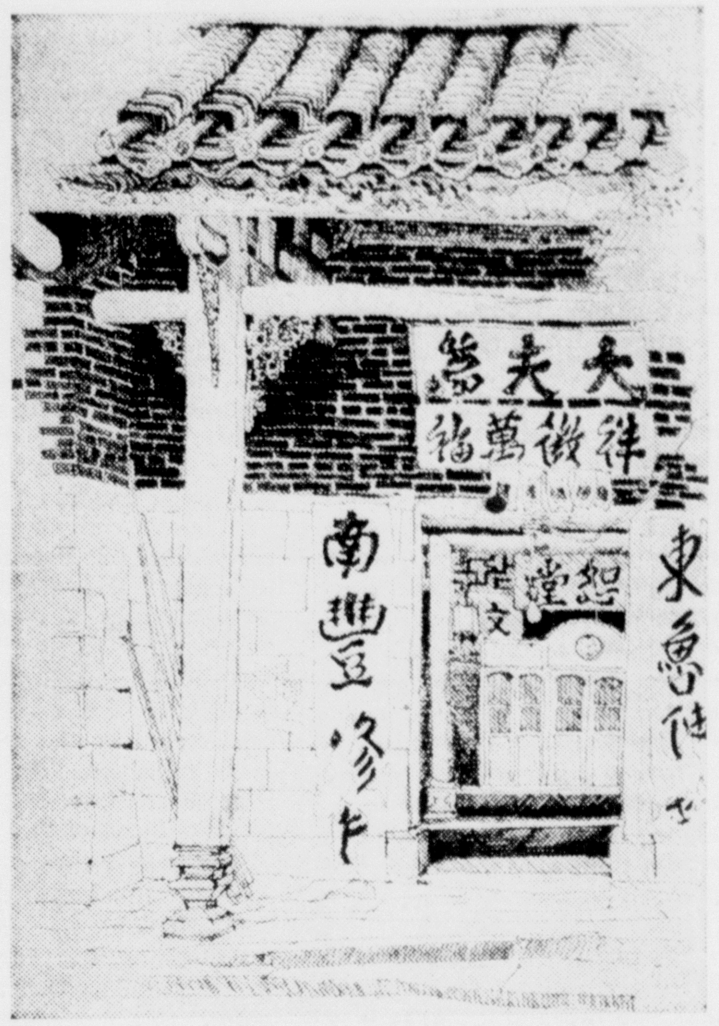
AND HE sketched, painted and did sculpturing in wood, rock and clay.

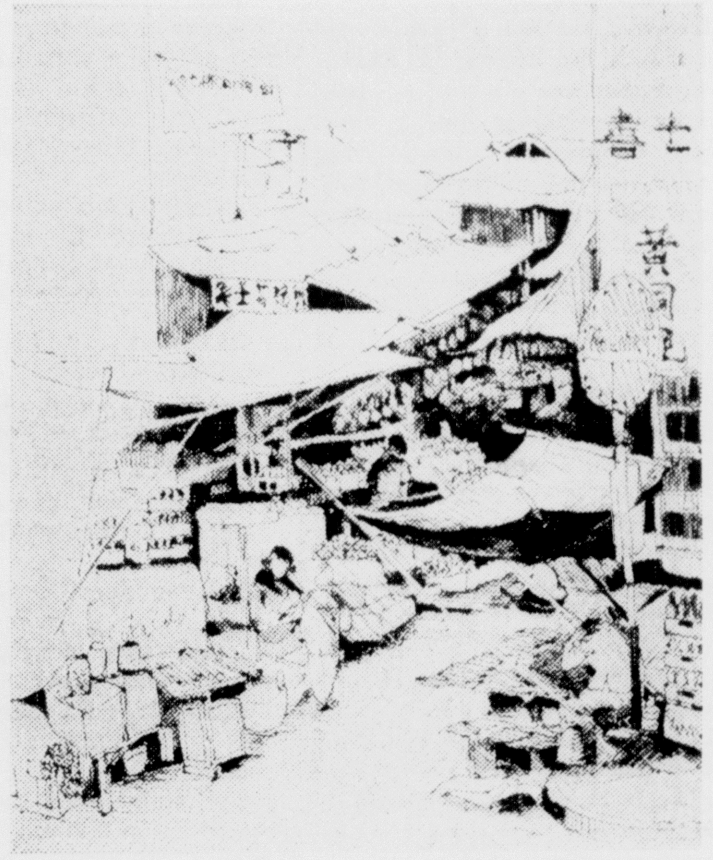
After his years in Hong Kong, Hoeppner says he would like to devote more of his time in the future to his first love, sculpture.

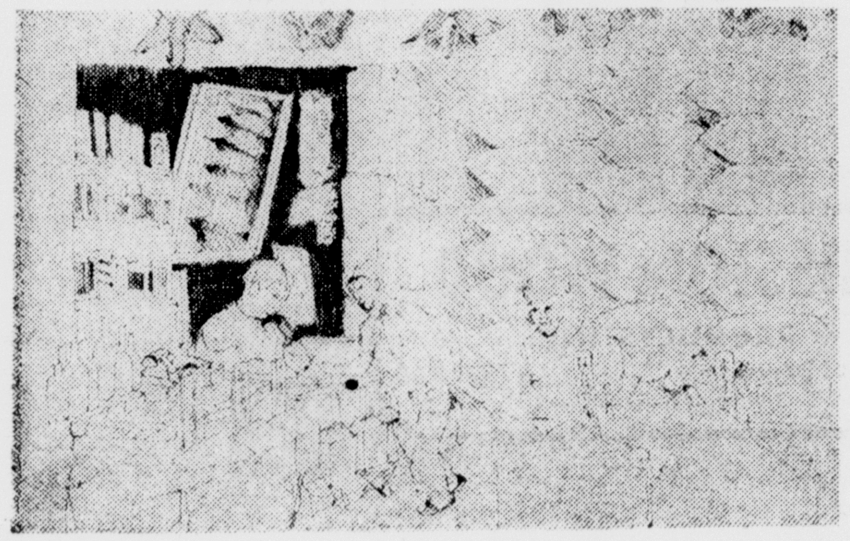
And after the publication of his book of Hong Kong sketches in the spring, he may head for New Guinea and Japan to do more sketches of the Orient for the same publisher.

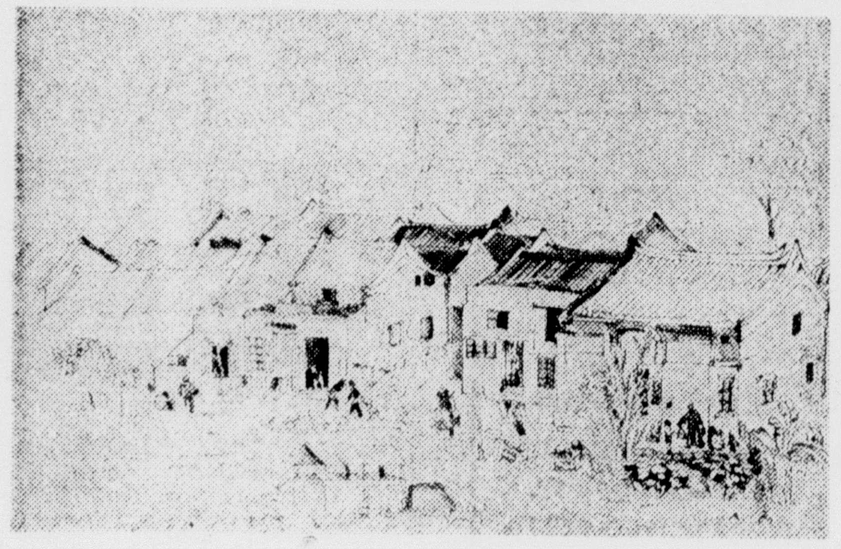
BUT RIGHT now, his attention is focussed, not upon recapturing a New Guinea jungle scene or a Japanese tea garden, but upon creating a Snow Forest through which the Sugar Plum Fairy, the Snow Queen and other storybook characters will glide next weekend.

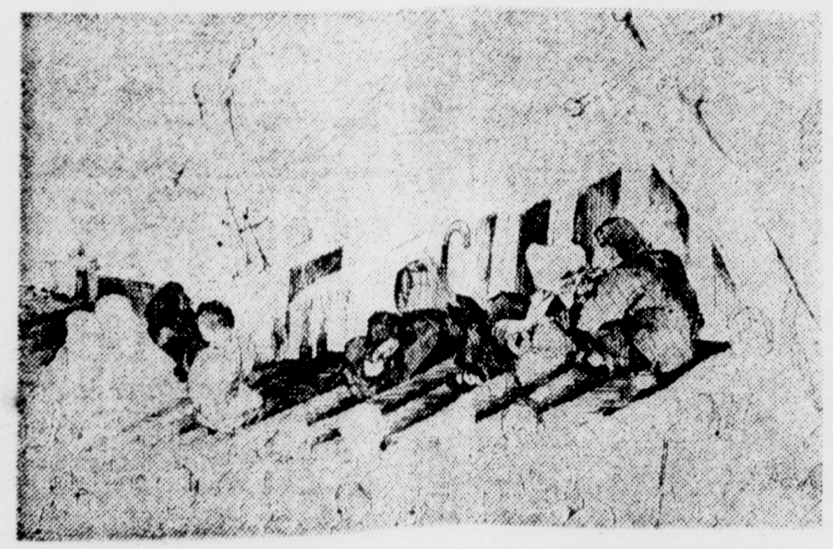
Into that task are going some 5,000 pieces of felt and sequins he has woven onto nylon netting, the twinkling lights of specially-designed chandeliers, a huge Christmas tree and all the other imaginative steps that Chuck Hoeppner has devised with the same skill and sensitivity he exercised in transferring to paper the scenes of teeming Hong Kong.

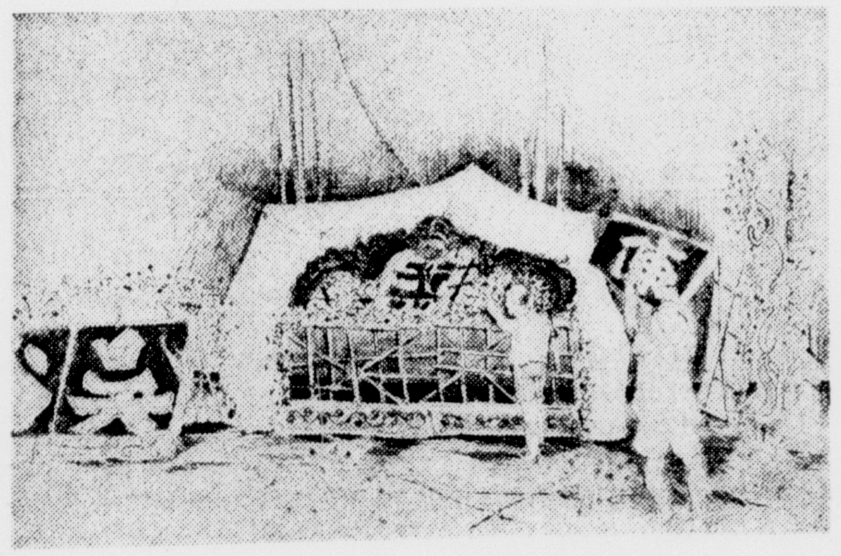


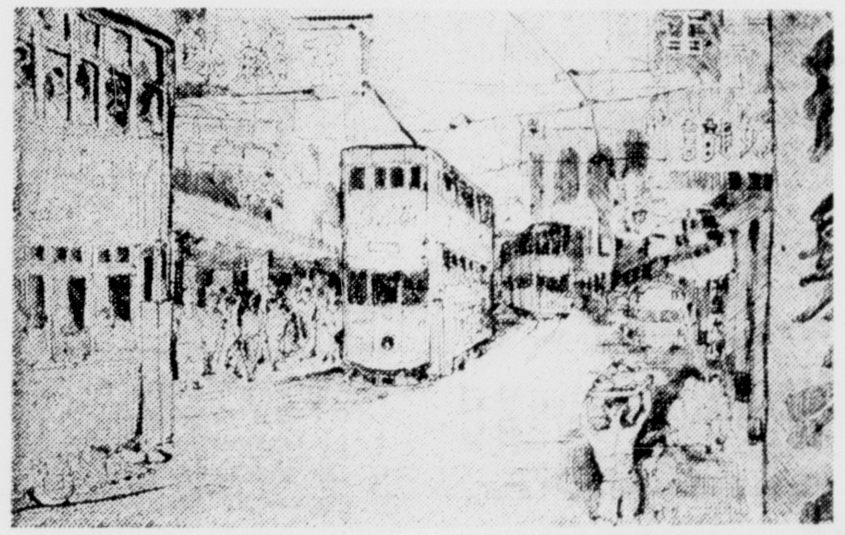












STEREO HI-FI

By C. J. Catania
Audio Engineer

If you are looking for a stereo system for the home with the big full range sound of a component type, but you do not have much space to devote to components, the COMPACT is the answer. The stereo COMPACT is a new breed of music systems that provide big sound in a small package.

When choosing a COMPACT such as the new Harmon Kardon SC 2550, you are getting the very latest stereo for the home that has everything. The SC 2550 music center is not much larger than the Garrard record changer which comprises the top of the unit. The highly styled walnut table top cabinet houses a sensitive FM Stereo tuner, a complete pre-amp control center, a powerful 50 watt music power stereo amplifier, a Garrard record changer with a magnetic cartridge and diamond stylus, and a cassette cartridge tape recorder and player. Yes, even a tape recorder is included in this very compact unit. The two speaker systems are separate and may be placed at convenient locations in the room. The entire music system consists of three matched pieces in walnut.

The speaker systems of the SC 2550 are radically new. They look like two end tables so they can be placed in the room easily. However, the sound completely surrounds the listener no matter where they are placed. They are of omnidirectional design; thus they diffuse and scatter the sound over the entire room. You hear 360 degrees of sound. Because of this unique design you can place these speakers almost anywhere in the room, even behind chairs or curtains.

This COMPACT will produce more music in more ways than other compacts available. It will play monaural or stereo records. It will receive standard and FM stereo broadcasts. It will record and play back from the stereo phonograph.

The new cassette tape recorder is very simple to use. Just snap in a cartridge, push a button and you are ready to record or play back. The tape cartridge is no longer than a pack of cigarettes and half as thin.

The control console has all the adjustments necessary for true High-Fi listening; bass, treble, balance, volume, loudness, speaker selector and others. For an experience in stereo listening, visit our showrooms and hear the COMPACTS by Harmon Kardon.

New Nonesuch releases of the classics:

"THE TRIUMPH OF MAXIMILIAN I" — Music of the 15th and 16th centuries by Isaac, Hofhaimer and Senfl — The London Ambrosian Singers/John McCarthy, director/The Vienna Renaissance Players — Nonesuch HB-73016:

Emperor Maximilian I (1459-1519) is considered the creator of the Hapsburg Empire that dominated Europe in the 16th Century.

An avid patron of the arts, he was determined to match the splendor of the courts of France, Milan and Florence with musical spectaculars in Vienna and Innsbruck. He hired some of the finest composers of the period, and this two disc album highlights their sacred and secular works written for the emperor.

Isaac is probably the most famous of the three, and is represented by the most music in the collection. Very attractive is a quarter-hour-long motet in honor of Maximilian.

Senfl was a Swiss composer who began under Maximilian as a choirboy.

Hofhaimer was known as a fine organist as well as a composer.

Most of the works in this set are only a minute or two long, and are more varied than most collections from this period. The little instrumental pieces are gems, often featuring lutes and viols.

Translations of all vocal works are included as well as interesting notes tying the music to the history of the times.

DEBUSSY: "Iberia"; ALBENIZ: "Iberia" — French National Radio Orchestra/Charles Munch — Nonesuch H-71189:

This thrilling disc certainly deserved the French Grand Prix du Disque.

Maestro Munch is at top form in this type of score, and the coupling idea is original. The Debussy score especially rises to heights of poetic mood-painting that a few other versions can match.

The epitome of the Spanish spirit is preserved in these scores. A record not to be missed!

GREGORY JOSEPH WERNER: "The Curious Musical State Opera Orchestra/Paul Angerer —Nonesuch H-71193:

A curious selection of pieces from a series of 12 suites intended to portray the character of each month of the year. Tchaikovsky did the same thing over 100 years later.

Werner was Joseph Haydn's predecessor at the court of Count Esterhazy and some of the programmatic movements such as the thunderstorm and the nightingale remind one of similar efforts by Papa Haydn in "The Seasons." Perhaps this score was his model.

Fine sound.

BACH: "Partitas for Harpsichord Nos. 2 and 6" — Albert Fuller, harpsichord — Nonesuch H-71176:

This is a welcome start on a three-disc set of the six complete partitas, since most recordings now available feature piano. Only Kirkpatrick's set uses harpsichord, for which the music was probably written, and his performances are more pedantic and scholarly than Fuller's.

Sound is excellent and the low price means that the complete set will be easy on the pocketbook.

"FLOWER DANCE" — Japanese Folk Melodies — The Noday Family, shamisen and koto/Nakagawa and Oishi, percussion — Nonesuch Explorer Series H-72020:

A wonderful album of Japanese music drawn from ancient folk songs and played on traditional Japanese instruments. There are lullabies, drinking songs and music for dances to be performed in spring under the cherry blossoms. All is exquisite and easy on Western ears.

PAMELA JENKINS is featured in "Awemawae-Calinda," the Haitian mating dance, on the "Ballet Afro-Haiti" program to be performed twice, at 2 and 8 p.m., Sunday at Tamalpais High School by the Duncan Company.

CHRISTMAS COLORS

A Christmas chill
Came this morning . . .
Frost settled over our lawn,
And every blade of grass
Stood stiffly-white.
Mist clung heavily
In the air . . . changing my breath
To puffs of white . . .

Everything outside appeared whitish . . .
In a way.
Bare, lean tree branches
Bowed from great, spear-like icicles
Shining, sparkling in morning's sun.

Not everything was white and cold though.
Inside our house . . . and our hearts
Radiated a warmth of cheer;
Red, if one were to give it a color . . .
For this was Christmas morning.

Logging A Luxury Cruise

By MURRAY J. BROWN
UPI Travel Editor

The Travel Page

ABOARD THE M.S. EUROPA (UPI)—How can you visit foreign exotic lands without worrying about where to sleep, eat, have fun and some of the other problems which can plague the traveler on the go?

It's a cinch. Take a cruise.

We and about 470 other passengers found out how easy island hopping can be aboard North German Lloyd's Luxury liner Europa on a seven-port, 14-day cruise to the Caribbean from New York.

ONCE WE HAD unpacked our bags and settled down in our cabins, our worries were over. The 21,500-ton liner served as our floating hotel resort throughout, providing top accommodations and meals and a full schedule of entertainment and other activities in port as well as on the sea.

Ports of call included Puerto Rico, St. Croix and St. Thomas in the U.S. Virgin Islands, Guadeloupe in the French West Indies and the British-flavored islands of Grenada, Barbadoes and St. Vincent.

The outbound run from New York to San Juan, and the homeward leg from St. Thomas, took about three and a half days. The Caribbean itinerary was plotted so the Europa could cruise from island to island during the night.

WE SPENT ABOUT 10 to 18 hours on each of the seven islands, time enough for sightseeing, shopping, swimming and even to drink and dance or watch native entertainment at a local night club or bar. Many of the passengers arranged to return to the Europa for lunch and dinner, thus cutting down on expenses ashore.

Completely air-conditioned, the Europa operates as a one-class ship in cruise service with all passengers, regardless of their accommodations, enjoying the same privileges in the dining room and of all other public facilities. The Europa, which carries up to 786 passengers on trans-Atlantic voyages, restricts cruise passengers to a total of 478 so there is only one sitting for breakfast, lunch and dinner. There is room service, too, for those who prefer to dine alone.

AND WHAT meals!

The breakfast menu alone lists more than 100 items, including such hearty waker-ups as chicken livers with mushrooms in burgundy, sirloin steak with french fries, and steak tartare. Lunch and dinner are full-course (up to 10) meals of gourmet delights, featuring a choice of entrees a la German, French, American and other cuisines. And there is an excellent wine list with prices you can hardly afford to pass up.

Between meals, there are other things to do.

THERE ARE more than a score of public rooms aboard the Europa, including three lounges with music and entertainment, a swinging late-late night club, four indoor and outdoor bars, writing, reading and card rooms and a 200-seat theater. Church services are held daily in the theater by a Roman Catholic chaplain and a Protestant minister.

There's a gift shop, beauty salon and barber shop. Do-it-yourself laundry and pressing facilities are available.

The Europa has two pools—one outdoors on the Upper Deck and an indoor one below on A Deck complete with suana, massage parlors and a gym.

A PRINTED schedule of the day's events—when cruising or in port—is delivered daily to your cabin along with a resume of world news from United Press International.

Activities would include free dancing and German language lessons, calisthenics and golf classes, trap shooting, ping pong and shuffle-board, card games, bingo or horse racing games and a German brass band concert on deck.

A Different Kind Of Vacation On The Water

Once only in the domain of the wealthy few and still a favorite pastime of the so-called "beautiful people," private and semi-private yacht cruises in the Caribbean are now well within the range of many vacationers.

It really doesn't take much to transform the average business man, housewife, college student or secretary into a "beautiful person" cruising aboard a sleek sloop under sunny tropic skies.

According to the Caribbean Travel Association, all you need to join a "singles-only" semi-private schooner cruise for 10 to 16 passengers is a week's vacation and the $335 minimum rate for package seven-day trips through the U.S. and British Virgin Islands, including meals, sports equipment and round-trip jet fare from New York.

Similar cruises through the romantic Windward Islands and Grenadines start at $394.

Whether on a luxury or a thrift trip, passengers share the excitement of new landfalls, sometimes several a day, at islands ranging from lively and exotic to offbeat and uninhabited. Then, there's ample time for fishing, SCUBA and snorkeling, beach parties and most aquatic sports and fun with congenial outdoor-type people.

Yachts are available at most Caribbean islands — with rates often starting under $20 daily per person for experienced "bare boat" sailors who wish to provision and skipper their own sloop.

All-expense charter fees, generally including crew, meals and gear, start at about $20 daily per person.

NOTES TO TRAVEL BY

A booklet listing 1968-69 winter events in Switzerland plus some of next year's summer activities is available free from the Swiss National Tourist Office, 661 Market Street, San Francisco . . . Delivery of two more advance DC-9s to Air West has increased to 16 the number of Douglas twinjets that line has in operation . . . Air California has begun all-jet service between Hollywood-Burbank and San Jose-Oakland, with nine flights daily.

Reservations desks of Trans World Airlines are now offering up-to-the-minute reports on ski conditions in major winter resorts of the United States and Europe, collected by teletype. . . Greyhound is still accepting reservations for its New Year's holiday tour to Southern California for the Tournament of Roses Parade and game . . . Alitalia Airlines is featuring a ski vacation package to Europe that includes a self-drive car and a choice of accommodations at the Agip motels and hotels in Italian, Swiss and Austrian resort areas.

California's Colorful Past Recreated In Two New Works

By DON KEOWN

THE CALL TO CALIFORNIA by Richard F. Pourade; Copley, 193 pages, $9.50.

CALIFORNIA: AN ILLUSTRATED HISTORY by Don E. Fehrenbacher and Norman E. Tutorow; Van Nostrand, 184 pages, $12.50.

"The Call to California" is one of those unusual books in which the illustrator, rather than the author, merits top billing.

In this case, that illustrator is photographer Harry Crosby, who with his cameras has followed the tortuous route of the Don Gaspar de Portola-Fr. Junipero Serra expedition of 1769 from the Gulf of California to San Francisco Bay, recreating the trail and its surrounding terrain almost exactly as it was 200 years ago.

This involved 18 months of arduous labor and a muleback expedition of more than 500 miles.

Crosby sought out not only authenticity of locale, but also of season. Indeed, he insisted that the very flavor of his photographs reflect the countryside as the Spaniard had known it on their historic trek.

All this extraordinary effort was not wasted. Crosby has succeeded magnificiently with an assemblage of full-page pictures, some in color, that recaptures vividly the California of the past before white man began his alterations.

"Fortunately," it is explained, "much of California is still unspoiled, but for how long, nobody knows." One suspects Crosby acted none too soon.

In some few instances civilization had already caused such changes that photography could not regain the past. There paintings, beautifully done and reproduced double page in color, by gifted Lloyd Harting have been substituted, with a special impact of their own.

The text is by Richard F. Pourade, editor emeritus of the San Diego Union. His narration is entirely adequate, but hardly inspired, as he seems unable to rise above his years of newspaper writing and settles for not only the simplest but also the most prosaic where something more poetic would appear appropriate.

Thanks largely to Crosby's photographic achievements, with secondary credit to San Diego's The Copley Press for an exceptional job of design and printing, "The Call to California" is a book of lasting value and pleasure, certain to delight any California history or scenery buff who might find it beneath his Christmas tree.

ANOTHER BOOK that attempts to reproduce the past and relies heavily upon pictures to do so is "California: An Illustrated History," a collaborative effort by two Stanford University professors, Don E. Fehrenbacher and Norman E. Tutorow.

It covers a far more sweeping period of time than "The Call to California" with the greatest attention, however, focused upon the state's 20th Century explosion.

Within the limited space available to them, Tutorow and Fehrenbacher have done a workmanlike job of condensing a chronicle that is too broad and too complex to lend itself readily to that kind of treatment. They succeed in presenting for quick-reading a generally informative and fairly interesting summarization of how California has become what it is today.

But it is the illustrations that are the book's selling point. They have been gathered from many diverse sources and undoubtedly constitute a collection of Californiana that will keep students of the subject engrossed for hours. There are old (and not so old) photographs and paintings. There are handbills, cartoons and advertisements as well. Two hundred and ninety in all.

Unfortunately, the book does not completely avoid the hodgepodge scrapbook look in its handling of this material. And the pictures are reproduced on a lesser quality paper than is generally used for books in the gift price range.

Still, there is considerable fun in thumbing through its pages and enjoying the pictures. And there is at least sufficient meat to the text to justify its reading.

DEALING WITH a subject that should be of special interest — and a source of considerable embarrassment — to Californians is the University of California Press-published "Prejudice, War and the Constitution."

It is a study of, not our present crises, but the World War II evacuation of Japanese-Americans from their homes — one of the unhappiest and least defensible acts in U.S. history.

Co-authors Jacobus tenBroek, Edward N. Barnhart and Floyd W. Matson compiled a careful and scholarly probe into the causes of the act, including both the long-seated anti-Oriental prejudice and the wartime hyteria of the moment, and also analyzed its longer term consequences.

The book first appeared in 1954, but has now reappeared in a third printing, both as a $2.25 paperback and $7.50 hardcover.

UNIVERSITY OF California Press has published a small handbook, "Native Shrubs of the San Francisco Bay Region," likely to find a considerable audience among nature-loving Marinites.

Roxana S. Ferris has written the text describing with scientific accuracy, yet in laymen's terms, the shrubbery of the nine counties that touch the bay plus Santa Cruz County, and the $1.75 paperback has been illustrated with color plates as well as drawings. It is part of the university's excellent California Natural History Gudes series being edited by Arthur C. Smith.

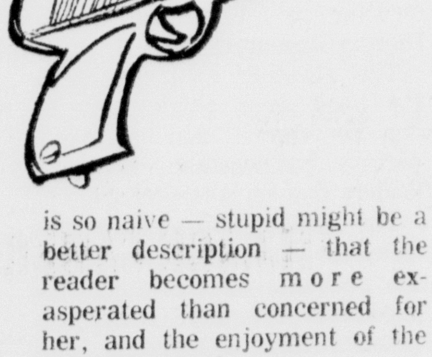
JAMES YAFFE'S "The American Jews: Portrait of a Split Personality" has been designated by Book-of-the-Month Club as its alternate selection for January.

FORMER New York Times reporter David Halberstam, now a contributing editor to Harper's magazine, and Random House are rushing for Jan. 27 publication "The Unfinished Odyssey of Robert Kennedy," a 60,000-word book covers the last months in the life of the late U. S. senator and presidential aspirant.

THE PEOPLE, simple and dignified, living in the high hills of the Himalayas, share honors with majestic mountains in the Sierra Club Exhibit Format Series book "Everest: The West Ridge" that has now been published by Ballantine Books as a $3.95 paperback. It is Thomas Hornbein's account of the first attempt to scale Everest's western spine. Photo above is by James Lester.

Sleuths & Suspense

STRANGER WITH MY FACE by Patricia McGerr; Luce, 182 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.



A "damsel in distress" suspense yarn, Miss McGerr has given this novel added interest with a colorful international background.

Susan Wills, a young divorcee, sails for Europe in an attempt to forget her past and problems. On shipboard, she becomes involved with two young men. And in Italy, her relationship with one of them deepens and begins to take on sinister undertones. The climax comes in Yugoslavia.

As so often happens with stories of this kind, the heroine is so naive — stupid might be a better description — that the reader becomes more exasperated than concerned for her, and the enjoyment of the book is marred.

Still, it is a generally engaging piece of escapist reading, particularly suited to women fans of the suspense genre.

A Critical Look At The 'Sports Nut'

THE RIVALS by Jerry Izenberg; Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 284 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Jerry Izenberg, a syndicated columnist with the S. I. Newhouse newspaper chain, has written a different kind of sports book.

Despite his title, his primary focus is not upon the competitors, but upon the spectators, and specifically upon those followers who in their rabid devotion to certain teams or individuals tend to disport themselves more like raving maniacs than reasoning human beings.

Izenberg traces a number of athletic contentions that have triggered such fanatical reactions.

There's Army vs. Notre Dame, with the Irish's Subway Alumni behaving like hooligans; there's Arnold Palmer vs. Jack Nicklaus on the golf course, with Arnie's Army acting more like rabble than the usually disciplined onlookers of a gentleman's game; there's the Giants (New York version) vs. the Dodgers (Brooklyn brand) with their rooters stopping not even at murder. There's Roger Maris vs. the ghost of Babe Ruth, and the unbelievable abuse heaped by the Ruthian cult against the interloper who was threatening their long cherished myths.

We don't remember everything the way Izenberg recalls it. But perhaps the difference is geographical.

In the Midwest where we lived, for instance, there was no great nationalistic rallying behind Joe Louis for his return bout with Max Schmeling. Racial bigotry outweighed fear or distrust of Nazi Germany. Most boxing "nuts" were willing to accept a white hope for the heavyweight championship, regardless of nationality. Nor were Midwesterners particularly incensed by Adolph Hitler's supposed snub of America's Negro trackmen at the 1936 Olympics. Kansans were more concerned that their own Glenn Cunningham win his mile event (he didn't).

But Izenberg is writing mainly about New Yorkers, who as sports fans are a breed apart, representing both the best and the worst in the ranks of the followers of athletics.

Izenberg has emphasized that "worst." He demonstrates that sportsmanship is more likely to be found on the playing field than in the grandstand. But whether proof of this is needed is problematical. It would seem that anyone concerned with sports, and retaining some semblance of balance, cannot help but realize that a good many of his fellow addicts have a distressing tendency to act like children if not like mindless idiots.

What is more to the point is the question: Why do they so behave? But that is a question to be answered by psychiatrists. And Izenberg is a sportswriter. As such, he has performed his function in writing a book that poses the question as well as entertains.

The 29th U.S. President

THE SHADOW OF BLOOMING GROVE by Francis Russell; McGraw-Hill, 666 pages, $10 until Jan. 1, then $12.50. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

It has been 45 years since President Warren Gamalial Harding died of apoplexy on Aug. 2, 1923, in San Francisco's Palace Hotel, yet in all that time no full-length biography of the 29th President of the United States has been published.

Harding's administration has come to be remembered for the scandals which involved several of the President's appointees — scandals which began to come to light as Harding was touring the nation to lay the groundwork for his re-election, and which may have hastened his death.

Francis Russell has tried to fill the void with "The Shadow of Blooming Grove: Warren G. Harding and His Times." He has given us a detailed, well-researched and readable account of Harding's life. If the well-meaning Ohio newspaper publisher, whose abilities were not inconsiderable, remains as neglected by biographers as he has to date, this may have to stand as the definitive Harding biography.

Russell tries to deal fairly by Harding. He avoids the prejudices attached to the President for the deeds of his underlings. Unfortunately, however, the author has many prejudices of his own, and he is unable to suppress them.

The title itself hints the nature of the treatment. The "shadow" referred to is the claim that Negro blood flowed in Harding's veins—a story that was picked up and made much of in whispering campaigns by his political opponents, and which had dogged at least two generations of Hardings despite no evidence to back it up. Russell makes much of it; one feels it bothers him more than it did Harding.

The writer had obtained letters written by Harding to Carrie Phillips, the "other woman" in the future President's life for many years before Nan Britton appeared on the scene. Court action by the Harding family prevented him from including extracts from the letters in the volume; but instead of just removing the references, he left a series of blanks to indicate each place where one of the love notes had been quoted.

These add nothing to the book; on the contrary, they detract from it.

Russell finds it hard to ever refer to Harry Daughterty without alluding to the fact that the attorney general had a cast in one eye. Like a Time magazine writer, he feels he must include an adjective in each identification: "creaky Chief Justice White," "the protean Harding," etc. The book's attempted objectivity is further damaged by these.

"The Shadow of Blooming Grove" will give the reader a much better understanding of Warren Harding, who must have been one of the most likeable men ever to occupy the White House, and was certainly not the least able. But it is hoped a writer with a broader view may yet do better justice to the 29th President.

Shells And A Shop

SHE SELLS SEASHELLS by Veronica P. Jones; Funk and Wagnalls, 198 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Jean Day.

Veronica Johns would do well to widen the door of the "little outpost on Third Avenue" where she sells seashells.

By the time one finishes the story of her involvement with seashells and her acquisition of the shop, the resolution to see it all and to know her better is firm.

Besides being a delightful and absorbing tale, the jacket is illustrated with some of the beautiful subjects, all properly identified. Inside the covers and at the head of each chapter are shaded black and white drawings which are a delight to the eye. Since the author is admittedly a dedicated seashell buff, her enthusiasm is sure to make converts.

She devotes one chapter to the neglect of the subject in museums throughout the land. If her missionary work is successful, there should be some mad scrambling in the basements of some of them to set up a decent and informative display.

The December publication date makes the book a little late for this year's Christmas list, but it should be a popular gift item. The recipient should be selected with care, however, because a mild addict of seashell worshipping could be driven into the hard-core camp by this delightful tract.

SHORT REPORTS ON SOME NEW BOOKS

THE COMPLETE BOOK OF ENTERTAINING by Nata Lee; Hawthorn, 276 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

This is a revised edition of a guide by one of the country's best-known party-givers that first appeared in 1961.

Miss Lee has brought her well-accepted handbook up to date with the latest ideas for hostesses.

The book is divided into two parts. The first half covers the "idea" field — and covers it well — with answers to the problems that confront the party-giver as she plans her fete. The second half is an excellent collection of recipes especially suited to entertaining.

A Christmas buffet menu, the wording of the formal invitation, the mixing of a drink, introductions, the guest list, a party service chart, the recipes for cherry upside-down cake and for linzer cookies — all are there. For the woman who entertains often — or even fairly frequently — the book is a most worthwhile acquisition.

BUSINESS LEADERSHIP AND THE NEGRO CRISIS edited by Eli Ginzberg; McGraw-Hill, 175 pages $5.95. Reviewed by Harry Craft.

The book is the outgrowth of a conference on urban minority problems at Columbia University, where Dr. Ginzberg is a professor of economics at the Graduate School of Business and director of Conservation of Human Resources.

The 11 other contributors to the book were participants in the conference and are important businessman, Negro leaders and social scientists.

The writers outline their respective viewpoints identifying the problems of absorbing Negroes into American society and present their respective solutions. Discussed are the phasing out of former sophisticated Negro middle-class under the old segregation pattern and the need to create conditions which will allow black people to emerge from their traditionally low status in the total economy.

The opportunities and responsibilities of private business in this program are enumerated and major moves in this direction are cited, such as accomplishments of the life insurance industry in arranging long term financing to help solve the problem of urban blight in the ghettoes.

Other subjects include both problem causes and suggested remedies in the areas of education, housing, business and government employment, city planning and growth of Negro initiative and opportunities in business.

THE YOGA WAY TO FIGURE AND FACIAL BEAUTY by Richard L. Hittleman; Hawthorn, 205 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

His television program and his books have made Richard Hittleman the western world's foremost exponent of Hatha Yoga. In the Bay Area, his show, carried several times a week on KQED (Channel 9), has won a large and devoted following.

This, his newest book, differs from its predecessors in that it is aimed specifically at women, and at aiding them with their personal appearance problems.

Hittleman, with the help of photographs of a demonstrating model, prescribes a series of Yoga postures and exercises which he says are especially helpful in attaining the attractive figure and face to which all women aspire. Particular exercises for particular trouble areas of the body are specified. Breathing, diet and emotional serenity and stability also come in for brief discussion.

Women following the Hittleman TV show will no doubt want to avail themselves of this newest book by a veteran practitioner who has played a major role in America's current state of Yoga consciousness.

SOME NEW BOOKS FOR THE JUNIORS

Doubleday has issued a number of books in two series of exceptional caliber for children of the fourth through sixth grade level whose interests lie in the arts and sciences.

An "Art For Children" series spotlights three contemporary artists —Marc Chagall, Pablo Picasso and Paul Klee.

Ernest Raboff has written the texts for all three, using an attractive hand lettering and his years of experience in art to outline briefly the biographies of the painters, and then to discuss with fine cogency and clarity the special merits and qualities of the selected artwork that has been reproduced — approximately 15 color reproductions for each artist plus a number of smaller drawings and designs.

These are books designed and executed for youngsters who will find them attractive without being overpowering, informative without being pedantic.

The price, $3.95 per book, is quite reasonable, considering content and presentation.

The books represent an unusual opportunity to whet a child's interest in 20th Century art, or even to create one where none exists today.

The "A Wonderful World. . ." series carries the same price tag, and also represents a high degree of accomplishment in juvenile publishing.

"The Wonderful World of Music" is by Benjamin Britten and Imogen Holst, telling the story of how this art has developed through the ages. "The Wonderful World of Archaeology" is by Ronald Jessup and details how man has gone about re-discovering his past. Lancelot Hogben is the author of both "The Wonderful World of Energy," detailing how man has harnessed and used power, and "The Wonderful World of Mathematics," tracing man's use of numerals from their beginning to the technological present.

All the authors, of course, are persons of eminence in the fields in which they write. And all four books have been splendidly illustrated. They represent the kind of respectful treatment which more serious and curious young readers deserve.

There have, incidentally, been a number of earlier books published in "The Wonderful World. . ." series.

Some other new books for the juniors:

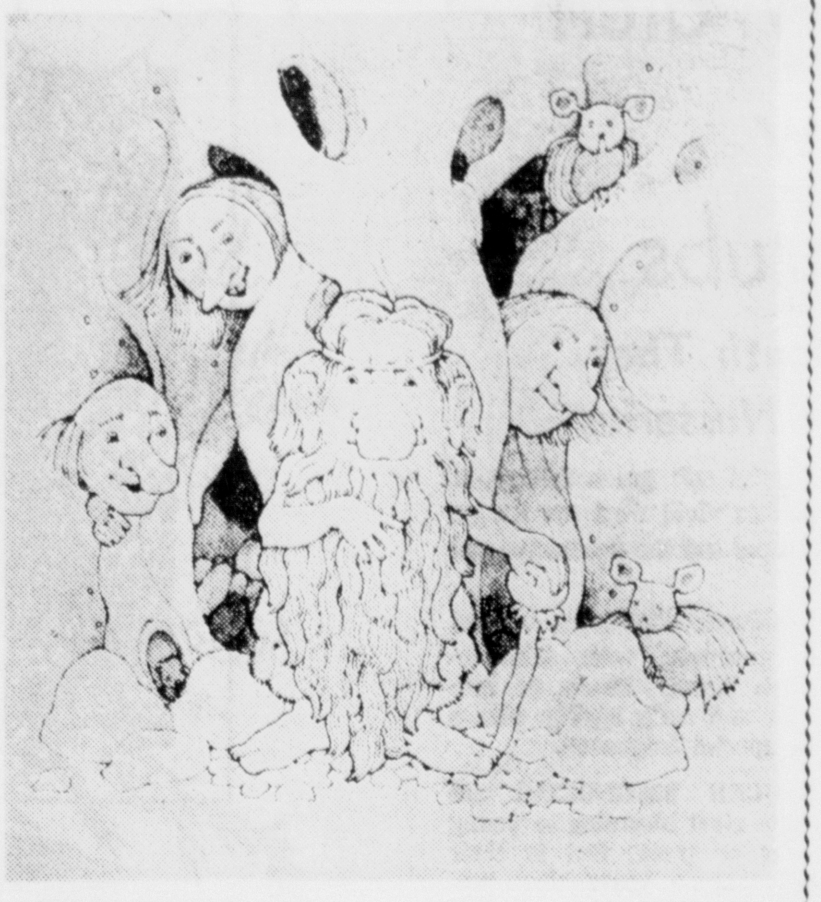
Willy Ley possesses the skill of luring any reasonably intelligent reader, young or old, to awaken to things scientific that the reader may have studiously shunned before. A prime example is his latest book "Inside the Orbit of the Earth" (McGraw-Hill, $4.50). Ley recounts the history of scientific study of Venus, Mercury, and mysteries of the solar system, along with a healthy lesson in terminology and math — all in most enjoyable terms. The illustrations by Rino Dussi are unusually good.

Jeffrey Ashford is a successful English writer, largely in the adult mystery novel genre, who is also a knowledgeable automobile buff. He uses that interest extensively in his "Grand Prix Monaco" (Putnam's, $3.29). Young driver Dick Knox survives a bad wreck in his Formula I racing car and attempts a comeback, climaxed by an exciting competition at Monte Carlo. Television and newspaper sports pages have been focusing increased attention upon Grand Prix racing, thereby building interest in the sport. Young fans will be delighted by the manner in which Ashford has loaded his book with automotive lore without in any way interfering with the pace of his story.

Every region abounds with spectral legends, and the American West is no exception. "Great Ghost Stories of the Old West" (Four Winds, $3.38), edited by Betty Baker, proves the point. It is a collection of seven yarns about ghostly goings-on, some coming from the Indians, some from the Spanish and some from the early Anglo-Saxon settlers, as retold by leading members of the Western Writers of America. There are ghost riders, phantom trains, monsters and a hexer. Pre-teens and early teens who like western history or ghost stories, or both, will eat it up.

An adventure book from Norway is "Olaf and the Echoing Cave" (McGraw-Hill, $4.95) by Bjorn Rongen, translated by Evelyn Ramsden. A 9-year-old goatherd is trapped in a cave with his charges by a landslide. The courageous and ingenious lad's fight for survival of himself and his goats while rescue efforts go on outside makes for a thrilling fact-based yarn for young boys.

Watercolor illustrations of delicacy and beauty are in themselves enough to lift "The Kingfishers" (Funk & Wagnalls, $4.95) out of the ordinary. But the text, by Karel Novy, is also exceptional. It follows dramatically the lives of a kingfisher pair through one year. While it is the kind of book where animals converse, it is, nevertheless, true to nature. Both Novy and the gifted illustrator, Mirko Hanak, are well known in their native Czechoslovakia where this book was first published five years ago. This is the first English translation.



THIS ILLUSTRATION by Jeanette Winter is from her book, "The Christmas Visitors," published by Pantheon.

Be On The Watch For The New Flowering Shrubs

December Is The Month They Start Showing Up In Nurseries

The new deciduous shrub and tree stock is beginning to show up in Marin's nurseries.

By late this month, they should be in full supply.

Keep your eyes open between now and then, for generally, the early purchasers get the choice shrubs. And watch especially for the deciduous shrubs that flower.

Marinites can choose from among a wide assortment of such shrubs that thrive in our climate.

THE FLOWERING quince, for instance, is a well-established favorite with Marinites. No longer do you have to choose a quince that flowers in white, in red, or in pink. You can pick the newer Fascination, which blooms with all three hues on the same blossom.

The pomegranate has an exotic sound, but it is well suited to Marin conditions. Along with delightful soft green foliage, it produces vivid red-orange blossoms and the decorative red fruit.

Deciduous viburnums reward the gardener with white-to-pinkish flower heads in late winter and early spring, plus a very special fragrance.

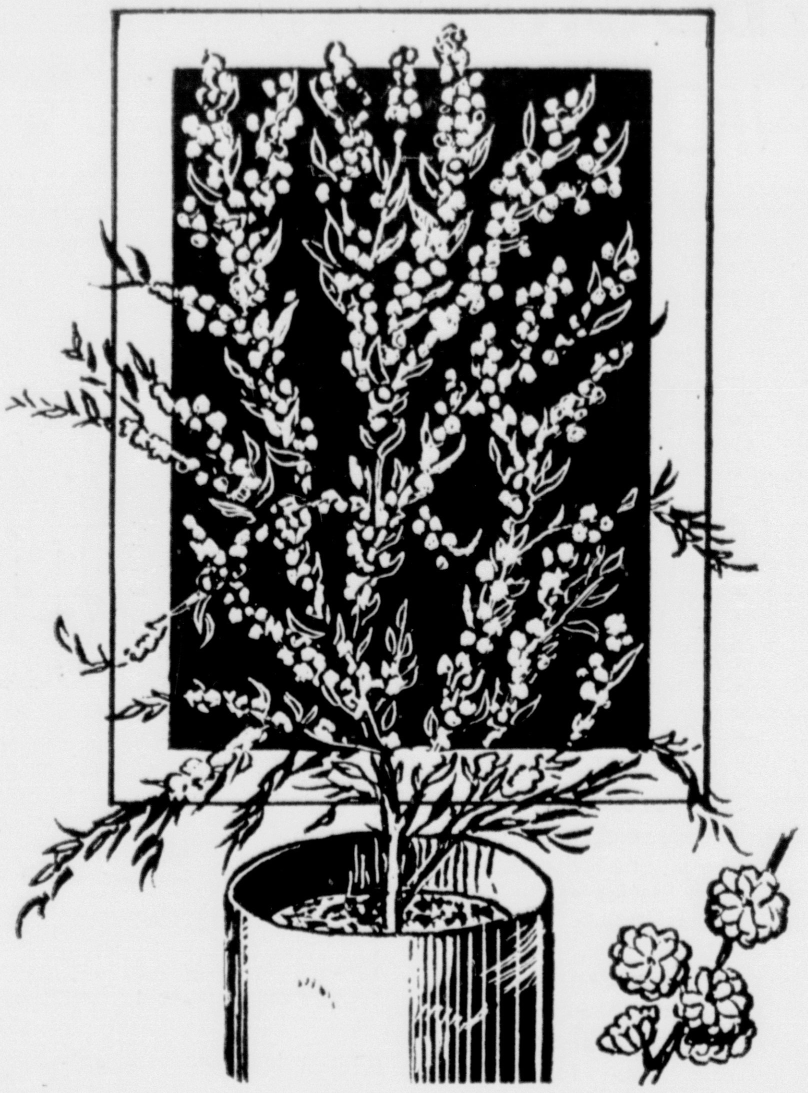
SAUCER MAGNOLIAS are slow to start blooming as young shrubs or trees. But in their more mature years they produce a profusion of tulip-like flowers of white, pink and even purple.

The star magnolia starts showing off, right from the beginning, with scads of white blooms.

Among the deciduous trees now available, or soon to be available in bareroot form, are the flowering fruits such as flowering peaches (red, white, pink and variegated), flowering cherries (pink and red) and flowering plums (pink and white blooming with a special treat in purple foliage).

SOME GARDENERS shy away from deciduous shrubs and trees because they drop their leaves in the winter time.

What they overlook is that their return to life after winter's sleep is one of the joyous harbingers of spring, making the season of rebirth all the more meaningful to the proud owners of such shrubs.



Garden Page

SPIREA IS a deciduous flowering shrub with nostalgic appeal for many who remember when grandma used to grow it in her garden. But it is still popular in landscaping today. There are many types of spirea available. And they provide generous quantities of red, white and pink flowers. Like so many other deciduous flowering shrubs, the plants are literally smothered with bloom. Fast approaching is the time when Marin's nurseries will be crowded with these and many other deciduous favorites, ready for your garden. For The Perfect Christmas Present, Pick A Plant

It is worth repeating that a plant makes the perfect Christmas gift for the gardening enthusiast.

Give him or her a choice rhododendron or camellia, and you have a happy recipient. It is a gift, too, that will continue for years to come to remind him of your friendship and generosity.

There are other possibilities besides rhododendrons and camellias.

AZALEAS, FOR instance, are always appreciated. So is a blooming chrysanthemum. Or a pot of heather. Or any indoor foliage plant.

Remember, too, that the first bareroot roses generally show up in Marin nurseries just a few days prior to Christmas Day. Have your nurseryman set aside one for you, and notify you when it arrives.

For elegance, there is always the orchid, although these generally should be reserved for orchid enthusiasts with the proper facilities and sufficient time to care for them. The cattleya orchids, however, can be treated very much like any other house plant or given a spot in the shade garden without requiring too much special attention.

FOR THE indoor gardener, the African violet is another excellent choice. And the cyclamen is also a sure-pleaser.

If there's a name or two on your gift list for whom you just haven't been able to come up with a proper present, give some thought to these plants. In Marin, it seems, just about everybody is a gardener at heart.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- ✓Snails and slugs are especially active in cool weather. Furthermore, rain washes out the effectiveness of your bait. So put out fresh bait regularly and frequently.
- ✓Remember that garden tools make a perfect inexpensive Christmas gift for the "green thumber."
- ✓Check your nursery for camellias in bloom. You can choose the exact flower form and color that you need for your garden.
- ✓Plant perennials of all kinds from nursery flats. Divide older crowded clumps of perennials in the garden.
- ✓Most homeowners wait until February to start their crabgrass control program. But there is no reason why you can't begin now and get the jump on this pest.
- ✓Keep your poinsettias, chrysanthemums and other indoor holiday season plants well watered. Indoor heat dries them out quickly.

The Wonderful Future Of Plastics

Handyman's Page

The rapidly advancing technology of plastics has added to the beauty, economy, health, safety, convenience, comfort and pleasure of modern living.

But the really stunning wonders of plastics are yet to come — and they won't be long in getting here.

Experts predict that by 1980, if not even sooner, the role of plastics in home construction, furnishing, decorating, labor-saving and pleasure-giving will be little short of breathtaking.

HERE ARE some of the forecasts of plastic wonders to come:

Completely unitized kitchens and bathrooms, as well as other rooms perhaps, which can be slipped into construction frames of homes or apartment buildings as single units.

All-plastic furniture. One executive of a leading furniture manufacturing concern foresees a complete switch-over to plastics from wood, except for antiques and some of the very highest-priced furniture.

"Atomic wood" for furniture and other applications where wood is now employed. This is a newly developed plastics-impregnated, irradiated wood which possesses properties of both plastics and wood plus some new characteristics.

Virtually all-plastic refrigerators, washers, dryers, dishwashers and air conditioners.

Computerized home operation for the housewife. Through a number of devices made practical and economical through plastics, the housewife before retiring for the night will be able to press a series of buttons to program all her needs on tape for preparing and serving food the next day, for housecleaning, for shopping and delivery of goods and even for payment.

Plastic homes. Many plastic materials already are being used for current interior wall, floor and partition construction. The future is expected to bring even more extensive use for siding and roofing. Such plastics will require no maintenance or painting and can be installed much more easily than current materials.

Packaging. Many of today's food and other products now come from the store encased in protective plastics. The outlook is for a phenomenal increase in this respect.

Household utilities. Plastic piping shows prospect of replacing other materials in the future because of ease of installation, strength, flexibility and economy.

Home furnishings. Here again plastics will prevail — for carpeting, upholstery, draperies, mattresses, pillows, windows, lighting fixtures, unbreakable light bulbs, patio furniture, awnings, fencing and electronic devices of many kinds.

THERE'LL BE other such items as plastic film chairs and couches which can be inflated and hardened into solid furniture, or other types which can be left springy and buoyant after inflation.

One startling prospect which should gladden the heart of every housewife would be a machine for making disposable plastic dishware quickly and cheaply as needed.

A series of dies would give the housewife a choice of styles. Such a machine could completely eliminate dish washing and storage, and the machine itself would occupy far less space in the kitchen than is now used for dinnerware storage.

ALL THIS IS only a small sampling of what can be expected.

HOLIDAY SEASON programs will lend a special sparkle to the television programming during the week ahead. One of the best of them will be a repeat showing by CBS of its "The Nutcracker," the Tchaikovsky ballet based on the E. T. A. Hoffman fairytale and filmed in West Germany. Traudl Mittermayer, at top, is cast as Little Klara whose dreams give birth to the fantasy land in which the ballet takes place. Edward Villella and Melissa Hayden of the New York City Ballet, in bottom photo, are among the dancers who perform. The spectacular color show will be carried Friday at 7:30 p.m. on Channels 5 and 10, climaxing a week of Christmas programming and marking the start of a weekend crowded with even more specials.
